HITLER PURGE RAKES EUROPE

AMERICAN ARMS EXPERTS SET UP STAFF IN RUSSIA

Plan to Advise Reds on U. S. Weapons.

'Peace Offer' Rumor!

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 [Special]. — Reports from Moscow mentioned discreetly in foreign diplomatic circles here today were to the effect that Adolf Hitler has made a "liberal peace offer" to Josef Stalin, and that there has been no rejection of it by the soviet dictator. The diplomatic quarters citing the report are not closely identified with any of the belligerents, it was said. Details of the "peace offer" were not available. No such reports have been received by the United States, as far as could be learned.

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Oct. 2. — Arrangements already have been made to speed up and amplify British and American deliveries of war materials to soviet Russia and a staff of American experts will remain here to supervise maintenance of American equipment and give instructions in its use.

W. Averell Harriman.

This was disclosed today at a joint press conference of W. Averell Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook, heads of the American and British missions here, discussing their three day conference with the Russians.

The talk with reporters followed an exceedingly cordial Kremlin dinner party for the staffs of the three delegations, at which Premier Josef Stalin entertained lavishly from 6 p. m. yesterday until 1:30 a. m. today, and toasts were drunk in honor of the three collaborating nations and their statesmen.

"Stalin Works with Speed."

"I must say that Mr. Stalin works with great speed, frankness and ability, and, to boot, he is patient," Harriman told the press conference, "and Lord Beaverbrook is the best partner I have ever had to do business with."

"I cannot say enough about the fine attitude of the Russians," Lord Beaverbrook declared. "They showed the most extraordinary aptitude for understanding and sympathy with our problems, and of course they are as pleased as can be. They gave us all the necessary information. You will find them very happy. You will find them delighted with what we have done."

Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook disclosed that they had delivered personal letters from President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to Stalin.

Met Each Night at Kremlin.

Discussing the conference deliberations Lord Beaverbrook said "each committee handed in a report and all were coördinated at the Kremlin—We meet every night at the Kremlin—Mr. Stalin, the three chairmen, and Mr. Litvinov [Maxim Litvinov, former foreign minister], who interpreted—to discuss the detailed reports."

Lord Beaverbrook said every effort is being made to speed up aid to Russia.

Harriman stated that Col. Philip Faymonville, former American military attaché to the American embassy in Moscow, will be in charge of the American specialists who will be attached to the staff of the embassy and constitute a counterpart to the British military and economic missions permanently stationed here.

Technicians from U. S.

Other technicians also will come from the United States "in connection with education in and maintenance of the equipment coming," he said.

An exclusive memorandum incorporating the results of the conference and based on the reports of the six special committees which studied the soviet military needs and the British-American potentialities of fulfilling them was signed late today by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Lord Beaverbrook, and Harriman.

YANKS, DODGERS EVEN; PLAY 3D IN BROOKLYN TODAY

The Yankees and the Dodgers, all square in the world series after two games in Yankee stadium, will move into Ebbets field, Brooklyn, today for the third battle. Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees said his pitching choice would lie between Marius Russo, a left hander, and Atley Donald, a right hander. Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers was undecided between Kirby Higbe and Fred Fitzsimmons, both right handers. Brooklyn won the second game yesterday, 3 to 2, behind the pitching of Whitlow Wyatt. Dolph Camilli's single in the sixth inning was the decisive hit.

The White Sox and Cubs, who were rained out after three scoreless innings of the second game of the city series in Wrigley field yesterday, will resume play under the lights of Comiskey park tonight. The Sox, who won the only game played to date, will start Southpaw Eddie Smith against the Cubs' Vern Olsen.

F. D. R. DEFENSE OF RED RELIGION STIRS UP STORM

White House Makes Effort to Explain.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2. — The White House was showered today with letters and telegrams ridiculing President Roosevelt's contention that freedom of religion exists under the soviet constitution on the same basis as in the United States.

As a result of this storm of protest, Mr. Roosevelt took the unusual step of ordering the release of a transcription of his remarks. This action was taken, it was stated, because of some misquotations which had appeared.

Hits at Interpretations.

"Because of the varied and conflicting 'interpretations' of the remarks made by the President in answer to a newspaper man's inquiry at the press conference last Tuesday," the White House statement read, "the verbatim transcription of the stenographic records of that conference is hereby released and permission given for its direct quotation.

"Since the soviet constitution declares that freedom of religion is granted, it is hoped that in the light of the report of the Polish ambassador an entering wedge for the practice of complete freedom of religion is definitely on its way."

The state department on Tuesday released a letter received from the Polish ambassador, stating that the soviet government was permitting the Poles in Russia to exercise freedom of worship.

Recommends Reading of Article.

Asked to comment upon the Polish ambassador's letter, Mr. Roosevelt, according to the official transcript, said:

"As I think I suggested a week or two ago, some of you might find it useful to read article 124 of the constitution of Russia."

"What does that say, Mr. President?" a reporter asked.

"Well, I haven't learned it by heart sufficiently to quote," replied Mr. Roosevelt, "I might be off a little bit, but anyway: 'Freedom of conscience—freedom of religion. Freedom equally to use propaganda against religion,' which is essentially what is the rule in this country, only we don't put it quite the same way.

"For instance, you might go out tomorrow—to the corner of Pennsylvania avenue, down below the Press club—and stand on a soap box and preach Christianity and nobody would stop you. And then, if it got into your head, perhaps the next day preach against religion of all kinds, and nobody would stop you."

Linked With Vatican Talks.

The capital buzzed with speculation concerning the President's reasons for comparing the soviet constitution's guarantee of religious freedom with our own constitutional guaran-

LENINGRAD ARMY HURLS GERMANS OUT OF TRENCHES

Moscow declared today Red infantry charges are throwing the Germans out of their trenches before Leningrad. Soviet marines, it was reported, have landed on the Gulf of Finland coast west of Leningrad and dug in to harass the Nazi flanks. German long range guns which have been shelling one district of Leningrad were said to have been silenced.

An unconfirmed report attributed to the Moscow radio military commentator asserted that the Russians had broken thru the German lines southeast of Leningrad and effected a junction with Red troops coming from the south.

Berlin and Moscow dispatches agreed that fierce battles were raging in southern Russia along the shores of the Black and Azov seas. Germans asserted the Russians were fighting with their backs to the sea under violent aerial attack and claimed that the Nazi land offensive was pressing on east of the Dnieper river toward the rich Donetz basin.

'Chutist Lands 1,280 Feet Up; Stuck There!

Sundance, Wyo., Oct. 2 [Special].—High atop the 1,280 foot Devil's tower a lonely parachutist was marooned tonight. He had won a bet by making a parachute leap from a plane to the tower's two acre summit. To collect the bet, however, was another matter. He must descend 800 feet of sheer rock to reach safety.

The stranded parachutist is George Hopkins. Standing on the brink of the rocky formation at sundown he bellowed thru a megaphone to nearly 100 would-be rescuers far below that he was "going to bed."

Only a few minutes earlier he had thrilled and chilled the same crowd when he attempted a descent by rope, under the focused glare of automobile headlights, but his foot slipped and he clambered quickly to the top.

Second Night on Tower.

When Hopkins, a former instructor of members of the British royal air force in training in the United States, waved good night, he began his second night on the tower. He landed by parachute yesterday after bailing out from a plane piloted by Joe Quinn of Rapid City, S. D., to win a wager from Early Brocklesby of that city. There were some reports that the stunt was also motivated to drum up attention for a parachute leaping event in Rapid City, Oct. 2.

In any event, Hopkins was unable to descend. Not more than 40 persons have climbed and descended the perilous monolith. Its highest point is 1,280 feet above the surrounding plain, but its shortest side and the side which climbers use, is about 800 feet. [This is still almost twice the 473 foot height of Tribune Tower.]

Top Two Acres in Area.

Devil's tower is a geological freak, made of a granitelike substance. Its sides above the ruffle base are almost vertical and mostly smooth, altho marked with a number of man made crevices and pegs for footholds. The summit is about two acres in area, on which may be found some sagebrush, ferns, and moss.

Word of Hopkins' predicament spread and veteran mountain climbers from the Black Hills were hurriedly sent to the peak, in charge of N. F. Joyner, custodian of the natural monument.

Lines, food, a tent, blankets, kindling wood, a hatchet and a megaphone were dropped to Hopkins from planes during the day; also, written instructions on how to get down.

MINISTER HOLDS RED PARTY IS NOT LOYAL TO BRITAIN

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison said today that "in the view of the government the communist party is not loyal to this country" and indicated the government still would not permit the Daily Worker to resume publication.

He declined to reply when asked whether that meant that he believed "the friends of Hitler are loyal to this country" and whether there was "any legal reason" why the suppression of the Daily Worker, a communist newspaper, should continue.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Morrison both have repeatedly indicated that the British-Russian alliance made no change in their opposition to the communist organization in Britain.

FORMER JUSTICE BRANDEIS HAS HEART SEIZURE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Former Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis was reported gravely ill tonight after a heart attack.

A close friend of the Brandeis family disclosed the retired jurist, who will be 85 years old next Nov. 13, suffered the attack yesterday and had been constantly under a physician's care since.

Appointed to the court by President Wilson, Brandeis became the teammate of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes in frequent dissenting opinions.

Brandeis retired from the Supreme court on Feb. 13, 1939, after serving 23 years.

The Police Are Amazed at Life of Mrs. Reilly

Mrs. Margaret Reilly, a small auburn haired woman, known to police as an expert "moll buzzer" and lifter of "sleepers," sat in the detective bureau last night and listened calmly and smilingly while her record was read. It took 10 minutes to read, listing 66 offenses in Chicago and other large cities, dating to 1908.

A "moll buzzer" in crime jargon is a woman pickpocket. A "sleeper" is a woman's purse left carelessly on a store counter while the owner shops. It is in lifting such purses and rapidly emptying them of cash that Mrs. Reilly excels, police charge.

The Way She Feels.

"And why not?" Mrs. Reilly said last night. "If I don't take the purses, somebody else will. It teaches those women a lesson. Finders keepers, losers weepers—that's the way I feel."

A suspicious salesman halted Mrs. Reilly yesterday afternoon. But she talked plausibly and no purse was found on her so she was not held. Then she went to another store.

Here she committed her profession's unpardonable sin — a stolen purse was found in her possession. It belonged to Mrs. Jean Hutchison, 7861 South Shore drive, who said $95 was missing.

Sergt. Leo Wolf, riding to the detective bureau with Mrs. Reilly, saw her jaws moving rapidly. He stuck his finger in her mouth. Mrs. Reilly bit the finger. What looked like currency vanished down her throat.

Cache in Hair.

Police Matron Mary McKune searched her at the bureau. She could find nothing until she examined Mrs. Reilly's hair. There, done up in heavy knots of tresses, were two little bundles—one of $95, the other of $35.

At the showup, Deputy Chief Walter Storms began to read Mrs. Reilly's record. He was about half way thru when she spoke up: "God help the Reillys." Some of her aliases in the record—which Storms said was the longest he had ever seen—were Queenie Thompson, Marie Kelly, Belle Evans, Alice Brennan, and Elizabeth Moore.

Later, as the record was being read in full, Mrs. Reilly said it must have been some other woman.

Police told her that fingerprints definitely identified her 33 years back.

"I'm no greenhorn," she flared. "My ancestors didn't come over on the Mayflower. They were waiting here when that boat came in."

Legion's Ranks Open Fight on Prowar Stand

BY THOMAS MORROW.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Portland, Ind., Oct. 2.—The growing protest against the prowar resolution rushed thru the American Legion national convention in Milwaukee, begun as a local Legion post action in this town of more than 5,000 persons, gave promise tonight of becoming nation-wide.

The resentment of rank and file Legionnaires for what they called steamroller methods used at the Legion convention by administration dominated officials, heretofore limited to surface mutterings, came into the open with the vote of Portland's Robert Guy Ayers post, No. 211. The members condemned in a mail referendum the action of the national convention and urged that no American troops be sent to fight on foreign shores. The vote was 101 to 34, with 3 cards returned unmarked.

Applaud Results of Poll.

At a meeting here tonight, where the result of the vote was reported and applauded, Clarence E. Benadum, attorney, Legionnaire, and candidate for governor of Indiana at the last election, spoke to the Legion members.

"I have been invited to attend a national meeting in Chicago," said Benadum, "within or without the Legion, to feel the pulse of the veterans on the quest of an AEF. We plan to take a rank and file vote and make the result known to the public.

"The serious question of sending an AEF to Europe was not submitted to Legion members, nor even discussed generally, prior to the convening of the national meeting where an unofficial, unwarranted, and un-American declaration of war was made."

Benadum refused to enlarge on this statement except to say that the time and place of the meeting would be announced later.

Other States Represented.

News of the voting, passed around Legion circles by word of mouth, attracted Legion members to the meeting from Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, and Kentucky. Plans are being made, it was reported, for similar balloting at Huntington, Richmond, and Anderson, Ind.; Dayton and Fort Recovery, O., and Covington, Ky.

Portland, surrounded by rolling corn fields and with its factories busy on rearmament work, numbers in its Legion post farmers, mechanics, salesmen, laborers, business men, and one woman member, Mrs. Polly Ellis Holloway, a world war nurse, who voted a resounding "no" against the Legion convention's policies. The meeting tonight, a comfortable shirt sleeve affair, attracted some 65 members.

Ready to Speak Out.

Those in attendance, an undemonstrative lot, contended that they had been pushed beyond their usual silence by the action of their war mongering national officers.

"We made one mistake and there's no reason to repeat it," was the consensus of those present.

"We hope to make this protest nation-wide," said Tod Whipple, Portland attorney, unemployment officer of the Legion, and leading opponent of the organization's war administration.

"The war mongers have taken over the Legion and the rank and file members, who usually go pacifically to conventions and enjoy themselves, have finally been moved to uttered indignation.

"We feel that we are here in the backbone of America and should have some say in the policy of our organization. Twenty-five per cent of our membership has sons who will have to do the fighting and dying if the will of the war mongers prevails. Democrats and Republicans are together in this fight."

Cites Opposition to War.

"The Legion should not be a political football," said William Emerson, commander of the local post. "The rank and file should have a crack at the making of policy. Back when we were sane in this country the Legion for two decades opposed mixing in foreign wars."

"Whatever the result of a nation-wide vote," said Dr. C. L. Leonhard, chairman of the present election committee, "the rank and file should have a say."

The protest against the prowar steps taken by the national convention started with Frank M. Porter, Portland insurance man and former post adjutant. He offered a resolution saying: "We, as Legionnaires of post 211, Portland, Ind., and as qualified citizens of the United States, do hereby declare that the national organization of the American Legion has taken undue authority in representing a change in the 21 year old policies without due consent of the members."

NAZIS FIGHTING INTERNAL FOES IN WIDE AREA

Courts Doom Scores; Executions Soar.

Germans last night dealt sternly with rebellious elements and saboteurs along an internal front that stretched from Greece to Prague. They continued to "mop up" what they admitted had been an "abortive revolt" in former Czecho-Slovakia. Their "shock troops" were firing squads and hangmen.

There were blood baths, differing only as to scope and detail, in Bohemia-Moravia, dismembered Jugo-Slavia, Greece, France, and Hungary.

Germans officially admitted the sternest measures were being taken. "Germany herself," they said, "is deep in a fight for her life. We cannot tolerate an internal front against us."

Particulars trickling thru the censorship which cloaked most of the unrest follow:

BERLIN, Oct. 2 (AP).—German execution squads tonight shot more Czechs in both Prague and Brno [Brunn] in the Nazi protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, formerly Czecho-Slovakia, on conviction by courts martial of high treason, economics sabotage and illegal possession of weapons. The courts themselves ground out 39 new sentences of death.

The official German news agency, DNB, said those executed included Jews. [The Prague radio, heard in New York, said "15 Czechs have been shot, three Jews hanged and 110 Czechs handed over to the secret police."] No names were announced.

130 Executed Since Sunday.

Total death sentences in the protectorate since an emergency was declared last Sunday now have reached about 130, according to unofficial compilations on the basis of separate announcements thru the official German news agency and other sources.

Some of the Czechs faced firing squads; others were hanged, the Dienst Aus Deutschland commentary said.

Premier Alois Elias, the Czech general who had headed the protectorate government since April, 1939, apparently was the leader of what authorized Germans said was an abortive revolt which was described as "now in hand."

Gen. Elias is under death sentence, but German sources said he had not yet been executed, as previously reported, because he had appealed for clemency direct to Adolf Hitler. Only Hitler can stay the decision of the German People's court that condemned Elias at Prague yesterday. Elias is said to have confessed that he conspired with the enemies of Germany.

228 More Czechs Seized.

Dienst Aus Deutschland disclosed another 228 arrests in Bohemia and Moravia in the Gestapo investigation of charges that the Czechs plotted high treason and sabotage. It was reported 256 were arrested yesterday.

The new reich's protector, Reinhard Heydrich of the Gestapo, meanwhile established economic supervision bureaus "to stringently control the just distribution of foodstuffs." The new order has removed "existing disturbances," said informed German sources, by guaranteeing delivery of food to the population.

Previously, Dienst said, looters had partly succeeded in "seriously endangering the meat supplies of the main industrial areas by an elaborate sabotage campaign against food stocks."

Burning harvests and crippling transports were said to be principal items in the rebel plans, combined with a whispering campaign to blame Germany.

Dienst said a companion drive to boycott the press of Bohemia and Moravia had collapsed.

Link Purge to Industry Shift.

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—The German purge in Bohemia and Moravia is in preparation for transfer of heavy industries there from Hamburg, Bremen, and the Ruhr, an authorized Czecho-Slovak source in London said today.

"It is our belief," he said, "that the Germans plan to absorb the protectorate and reduce the population to a slave laboring class by killing all leaders capable of carrying on an opposition, then move heavy industries

NATION TO MARK NEWSPAPER BOY DAY TOMORROW

2,500 Required to Deliver Tribune Each Day.

This week the nation is observing newspaper prestige week in tribute to one of the keystones of the democratic form of government—an unbribed and uncorrupted as well as a free press. And out of the week, tomorrow has been set aside for honoring one of the least noticed, but most important, cogs in the machine which delivers your newspaper to your door each morning—the newspaper boy.

The International Circulation Managers' association has designated tomorrow as "National Newspaper Boy day."

All High School Students.

The boys who deliver THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE so unfailingly are all high school students at least 16 years old. Their only job is to deliver the paper—they are not responsible for collections or losses.

At 4 or 4:30 in the morning he is on the job. He receives his papers from a carrier, an independent business man who buys them from THE TRIBUNE. The carrier is a member of the Chicago Newspaper Carriers' association, headed by Joseph Epstein. The association's 154 members employ about 2,500 boys in the metropolitan area.

Rain, shine, or blizzard the boy delivers his route by 7 a. m. If the milk is late it still may be good, but if the news is late it's history and no one wants to read it.

Boys are Protected.

In bad weather, the carrier aids his boys by dropping newspaper bundles at designated points on his route, so that he need not push a wagon thru heavy snow. At the end of his route, the boy is picked up by an automobile and returned to the carrier's office. The carrier protects his boys with complete compensation insurance coverage.

The boys often are honor students in their schools, and many in later life have become prominent men—judges, attorneys, business and industrial executives, and government officials. Rarely does a newspaper boy, after learning the importance of honesty, punctuality, loyalty, and plain hard work in delivering newspapers, ever become a liability to society.

The newsboy [as opposed to the boy who delivers papers] from whom you purchase your TRIBUNE at a newsstand is an independent business man. He is often also a friend of his customers, many of whom tell him of their troubles in romance or business, or use him as an audience for their political opinions.

On Job for 20 Years.

The newsboys may be 16 or 60 years old. Many are married and have children. Jake Baum, newsboy at Clark street and Diversey parkway, has been selling papers for 20 years.

"Standing on this corner all evening is better than a class in psychology," Jake said last night. "You get to know people, rich and poor, good guys and stuffed shirts. I know at a glance whether my regular customers are feeling pretty good, or whether something is bothering them. Lots of them tell me their troubles, but I never offer advice. That wouldn't be good business."

Half Puerto Rico Blacked Out as 'Enemy' Attacks

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 2.—The northern half of Puerto Rico was blacked out for 15 minutes tonight in a phase of United States army maneuvers in which an estimated 25,000 troops are engaged. The theoretical enemy was reported 200 miles offshore, poised to attack from three plane carriers. House lights were put out within five minutes after sirens blew and bells rang. The sound of plane motors was heard overhead soon afterwards.

Delayed by Weather

Allan Jones as he arrived at the Illinois Central station from Indianapolis, Ind.

Allan Jones, movie singing star, almost arrived yesterday for a rehearsal of "The Merry Widow" at W-G-N. But he failed to make it and wound up in Indianapolis instead.

A TWA Stratoliner with Jones aboard was due in Chicago at 6:52 a. m. Rain and fog grounded it several times en route from Los Angeles. It arrived over the airport shortly after 2 p. m., but a low ceiling prevented landing. At 4 p. m. the plane was sent to Indianapolis to discharge its passengers. Jones boarded a train there and arrived last evening.

Marion Claire and Jones, who were featured in "Bittersweet" and other productions a few years ago, will be co-starred in "The Merry Widow," the opening production of the Theater of the Air from 9:45 to 11 o'clock tomorrow evening. Attilio Baggiore also is to have a featured rôle in the operetta.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak during the broadcast.

The operetta series, produced by William A. Bacher with Henry Weber as musical director, will be aired from W-G-N's main studio over the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system and W59C, the new FM station of W-G-N, Inc.

SHOCKING STORY OF GANG RAPE IS RELATED TO JURY

3 Tell of Attacking Girl and Escort.

Shocking details of the attack by five young rapists on a young Joliet woman last Sept. 2 went into the record of their trial yesterday in the Will county Circuit court there. The story of the crime, told by three of the accused youths, was termed by prosecutors the most revolting in their memory.

Tonelessly and apparently with complete lack of remorse the young witnesses told of stopping the car in which their victim was riding with Joseph Cernugel, 25 years old, of slugging Cernugel repeatedly and robbing him, and then each of them raping the young woman.

Eight Women on Jury.

Those who testified are James Bondercuk, 19; Curtis Binzen, 16, and Clarence Spisak, 18. They incriminated James Alessio, 17, and Nicholas Skiniotes, 17. The case is being heard by a jury of eight women and four men before Judge James V. Bartley. It is expected to go to the jury today.

Bondercuk, who told his story first, asserted that when Cernugel's car was stopped they brandished a realistic toy pistol and forced him out, slugging him until he slumped to his knees. Then they flung him into the back seat of his automobile.

"I walked around the car," Bondercuk continued, "and there was the girl standing on the ground. Skiniotes and Alessio were standing by her. Her blouse and brassiere had been torn off. I walked over with Spisak and asked where her purse was. She said she didn't have any."

Takes $6 from Escort.

Bondercuk said he then searched Cernugel and took $6. After striking him several times more Bondercuk rejoined the others.

"The girl was lying on the ground now," he said. "She had on slacks. I jerked them off of her and used them to tie up the guy's feet. I then went back and took off the rest of her clothes and tied up his hands."

Bondercuk, under questioning, said he was the first to rape the girl.

Spisak testified he struck her several times with his fist. The gang then lifted her and tossed her into the back seat with Cernugel.

"She looked like she was unconscious," Spisak told the court.

At Bondercuk's order one of the youths smashed the headlights of Cernugel's car and the five drove away. All but Skiniotes went to St. Louis, where they spent several days.

Rape is not a capital offense in Illinois, but if the young toughs are convicted they can be sentenced to any term of years up to 199, insuring that they would spend the remainder of their lives in prison.

None of the five appears to realize the gravity of the situation, according to court attendants, who asserted defense lawyers frequently have to remind their clients to keep their heads down and appear serious. On cross-examination yesterday the defense sought to bring out that the girl victim had not resisted the attacks upon her.

GUFFEY ADMITS $4,000 U.S. TAX DEBT OF 20 YEARS

Too Broke to Pay, He Tells Fellow Senators.

Senator Guffey.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—Senator Joseph F. Guffey, Pennsylvania Democratic boss and pillar of the New Deal, admitted in a senate speech today that he owes the government an income tax deficiency of $4,000, which has been due for 20 years. As a member of the senate finance committee, Guffey assisted in preparing the new law imposing 3½ billion dollars of additional taxes on the people.

Senator Guffey, who lives with his two sisters in a Washington mansion said to have cost them $65,000, told the senate he had not been able to meet his $4,000 income tax obligation to the treasury.

Liberal Host at Derby.

The senator is reputed to be a rich man. He is noted for the casual indifference with which he makes political bets of $100 or more. Each year he takes a party of 20 or more senators to the Kentucky Derby, paying all expenses.

Guffey confessed his income tax delinquency in the course of a tirade against "venal, power-mad, money-mad, traitorous newspaper publishers." He attributed the downfall of France to such publishers and asserted that "we have the same brand of journalism right here in this country."

Guffey particularly denounced Roy W. Howard, head of the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain, and the Scripps-Howard Pittsburgh Press, which repeatedly has attacked the New Deal political boss as an income tax dodger. Guffey said congress should pass a law banning chain newspapers, just as it has dealt with "chain banking and chain public utilities." He objected to the personal holding companies formed by Howard and Robert P. Scripps, as affecting the amount of income tax they had to pay.

Wants Independent Control.

"Let us put thes newspapers back in the hands of independent, God-fearing American editors whose opinions spring from daily contact with the men and women of the crossroads, the villages, the towns and the cities of this nation," Guffey said. "Let's make it impossible to have a fifth column in the fourth estate."

Guffey gave the senate his version of his income tax delinquency, but did not mention his indictment as an embezzler of federal funds when he was sales director of the alien property custodian's office during the Wilson administration. Nor did he mention the $150,000 put up in 1921 by the late Judge James H. Reed and the late Andrew W. Mellon, both Republican leaders, to help him make good his shortage in the handling of government funds.

Reviews Financial Straits.

"At about the time the Honorable Warren Harding was inaugurated President of the United States," Guffey said, "fourteen banks called the loans of myself and my partner. At that time I was indebted to the extent of approximately 3 million dollars. Eighty-five per cent of this obligation was paid within four months. The remaining 15 per cent of this indebtedness since has been paid down to less than $100,000.

"At about the time I was having this financial difficulty, the government presented a claim against me for income tax in an amount slightly in excess of $1,800,000. This claim, as well as all other income tax claims against me, has been adjudicated or paid, with the exception of $4,000. That $4,000 was assessed when I was financially broke and later became outlawed by existing law."

Guffey insisted that "a way will be found" at some unspecified date to pay the $4,000.

ROOSEVELT SAID:

(Aug. 14, 1936.)

"We can keep out of war if those who watch and decide have a sufficiently detailed understanding of international affairs to make certain that the small decisions of each day do not lead toward war and if, at the same time, they possess the courage to say 'No!' to those who selfishly or unwisely would let us go to war."

Halifax and Roosevelt Confer on War Situation

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—President Roosevelt conferred today with Viscount Halifax, British ambassador, who returned yesterday from London. They discussed the war situation and the need for stepping up Anglo-American war production for quick delivery at the fighting fronts. The situation in Russia and the middle east, as well as latest British technical and political information, were canvassed in the 50 minute conversation, Lord Halifax told reporters as he left the White House executive offices.

SEEK TO INJECT COMPETITION IN APRIL PRIMARY

The Cook County League of Women Voters and the Woman's City Club of Chicago announced yesterday that they will wage a joint campaign to bring about the nomination of at least four candidates for state representative in each senatorial district in the primaries next April.

In the effort to reduce the number of districts without contests representatives of the two organizations will interview members of Republican and Democratic senatorial committees, the bodies which determine the number of nominees in their districts.

The two organizations also wrote Gov. Green asking him to lend his influence in the Republican party to their crusade.

1941 COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN STARTS TONIGHT

Nearly 2,000 business, labor, and professional leaders are expected to attend the opening of the 1941 Community Fund campaign tonight in the Stevens hotel. Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch and Mayor Kelly will be the principal speakers at the dinner.

James S. Knowlson, general chairman, has announced that $3,583,000 is the goal for this 11th annual campaign which benefits Chicago's 185 major charities and social agencies. Additional speakers will be Robert A. Gardner, president of the fund; Bryan S. Reid, chairman of the sponsors' division; E. P. Brooks, head of the industrial division; Maj. Gen. J. M. Cummins, commander of the 6th corps area, and Mrs. Earl Kribben, women's chairman.

The audience will be composed of leaders of the 50,000 volunteer workers who will contact more than 1,000,000 men and women in Chicago's industrial system for voluntary contributions. Because these workers and the fund and campaign officers give their services gratis, the fund is able to keep its operating costs down to 4 cents on the dollar contributed.

GERMANS HURLED OUT OF TRENCHES NEAR LENINGRAD

Claim Nazi Long Range Guns Silenced.

BULLETIN.

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—The British Broadcasting corporation today said that soviet communications had been reëstablished between Leningrad and Moscow.

MOSCOW, Oct. 3 [Friday]—(AP).—German trenches before Leningrad are being overun by Red infantry charges and soviet marines have landed on the Gulf of Finland coast west of the city to dig in and harass the Nazi flanks, military dispatches said today.

Russian guns, it was added, silenced German long range batteries which had been shelling one of Leningrad's districts.

[The British radio reported that the Russians had retaken Strelna, 20 miles west of Leningrad, and that 20 miles to the east of Leningrad the Nazis had been thrown back to a depth of nearly 30 miles from Kolpino eastward to Lake Ladoga. Another report, attributed to the military commentator of the Moscow radio, asserted the Russians had broken thru the spearhead of the German lines at Schluesselburg and effected a junction with other Russian troops driving in from the south. This "victory" came three days after the Russians had captured Gatchina and reëstablished "unhindered communications" with the main Russian units, the commentator said.]

Capture Four Settlements.

About 150 miles south of Leningrad, in the region of Staraya Russa, the official government organ Izvestia announced four settlements and a hilltop had been recaptured by soviet forces and that four German companies had been routed.

The Germans, front line reports said, are rushing up reënforcements in an effort to stem general Red counterattacks which already have greatly improved the Russian position all about Leningrad.

On the central front, Russian counterattacks were reported rolling on, and the official communist newspaper Pravda declared that Red planes set fire to the forests in some areas to drive the Germans out at the conclusion of a 17-day battle.

The Dnieper river in the south, dispatches from the official news agency Tass asserted, was carrying away thousands of German dead. Italian forces had appeared on the west bank of the Dnieper, it was added, and in one of their first actions suffered the loss of a platoon. [The Italians have claimed to be well to the east of the Dnieper.]

Hold Off Massed Attacks.

In the south, military dispatches said, Russian forces were holding staunchly against mass German battering along the Black sea coast.

The picture drawn by front line dispatches was this:

SOUTH.—Where the supreme soviet task is defense of the industrial Donetz basin: The German battalions falling back to their old positions after an all-day assault which failed to crack the Donetz line, leaving dead and captured by the hundreds, and dozens of field guns, mortars, machine guns and smaller weapons on the field.

CENTRAL.—Two German battalions routed by a counterattacking Red army tank unit and an infantry battalion near the village of "V," with the reported destruction of enough material to last the Germans for eight days, including 20 tanks and armored cars.

Guerrillas Step Up Attacks.

Behind these fronts the work of the guerrillas—organized bands of men and even women—went on remorselessly.

The government announced that guerrillas around besieged Odessa on the Black sea had carried out 18 raids last month, destroying bridges and roads and killing hundreds of Rumanians and Germans in the night.

One whole detachment of 25 German motorcycle troops, ordinary spearhead of the Nazi assault, was chased into a lagoon and drowned to the last man, it was stated.

Stubborn Battle for Crimea.

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—The German-Russian battle for the Crimea has been marked by very severe fighting, but the invaders are making extremely slow progress southward, an authoritative source said today. German forces still are on the isthmus of Perekop, which links Crimea with the Russian Ukraine, and not much beyond the 7 mile penetration reported previously, it was said.

Reds Report Leningrad Successes

Russian sources reported successes yesterday for the defenders of beseiged Leningrad. Map is based on Russian reports.

TOKIO'S LEGATION MAY BE FORCED OUT OF TEHERAN

TEHERAN, Iran [Persia], Oct. 2 (AP).—The Japanese legation soon may be compelled to leave Teheran because of British-Russian displeasure over its activities, diplomatic circles said today.

Iran, under British-Russian pressure, has suspended the Japanese legation's diplomatic code privileges and the immunity of its mail and diplomatic pouches. The Japanese now must send their messages in clear language thru Russian censorship.

The big issue with the Japanese legation was over the grand mufti of Jerusalem, anti-British refugee from the Holy Land. The British admit they are uncertain about his whereabouts but charge the Japanese legation gave him at least temporary asylum.

French Apologize to China for Jap Arrests at Hanoi

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 2 (AP).—The foreign office announced tonight that the French had apologized for a Japanese raid on the Chinese consulate general in Hanoi, Indo-China capital, in which property was seized and consular servants and other Chinese nationals were arrested.

HINT NEW FRENCH CONSTITUTION TO BE READY IN 1942

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Oct. 2.—France may get a new constitution before the end of the year, political circles said today. The constitutional commission has been summoned to meet Oct. 14 and it is expected that shortly thereafter Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain will proclaim the new instrument. The last act of the former national assembly in July, 1940, was to charge him with drawing up and promulgating a new constitution. Aside from establishing new areas of states, the constitution is expected to set up an elective chamber of 200 members, and a second chamber of 100 members corresponding to the old senate and partly appointive. These chambers, plus 300 delegates elected from the provinces, will elect a chief of state.

Reveal Italy Conscripts 8,460,000 for Industry

ROME, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Fascist national bureau for conscription of civilian workers announced tonight that 8,460,000 laborers had been called up by Sept. 9.

REDS FIGHT WITH BACKS TO SEA IN SOUTH, NAZIS SAY

Pounded by Violent German Aerial Attacks.

BERLIN, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Russian southern armies, their backs to the Black and Azov seas, were under violent and general German aerial attack tonight, said military dispatches from the front, and the Nazi land offensive pressed on east of the Dnieper river.

Soviet forces were suffering great casualties "in proportion to the extraordinary effort expended in this region," DNB, the official news agency, said.

Red forces in one area were declared, however, to have made a powerful counterattack across the lower Dnieper, but it was added that the Hungarians holding the line there had broken Russian efforts to form a bridgehead.

Nazis Maintain Secrecy.

Because of the secrecy maintained by the German high command it was impossible to tell precisely where the lines lay in the south but on the basis of available reports it appeared that the Germans and their allies stood considerable distances east of the Dnieper in some areas while in others the Russians still were close to that river.

The air force and artillery, said reports from the northern front, dominated the siege of Leningrad. Smoke hung heavy over the city from fires set off by German shells. Nazi long range guns also bombarded the naval bases of Kronstadt and Oranienbaum to the west. Additional hits were claimed on the already damaged soviet battleship October Revolution.

Direct shell hits were said to have been made on Leningrad's great Kirov armament works, which are reported to employ more than 50,000 workers.

Acknowledge Counterattacks.

But in the Leningrad region, as in the south, the Germans acknowledged at least one Russian counterattack supported by a strong force of tanks.

[This German dispatch was received before that from Moscow which claimed a general counteroffensive was pushing the Germans back from Leningrad and stated German long range guns which had been shelling a district of the city had been silenced.]

In the south, Italian troops were credited by the high command with having increased to more than 8,000 the number of Red prisoners in hand in encirclement operations [east of Kiev] which are claimed to have resulted in the annihilation of soviet forces of unstated size.

The captured Ukraine capital of Kiev is being shaken by explosions of delayed action mines which have destroyed whole buildings, it was reported. The city fell into German hands Sept. 19. The Russians mined certain special buildings before withdrawing. At intervals now the mines are being exploded.

BIG JAP SUBMARINE SUNK IN COLLISION; PART OF CREW SAVED

TOKYO, Japan, Oct 3 [Friday] (AP).—The Japanese navy office today announced the sinking of the submarine I-61 in a collision during maneuvers last night in the northwestern sea off Kyushu. Part of the crew was rescued. The submarine collided with a surface vessel which was slightly damaged.

It was not known immediately how many crewmen were lost.

The I-61 is one of a class of 12 vessels with a surface displacement of 1,635 tons, and supposedly capable of crossing the Pacific and returning without refueling.

The submarine is 321½ feet long and 25½ feet wide, equipped with six 21-inch torpedo tubes.

Another submarine of the same class, the I-63, sank Feb. 2, 1939, after a collision in Bungo channel, but was salvaged a year later.

CALL BRIEF HALT IN WAR TO TRADE 3,000 PRISONERS

British, Nazis to Exchange Wounded Men.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Three thousand wounded British and German soldiers will halt the war in the English channel for a brief period this week-end when a truce for their exchange thru a restricted zone wil lbe observed. The war office officially announced today that "an agreement has been reached on all points" regarding the exchange—the first of the war.

Two hospital ships will leave Britain for a French channel port early on Saturday and the first batch of returning prisoners will arrive on Sunday, if there is no hitch in the arrangements. The war office said a census of the war prisoners will be taken as soon as the ships reach port and the next of kin will be informed by telegram. A list of the 1,500 Britons coming from Germany has been prepared but is not expected to arrive before the men.

The men will go straight to a hospital for examination and those not needing additional hospital treatment will be released to return to their homes.

Ships to Be Lighted.

The hospital ships, it was said, will "be ablaze with lights," as also will be the trains which take the war prisoners to ports in England and France.

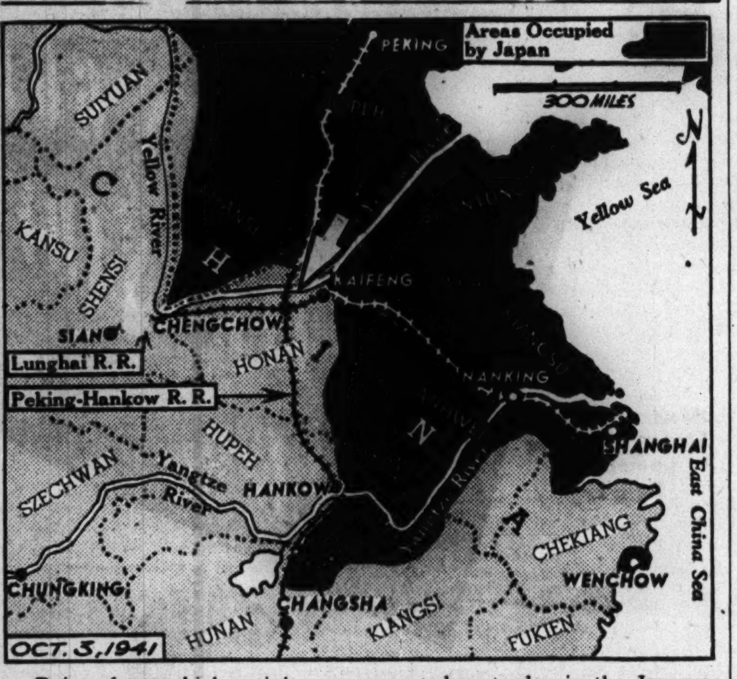
Fighter planes and bombers of both sides will keep out of the air, submarines will leave the safety lane for the ships, and mines will be swept up. Should the ships dock after the black-out, there will be lights in the ports concerned for the first time since the war began.

To Signal Departures.

A signal from Britain will notify the Germans across the channel of the departure of the hospital ships and the probable time of their arrival at the French port. A similar signal from the Germans will herald the departure of the Britons for England.

Upon arrival at the British port, each man will be given stamped envelopes, paper, and a pencil with which to write home. Also waiting in the port will be 96 dozen bottles of beer, mattresses, blankets, shaving kits, cigarets, tobacco, pipes, matches, and food of all kinds.

Japanese Start a New Drive



Points from which activity was reported yesterday in the Japanese invasion of China.

Tell of Casualties

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 2.—With both China and Japan claiming victory in the two weeks' campaign in Hunan province, the Japanese today launched a new offensive 500 miles to the north, in Honan province. Domei, Japanese news agency, said that since Sept. 18 when the Hunan drive began, the Japanese had counted 62,719 Chinese dead, and taken 65,672 prisoners, losing only 461 dead. A Chungking spokesman, however, said six Japanese divisions and three brigades had been routed and are falling back 12 to 18 miles north of the Hunan capital, Changsha.

Japan's new Honan offensive apparently was aimed at erasing the stigma of an old defeat. Japanese dispatches said their forces in Honan moved south across the Yellow and the New Yellow rivers toward Chengchow, asserting 120,000 Chinese troops were trapped near Chengchow.

The city is an important junction on the Lunghai and Peking-Hankow railroads. In June, 1938, the Chinese saved Chengchow by dynamiting dikes on the Yellow river between that city and the capital, Kaifeng, flooding a 10 mile strip.

GERMANY'S NIGHT BOMBERS BATTER 5 ENGLISH TOWNS

LONDON, Oct. 3 [Friday] (AP).—German bombers blasted at five British towns last night and early today. First reports indicated many casualties. The raids centered on four towns in northeastern England and one on the southeast coast.

The air ministry reported British fighters shot down six German planes and lost three in two sweeps over the continent Thursday. Newton Anderson, 31 year old former Chicago newspaper man now a member of the American Eagle squadron, was credited with taking part in the shooting down of four German fighter planes by the Eagle squadron. British bombers struck Wednesday night at Stuttgart and the Calais, Boulogne, and Ostend docks.

Nazis Claim Huge Shipping Toll.

BERLIN, Oct. 2 (AP).—The German navy and air force sank 683,400 tons of merchant shipping "in their successful battle against British" supply lines during September, the high command said today. U-boats, it reported, sank 452,000 tons.

The communique also reported overnight bombing of Hull and Dover port facilities. Three merchant ships and a transport were reported sunk.

NAVY EXTENDS CENSORSHIP TO 2 ISLAND BASES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 [Special.]—Navy department officials said today that censorship of mail at outlying American bases in the Atlantic has been extended to bases in Iceland and Greenland. Such censorship went into effect June 19 with respect to Newfoundland, Bermuda, Trinidad, Jamaica, Santa Lucia, Antigua, the Bahamas, and British Guiana.

Printed postcards for the use of sailors, soldiers, and marines at these bases are provided for their convenience. These cards do not reveal the place of origin of the sender. Letters, also subject to censorship as to troop or ship movements and military secrets, may reveal the place of origin, but not on the envelope. Other varieties of postcards may be sent.

CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE

WHEELER WARNS AGAINST UNDOING NEUTRALITY LAW

Assails Fear Propaganda Loosed Upon Nation.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2 [Special]. —Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], speaking at an anti-war meeting in Olympia stadium, tonight assailed "war propaganda, fear propaganda, every type of propaganda designed to create intolerance," which he said had been loosed on the American people.

After telling his hearers that "no glamorous screen stars, no coercion from employers, no bank night, no hope of free dishes brought you here," Wheeler plunged into his prepared address by sternly condemning administration foreign policies and warning against the danger of repeal of the neutrality act.

"Propaganda comes in waves—it has deluged the nation," he shouted, "but it has failed in its purpose. The American people have stood their ground. They have resisted the most dangerous menace to the republic—war!

"To propagandists who would take us into war I say, 'You serve the foreign enemies of democracy.' Those who fail to see the folly of our entry into war are blind to reality.

Assails Movie Propaganda.

"You have an industry here in southern California, some of whose leaders seem anxious to send American soldiers into European and Asiatic slaughtering pens. I speak of the motion picture industry. The modern Benedict Arnold is the silver screen. I cannot understand how American leaders in this great industry are willing to pervert their genius from entertainment to war propaganda."

Wheeler then told his listeners that "experts and past masters in the art of hocus pocus have hampered the work of a senate investigating committee seeking to uncover propaganda in motion pictures."

"But they have performed an unconvincing job," he asserted, "paid with money belonging to stockholders, seeking to smear the committee, and to explain away poor memories and evasive replies. The present committee is being attacked by the press and by those in power as committees investigating Teapot Dome and the department of justice were attacked. But all such attacks fall of their own weight."

Speaks for Neutrality Act.

Warning against repeal of the neutrality act, which he urged his audience to combat thru every possible means, Wheeler said the American people love peace and have trusted President Roosevelt and believed his repeated pledges of peace.

After the Iceland incident, Wheeler said, it is not unreasonable to assume that American boys will be expected to serve under some soviet commissar with Russian soldiers under the Red flag of communism.

MRS. ELLAREA BERGSRUD.

Phillip Bergsrud, 39 years old, had been cruel to his wife, Ellarea, 31, of 4901 North Winchester avenue, many times, she testified yesterday, but the climax came one dismal morning at 3 a. m.

"He drove me to a cemetery on the north side," Mrs. Bergsrud told Judge Rudolph F. Desort. "Then he tried to push me out of the car saying—'That's where you belong'." Mrs. Bergsrud said she resisted and he finally drove her home.

Judge Desort granted her a divorce, custody of their four children, and $75 a month support. She was represented by Attorney Harry X. Cole. Bergsrud, a conductor for the surface lines, was not in court.

LEO ALLEN HITS SMEAR CAMPAIGN OF WAR SHOUTERS

Dixon, Ill., Oct. 2 [Special].—The national administration's continuous smear campaign against President Roosevelt's critics is proof that he never will adjourn politics, however often he may call upon others to do that for the sake of national unity, Representative Leo E. Allen of Galena declared in a speech here tonight.

Leo E. Allen.

"The unity that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie talk about," the congressman said, "means a unity behind a foreign policy that less than 20 per cent of our people favor. But there never will be 100 per cent unity behind a policy favored by such a small minority."

Allen, who is chairman of the Illinois Republican delegation in the house of representatives, was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Republican women of the 15th judicial district.

Representative Allen said that until President Roosevelt rose to power, congress was permitted to function unhampered. He declared that the duly elected representatives of the majority of the people should take their rightful place and assist in determining the country's foreign policy.

LARGE CHICAGO DELEGATION TO HEAR LINDBERGH

Delegations from America First chapters thruout all Chicagoland will go to Fort Wayne, Ind., to attend a rally tonight at which Charles A. Lindbergh will speak.

Mrs. Janet Ayer Fairbank, vice chairman of the national committee, who will preside at the rally, will leave by train with her party, but most of the delegations will go by motor. Several, among them Mrs. Lillian Prugh, chairman of the Oak Park chapter, will fly.

More than 100 Chicagoans are expected to attend. Leslie Hinkle, chairman of the Kankakee chapter, will lead a group of 80. Kenneth Raub, chairman of the Gary, Ind., chapter, will take a chartered busload, and motorcades will leave from Hammond and Crown Point. Altho the hall in Fort Wayne seats only 6,000, the local chapter has received more than 8,000 letters requesting tickets.

1¼ Billion Dollars Voted Italian Ministry for War

ROME, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Italian war ministry was authorized by decree today to spend 24,000,000,000 lire—nominally about $1,263,000,000 — for new war expenditures.

URGES MILLIONS OF PROTESTS TO SAVE NEUTRALITY

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2 [Special]. —The American people must thunder to congress their protest against the administration's efforts to change the neutrality law despite the wishes of 83 per cent of the people, Dr. John A. O'Brien, Oxford scholar and University of Notre Dame professor, declared in a speech here tonight.

He appealed for a million telegrams and 50 million letters daily to be sent to President Roosevelt and congress urging them to keep the neutrality law intact.

Speaking at an America First rally held in Caleb Mills hall of the Shortridge High school, Father O'Brien told his audience that repeal or revision of the neutrality act can only mean another step toward war or actual involvement in the holocaust now devouring European civilization.

Fannie May Candy— That's Music to My Ears!

ART KASSEL and his famous "KASSELS IN THE AIR" orchestra, known to the radio audience from coast to coast, is now at the Bismarck Hotel for the twelfth consecutive year. After a visit to the Fannie May Kitchens Mr. Kassel said:

● "Do you know, I compare a piece of Fannie May Candy to a beautiful melody—both are produced by blending just the right ingredients in just the right proportions! In my orchestra each group of instruments has a part to play—the 'winds,' the 'brasses,' and the 'rhythm,'—and it is the blending of their varied sounds that produces melody. And it is so in Fannie May Candy! In the Kitchens I saw my favorite Black Walnut Creams made—the rich cream centers being blended with the plump black walnut nut meats, and then coated with deliciously blended bittersweet chocolate! Taste sensations combined into a true taste melody! To me, the name Fannie May Candy is always 'music to my ears'!"

ICELAND HOPES BRITISH GET OUT WHEN WAR ENDS

Premier Points to London Good Faith Policy.

Britain 'Predominant'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Daily Express correspondent in Iceland, reporting that the "United States army lands in Iceland as our partners," today said: "The command of the Anglo-American army here will be on a basis of mutual coöperation, with Britain as the predominant partner."

(Pictures on back page.)

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Sept. 30 [Delayed] (AP).—Prime Minister Herman Jonasson said in an interview today that it was the fervent hope of all his countrymen that "Britain keep her word and withdraw naval, army, and air forces from Iceland at the end of the war."

Premier Jonasson.

Jonasson made the statement in reply to a question concerning the paramount fear of Icelanders that Britain would retain a part of their island as a naval base after the war.

"England is fighting for establishment of good faith among nations, and her sons' blood is being shed for that principle," the 43 year old premier said. "Should we doubt the British when they say they will leave?"

Have No Fear of U. S.

Some Icelanders say that Britain's navy coveted parts of Iceland as a naval base long before the first World war. They have no fears about the good faith of the Americans, but they say that "Britain never lets go."

Referring to a rape case in which four American marines are implicated, he said: "We don't judge a country by a few incidents." Outcome of their secret trial has not been made public.

[On Sept. 28 The Tribune received from its London correspondent a report that it was gossip in England that "the first American marines to die in this war are being shot by the American government for having raped an Iceland girl after killing her escort and wrecking the automobile in which she had been driving." Verification of this report was sought from the navy department, where it was admitted that marines had been court martialed on a rape charge. The navy department denied that the marines had been shot or were to be shot. It was stated that the full story would be made public when the record of the case is received from Iceland.]

Tells of One Problem.

Jonasson said that the presence of soldiers separated from wives and sweethearts is "the first of our problems."

"It would be as difficult in Britain if 15 million foreign soldiers were quartered around London," he said. Sadly he remarked that there are "many difficulties, some of them of great magnitude," but he expressed the hope that "with coöperation we may settle some of them."

Jonasson, who has been prime minister seven years, is of medium height with broad shoulders, curly hair and a cold blue eye. He was middleweight wrestling champion when he was at Reykjavik university, and he looks it.

Nazis Ring Down Curtain on Reichstag for Opera

BERLIN, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Kroll opera house, after housing the reichsstag for eight years, again presented opera last night. The Prussian state opera bombed out of its stately home on Unter Den Linden early this year, presented a festive opening performance of "Tannhäuser," heralded by the Berlin press as symbolic of Germany's present struggle. The reichstag building burned in 1933.

WILLKIE ASSAILS BUNGLING OF U.S. ARMS PROGRAM

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie today charged the administration with political manipulation in time of emergency and faltering handling of the defense program. Writing in the current American Magazine, Willkie said he was "sickened by the amount of sheer political finagling going on when the very life of our country is at stake."

"Political manipulations in a period of emergency," Willkie wrote, "becloud the Democratic record, to say the least, and this record, together with the faltering manner in which the national defense effort has been conducted, give the Republican party one of the greatest opportunities of its history—the opportunity to step forward and carry the banner of national defense and world freedom."

Taking cognizance of critics who asserted that he had gone over to the Democratic party, Willkie declared, "I have no connection with the administration and am in disagreement with many of its domestic policies and disgusted with its methods of handling the defense effort."

40 Japanese Killed in 2 Major Railway Accidents

TOKIO, Oct. 2 (AP).—Forty Japanese were killed and 62 injured within the last 24 hours in two major railway accidents in separated parts of Japan.

Report Jap Bombs Kill Son of U. S. Missionary

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 2 (AP).—The American Southern Baptist mission at Hsiaokwan, provincial capital of Kwangtung province, was wrecked Sept. 29 during a Japanese air raid and the son of an American missionary was killed, the Chinese Central News agency said today. Neither the name of the missionary nor his son was given. The American flag was said to have been flying over the mission at the time of the bombing.

Bond's blunt NO! brings down the house !!!

"More power to Bond's. Backing up the government by keeping prices down gets my vote—and my business."

NO—Bond prices will NOT be raised. That's the flash that started it. What's more, there'll be no compromise with what your dollar buys. How much this means to you is best told by your neighbors. Listen—read—then join the overwhelming swing to Bond's. (P. S.—hope we have enough clothes to go around.)

"I'm 26, married, one child. Balancing our family budget often takes fancy bookkeeping. But thanks to Bond, getting my new Fall outfit will be a cinch. Same old prices—wow!"

"Sure I'm making more money. Spending more, too—for darn near everything. So along comes Bond and gives the old pay envelope a break. Now you guess where I'm going for clothes."

"Bond sales increase of 13 million dollars in one year is an amazing performance. Such public acceptance easily explains Bond's ability to maintain values with continued low prices."

"We dish out plenty of service at my filling station. Folks like it. So do I. That's why I'm buying at Bond's. Still get those extra trousers, smooth fit, charge account—and pay no more than I did before."

"It's a scientific fact—large volume produces great benefits for the consumer. Examine the Bond picture. Here, volume now stems the tide of rising prices to your profit, and mine."

"Show me a store with lots of boosters, and I'll show you a square-shooting outfit. Take Bond's. Their price policy is making plenty of new friends. I know. I'm one of them."

to central Europe where they would be out of reach of the RAF and, at the same time, closer to the Russian front."

Eighty per cent of the Czechs being shot are intellectuals, he asserted. Some of those executed had been in jail since February, it was said, and so could not have been engaged in current plots.

Meanwhile Gen. Charles de Gaulle, "Free French" leader declared at an allied press luncheon today that "vast French resistance is forming again" and that his new national committee sought to organize French resistance "throughout the whole of France and her empire."

Croats Kill Two Nazi Flyers.

ZAGREB, Croatia, Oct. 2 (AP).—Two German flyers were killed Tuesday night by shots fired from ambush near the Zagreb airport, it was disclosed today. The 10 companions of the men killed seized six men armed with pistols. The assailants were described as communists.

The Croat government decreed at noon today that 10 communists would be executed for every such future act against persons or property if the guilty persons were not caught within 10 days.

60 Hanged in Old Jugo-Slavia.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 2 (AP).—The newspaper Pester Lloyd reported today execution of more than 60 persons in the southern Banat region of former Jugo-Slavia for recent killings, attempted train wrecks, and other sabotage. Twelve were reported hanged for a train wreck.

The status of Hungarians in that section has not yet been settled, Germans occupying the southern Banat and Hungarian troops the northern area of the former Jugo-Slav district.

The newspaper Magyarosag said 42 other persons had been executed in the Banat and that the Germans had threatened to hang 38 more now in Nagybeckerek prison.

Eighteen persons were sentenced to prison in Budapest itself by a military court for high treason and espionage. They got 13 to 15 years.

Laval Assassin Gets Death.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Oct. 2.—Paul Colette, 21 year old assassin who shot former premier, Pierre Laval, and Editor Marcel Deat, leading advocates of collaboration with Germany, was sentenced to death by the new state tribunal in Paris yesterday, according to news from Paris today. The shootings occurred Aug. 27 at Versailles. Both victims are recovering.

Only Chief of State Marshal Henri Phillipe Petain, to whom Colette addressed an appeal for clemency, has the power to alter the court's verdict.

Laval recently expressed belief that Colette had been "a mere tool in some one else's hands" and said he would seek to save him from the guillotine.

[Other dispatches from Vichy reported the execution of a Parisian yesterday for illegal possession of firearms. All persons have been warned to turn in weapons or face death. Fifty-six persons have been executed for anti-Nazi and communist activities since the Germans and French began suppressing terrorism, another dozen are under death sentence and Marshal Petain is reported to have commuted two death sentences to life.]

Dalmatia Quiet—Italy.

ROME, Oct. 2 (AP).—Italian authorities reported to Premier Mussolini today that the situation in Dalmatia, formerly part of Jugo-Slavia, was "satisfactory."

Meanwhile, Fascists sought to discredit reports, attributed to "Anglo-American lies," that Italians dislike Germans. Premier Mussolini gave the signal for inspired pro-German demonstrations by attending the opening of the Italo-German association's 1941-'42 activities here yesterday.

BRITISH REORGANIZE MIDDLE EAST ARMY; SPLIT FORCE IN TWAIN

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 2 (AP).—The British middle east army was reorganized today by splitting it into two forces—an army of the west, in the western desert, and an army of the north, in Syria.

Both armies are under command of the British middle east commander, Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, whose headquarters remain in Cairo.

Each army will have its own command in the field. Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, who has been in command of the northern part of the old army of the Nile, takes over the new northern army. The commander of the western army has not been announced.

A statement said that "virtual termination of hostilities in East Africa" and formation of a new East African command directly under the war office lay behind the changes.

Italy, Britain Trade Bombs.

In East Africa, the Italians said, their garrison at Gondar—one of their three remaining strongholds in Ethiopia—dispersed with heavy losses British forces which attempted to approach their positions.

RICH STEVEDORE FIRM OFFICIAL KILLS UNION AID

New York, Oct. 2 [Special].—Salvatore Sabbatino, wealthy vice president of Sabbatino & Co., stevedoring firm, and brother of City Court Justice Sylvester Sabbatino, shot and killed Emil Camarda, second in command of the powerful AFL International Longshoremen's association in the offices of the Sabbatino firm on lower Broadway, shortly before 4 p. m. today.

Carrying the death gun, the 53 year old Sabbatino fled down 10 flights of stairs and escaped thru the rear exit of the building. For hours thereafter hundreds of police searched the warrens of the financial and waterfront districts, but the slayer eluded capture.

The building in which the shooting occurred is the exchange court building, at Broadway and Exchange place. The Sabbatino offices are on the 10th floor. Frank J. Hoey, president of the Sabbatino firm, told police the murder was committed in the slayer's private office. Hoey said he witnessed it. Later police said they had learned that bad blood had existed between Sabbatino and his victim for a long time.

BRITAIN WARNED WOMEN WORKERS NEED MORE FOOD

Sugar and Fat Rations to Be Increased.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Despite Prime Minister Winston Churchill's recent assurances that Britain's food situation is better than at any time since the war began, a debate in the house of commons today disclosed that the supplies allocated to women and manual laborers are unsatisfactory.

However, Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, parliamentary secretary of the food ministry, announced that "from Nov. 17 the domestic fat ration will be increased 25 per cent, from 8 to 10 ounces, and the sugar ration will be increased 50 per cent [to 12 ounces weekly] due to the large output of North America." He said the sugar increase might be maintained until March to provide more nourishment during the period of long blackouts and other causes of strain.

Women's Needs Cited.

The question of the necessity of a "better and more sustaining diet for workers engaged in heavy industry" was raised by James Griffiths, Laborite. He said the food supplies for miners, limestone quarrymen, steel and tinplate workers, and women newly drafted into industry in his constituency were inadequate. He said the women presented the most urgent problem, since, on entering factory life for the first time, they are confronted with new physical and psychological strains.

He said one-third of the miners in his Welsh constituency were going to work with nothing but bread, cheese, and unsugared tea to sustain them for eight hours. Asserting some steel workers had lost 28 pounds this summer, he said it is obvious that heavy workers must have more food. He also warned that tuberculosis is increasing, as in the last war, "particularly among women workers."

Hopes to Boost Rations.

This was borne out by Dr. Edith Summerskill, Laborite, who pointed out that pulmonary tuberculosis often results from undernourishment.

In answering Griffiths' demand, Maj. Lloyd George said the government accepts "the need for supplementary rations for certain types of working people." He said canteens have been provided for 47 per cent of the miners and asserted "he hopes to double the meat allocation, treble the sugar ration, and improve the distribution of butter, margarine, and preserves for all workers in heavy industry, including agriculture.

Wheel Chair Hunter

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

MISS NELLIE SHANNON.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 2 (AP).—Miss Nellie Shannon returned to Portland in her wheel chair yesterday with a 140 pound mule deer she shot in the Ochoco national forest.

Miss Shannon, also an able duck hunter, said she killed the deer with one shot at 85 yards. She has been confined to a wheel chair 20 years, the result of infantile paralysis.

M. P.'S TO DEBATE INVADE OR WORK ISSUE IN SECRET

Churchill Reveals Plan for Discussion.

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—The house of commons will debate—probably in secret—whether Britain can continue to conscript her own man power for an eventual continental offensive and still turn out the armaments which both the British and their allies need, Prime Minister Winston Churchill disclosed today.

There are unconfirmed reports that the government will form no more all-British divisions on home soil; some persons who are well-informed contend the limit already has been reached in pulling men from the vital fields of war industry, mining and agriculture to serve in the armed forces.

Women Workers Insufficient.

Churchill told the house the problem of distribution of man power was a "direct and central part of the war effort" and that the debate, therefore, probably would not be public lest the information developed might aid the Germans.

Only this week the prime minister told the house that Britain "never will have an army comparable in numbers to the armies of the continent." About 4,000,000 men of all categories are actually or technically under arms in the United Kingdom, but less than half this number could be used overseas.

To offset the drain of experienced workers from factory to army, the government has tried to put more work on women, but the recruiting drives of the women's auxiliary forces have yielded insufficient numbers and what conscription of women has been tried has fallen far short of plugging the gaps in industries.

Invasion Talk Dwindles.

Actually, a growing feeling that Britain is near the limit of her man power resources, except that which she is able to draw from the empire, has been responsible for a measurable dwindling of the public clamor for an attempted invasion of the continent now in order to ease the German pressure on Russia.

There appears to be growing acceptance of the idea that such a land offensive must be deferred one year, possibly two. Thus, instead of invasion talk, there is growing emphasis on the devotion of all efforts to providing arms and munitions for Russia's millions of men.

BRITAIN TO GET ROBBERS' GUNS UNDER AID PLAN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 [Special].—"Tommy" guns, sawed-off shotguns and high powered rifles taken from American gangsters and bank robbers will be among the articles furnished Britain under the lease-lend program, it was learned today.

Already 500 weapons of various kinds, which had been confiscated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other government law enforcement agencies, have been turned over to the procurement department of the treasury. Some of them are the guns of famous gangsters who fell wielding them. All will be useful to Britain's home defense force, which still is short of equipment.

Vichy Authorities Condemn British Raids on France

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Oct. 2.—French authorities today expressed indignation at the number of French civilians being killed in British air raids over the occupied areas.

CAR CRASH FATAL TO SPRINGFIELD NEWSPAPER MAN

Peoria Salesman Killed in Collision in Rain.

Charles Meiss, 56 years old, promotion manager of the Illinois State Journal in Springfield, died yesterday in St. Therese hospital in Waukegan of injuries suffered Wednesday night in an automobile collision at Grand avenue and Edic road, four miles west of Gurnee in Lake county. Meiss lived at 1136 Bryn Mawr avenue, Chicago.

Meiss was a passenger in the car driven by Allen Johnson, 54, of 4713 Drake avenue, an employé in the advertising department of the Illinois State Journal. Johnson was injured as well as Peter B. Nelson, 73, of 3800 Lake Shore drive, attorney and former mayor of Racine, Wis., who was in the other car driven by his chauffeur, Oscar Hollander, 37.

Collision in Rain Fatal.

Louis Friedman, 36 years old, of Peoria, Ill., a salesman, was killed last night in an automobile collision in the rain on highway 66, at 79th street, about five miles south of Hinsdale, in Du Page county. In his car and injured were his wife, Aurelia, and Mrs. Vitcoria Sternfield, the latter also of Peoria. Police said that Friedman's car sidewiped that of Carl Johnson, 26, of 722 West 60th place. Johnson, also injured, was taken with Mrs. Friedman and Mrs. Sternfield to the Hinsdale sanitarium.

John Stapf, 48, died in County hospital of injuries suffered a week ago when he was struck by a hit and run automobile at Wrightwood avenue and the Outer drive in Lincoln park. He lived at 534 West North avenue and was employed as a bricklayer.

Struck by Two Cars; Dies.

Albert Anders, 64 years old, 2014 Melrose street, died early today in the Alexian Brothers hospital of injuries suffered last Tuesday, when he was struck by two automobiles in front of 2162 Clybourn avenue. Police said that he was struck by a car driven by Walter Walschlaeger, 26, of 1404 East 65th place, and thrown in front of an oncoming car driven by Walter Swiderski, 36, of 3008 South Wolcott avenue. Both cars collided after the accident.

Merritt R. Dennis, 37 years old, of Indiana Harbor, Ind., died last night in the University hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich., of burns and injuries suffered Tuesday night when his automobile and two passenger cars collided near Ypsilanti, Mich. The truck and cars were burned.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 700 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 484 were killed in Chicago, where 19,029 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

SLEUTH PARKER TO QUIT FEDERAL PRISON ON OCT. 12

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Ellis H. Parker Jr., sentenced to three years' imprisonment for conspiracy in the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel during the investigation of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case, will be released from the federal house of detention in New York City on Oct. 12.

The justice department today announced that his term, which began in January, 1939, had been reduced because of good behavior.

Parker's father, widely known New Jersey detective, was sentenced to prison in connection with the Wendel kidnaping and died in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

'AT 70 HULL FINDS LIBERTY A 'GREAT RESPONSIBILITY,'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull had a word to say to those who wished him well on his 70th birthday today, and the word was "liberty." His speech was stern, contrasting sharply with the gay candles and pink frosting of a birthday cake brought into his press conference by newspaper men.

He spoke not of the rights and privileges and prerogatives of liberty, but of its "terrific responsibility."

"One of the most important lessons that has occurred to me," he said, "has been that statesmen and peoples everywhere must recognize the strong responsibility which liberty imposes on those who enjoy it."

Geodetic Ship Commander Stabbed by Fanatical Moro

MANILA, T. P. I., Oct. 3 [Friday] (AP).—Commander Charles Shaw of the coast Geodetic survey ship Fathomer, was stabbed nine times today by a Moro fanatic in Jolo, in the Zulu archipelago. The Moro had taken an oath to die while killing Christians. He was killed by police before he could attack others. Commander Shaw's condition is critical.

George H. Brown, Chicago representative of the Kennedy Car Liner & Bag company, paper manufacturers, of Shelbyville, Ind., died of a heart attack in his automobile at 70th street and Oglesby avenue last night. Police said he brought his car to a stop before he died. He was 55 years old and lived at 7226 Vernon avenue. He leaves his widow, Lillian, and a son, Richard.

Cowgirls in City on Way to New York Rodeo

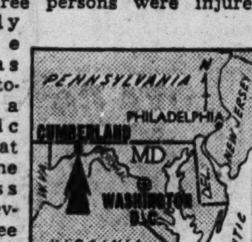
BLAST INJURES 23; RAZES BUILDINGS; ONE FEARED DEAD

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 2 (AP).—Twenty-three persons were injured severely and one man was missing today after a terrific blast that shook the business district, leveled three two-story buildings, and shattered plate glass fronts of several stores while the streets were crowded with afternoon shoppers.



Map locates Cumberland, Md.

Flames started in the wrecked buildings and trapped a number of shoppers, but Police Chief Oscar Eyerman believed all except one man were saved. Firemen fought their way over débris to reach the burning structures and quickly got the flames under control. The cause of the explosion was not determined.

Chief Eyerman said that the missing man was Carl Wagner, owner of the Wagner meat market, one of the buildings wrecked by the explosion.

SOLDIERS FIGHT FOREST FIRE IN MID-CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 2 (AP).—Flames borne on a high wind raced thru timber in southern Monterey county today while soldiers and CCC crews tried to halt its spread. It had covered about 2,000 acres along the coast.

This was one of a half dozen fires that blackened areas of the central California coastline during the night, and the only one not controled today.

Supplies were dropped by parachute to fire fighters recruited from Fort Ord and Camp Roberts.

Another fire had burned over a five mile front around Fairfield, 40 miles northeast of San Francisco. There 150 head of sheep were destroyed and at least a dozen ranch buildings burned. Three smaller fires in that area were controled.

J. B. Danielson, Solano county supervisor, said damage would amount to about $100,000 in the Fairfield district.

Allis-Chalmers to Build New Supercharger Plant

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt had approved a war department allocation of $12,500,000 for construction of a supercharger plant at Milwaukee by the Allis-Chalmers company. The plant will be financed by Defense Plant corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and leased to Allis-Chalmers.

Rehearse for Show

Scores of cowboys and cowgirls, skilled in the thrilling and sometimes dangerous work of riding bucking broncos and temperamental steers, held a dress rehearsal in the Coliseum last night in preparation for the opening there tonight of Col. Cliff Gatewood's Flying Rodeo. The rodeo will run for 17 days.

There was nothing sissified about the rehearsal. Expert riders were thrown, as they frequently are during the regular performances. It was a slam bang rehearsal with neither riders nor animals easing up.

While the local show was getting in readiness, a company of performers with the Colborn rodeo paused briefly in Chicago on their way to Madison Square Garden in New York. They arrived on the Santa Fe Chief. Among the cowgirls were six who might easily fit in a beauty contest. They were Betty Goodan and Jean Claussen of California; Ada Lee Perner of Arizona; Mary Mercier of Idaho, and Marianna and Marcellaise Rich, sisters, of Texas.

Fishing Boat and Crew of 11 Lost in Pacific

San Francisco, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Nordic Pride, derelict fishing boat from Tacoma, disappeared under pounding waves tonight, the puzzle of what happened to her crew of 11 men still unanswered. The coast guard cutter Ariadne, which had been standing by since shortly after noon, awaiting abatement of high seas so she could send out a boarding party, radioed shortly before 8 p. m.: "Nordic Pride gone under, apparently foundered; still standing by."

RUTH JARRATT REFUSES CASH DIVORCE OFFER

Mrs. Ruth Jones Jarratt, 229 Lake Shore drive, appeared yesterday in the office of Harry P. Kishner, notary public and attorney at 110 South Dearborn street. She was ready to give a deposition in connection with her suit for divorce from Walter Jefferson Jarratt, president of the Safety Vulcanized company, but Jarratt's attorney, Lewis E. Pennish, decided he didn't want to ask her any questions and the hearing was canceled.

Pennish, however, spent two hours talking to Mrs. Jarratt and her lawyers, Robert E. Cantwell and William C. Boyden. At the end of the conference Cantwell said Pennish, acting for his client who did not appear, had made proposals for an out of court cash settlement, but these were rejected.

Mrs. Jarratt's original suit charged her husband with desertion but an amended bill, filed Sept. 19, charged him with misconduct with a Mrs. P. Trial of the case before a jury in the court of Judge Rudolph F. Desort is set for Oct. 8.

Miss Goddard's Mother Sues Fleming for Divorce

Reno, Nev., Oct. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Alta Fleming, mother of screen actress Paulette Goddard, today filed suit to divorce Earl K. Fleming, Los Angeles mining man, whom she married on April 2, 1940. She charged extreme cruelty and nonsupport and asked that her former name of Alta Goddard be restored.

DEATHS IN ARMY WAR MANEUVERS INCREASE TO 94

Illinois Lieutenant Found Slain in Field.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 2 (AP).—Six additional deaths, reported as 2d and 3d army troops moved homeward today from the six week maneuvers, brought the war game's accidental death total to 94.

Sixty-two soldiers died in the preliminary exercises in Louisiana and Arkansas and 26 in the latter two weeks of major maneuvers between the two armies.

Lieut. Turner Henry Evans Jones, 35 years old, of the 16th engineer battalion from Colorado, was found dead yesterday in a field near Keatchie, La. An army board said his death was caused by gunshot wounds.

Sergt. Elmo S. Hollis, Private Bryce Everett, and Private Marvin K. Pitt, all of Electra, Tex., were killed in an army truck accident near Keithville, La., Tuesday.

Private Albert Kuchinsky, 30th ordnance company, Fort Meade, Md., was killed today in a taxicab accident at Vicksburg, Miss. Private Kenneth Walsh, 22, Fort Thomas, Ky., was killed yesterday in a mobile kitchen stove explosion near Arkadelphia, Ark.

W-G-N MUSICIAN ROBBED.

Cecil F. Read, a W-G-N musician, reported to police yesterday that burglars broke into his apartment at 808 Tower court and took valuables worth $505, including a $300 diamond ring belonging to his wife, Dorothy.

JOB COMMITTEE PLANNED TO AID FREED SOLDIERS

State Treasurer Warren Wright said last night that he would meet with a committee of business men in his office, 208 South La Salle street, at 5 p. m. today, to form a committee for obtaining jobs for conscripts released from the army.

Among those with whom Wright said he would confer are Gen. A. F. Lorenzen, former Judge Franklin J. Stransky, Benjamin Samuels, Yellow Cab company; R. A. Rushton, F. H. Noble Manufacturing company; Frank A. Palumbo, Mutual Life Insurance company, and A. W. Beaurline, Blue Bird Bus company.

Wright said that he hoped the committee would set up permanent machinery for helping the men to obtain employment. Former soldiers filing for unemployment compensation probably would be helped first.

CHURCH LEADERS HIT ROOSEVELT'S DEFENSE OF REDS

Bishop Says Statement Is "Obviously Untrue."

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Leaders of three great Christian communions stood together yesterday in denouncing red Russian barbarism toward religion. Their statements bluntly refuted President Roosevelt's contention that freedom of religion exists under the soviet constitution on the same basis as in the United States.

1. Bishop Raymond J. Wade of Detroit, Mich., head of all Methodist churches of Russian and Scandinavian countries, sent a telegram to the White House assailing the President's statements as "obviously untrue" and "ridiculous unsupported propaganda."

2. Archbishop Vitaly of the Russian Orthodox archdiocese of New Jersey and Eastern United States, protested against American aid to Russia, citing the soviets' "systematic and ruthless extermination of every vestige of religious thought."

3. The New World, official organ of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, declared "the régimes of Lenin and Stalin have leveled the most ruthless drive against Christianity since the days of Diocletian."

Statements "Obviously Untrue."

Bishop Wade spent seven years in Russia and northern Europe before being forced by war to return to America. His telegram to the President said:

"Printed constitutions are worthless anywhere unless supported by life. Undisputed imprisonment and slaying of tens of thousands of priests, clergymen, and laymen for religion in Russia, together with thousands of closed churches, speak louder than printed words.

"Such statements attributed to you indicating freedom of speech and religious propaganda in Russia are obviously untrue when faced with facts. Support for your emergency policies cannot be secured by ridiculous unsupported propaganda."

Recalls Speech Last Year.

The telegram told the President that his speech on Feb. 10, 1940, was "far more correct than latest statement to press representatives. In that speech President Roosevelt said:

"I abhored the indiscriminate killings of thousands of innocent victims. I heartily deprecate the banishment of religion—tho I knew that before long Russia would return to religion for the very simple reason that four or five thousand years of recorded history have proved that mankind has always believed in God in spite of dozens of abortive attempts to exile God."

Archbishop Vitaly's letter to the President also was signed by Boris Serievshy, famous Russian flyer, and Boris Brasol, former Russian army officer, now a publicist in New York.

Warn Against Fatal Mistake.

"We believe," said the letter, "it would be a fatal mistake for the United States to champion the soviet cause for the following reasons:

"Among the countless crimes against civilization committed by the communist oppressors, perhaps the most despicable is their revolt against religion, their barbaric treatment of the ministers of God, their systematic and ruthless extermination of every vestige of religious thought.

"In point of fact, during the years of the Red rule, soviet commissars have either destroyed or closed some 50,000 Russian Orthodox churches, and at the same time they have murdered in cold blood or otherwise exterminated tens of thousands of Christian priests. It should be borne in mind that the Russian tyranny cost the Russian people up to 50 million lives—a grand total comprising those who died of starvation and epidemics as well as those who have been done away with by the infamous GPU."

Enemy No. 1 of Religion.

The New World, Catholic paper of Chicago, discusses Russia in today's issue in the following terms:

"Up to date the soviet has been Enemy No. 1 against established religion. Her ideology blasphemously derides the concept of God and His Divine Son. In practice the régimes of Lenin and Stalin have leveled the most ruthless drive against Christianity since the days of Diocletian. The League of Militant Atheists numbering 5 million members was officially encouraged in its five year plan of godlessness.

"For the last 23 years Russia and her possessions have reeled under the hideous lash of religious persecution. The records of churches, missions, religious institutes are running red with the blood of those who died for the ideals of Christ. The sophistry written into the constitution about the freedom of worship is rendered a farce by grim facts, and the situation as it has developed for two decades cannot remotely resemble the liberty guaranteed to religionists in the United States."

Atrocities in Lithuania.

The Tablet, Brooklyn, N. Y., Catholic weekly, prints an eye witness account of soviet atrocities in Lithuania which began just a week before the Nazi juggernaut rolled into Russia. The story, written by Constantine R. Jurgela, says:

"Soviet militiamen came terrorizing farmers, for failure to deliver grain. Some people managed to get them drunk or to bribe them to go away. . . . An unimaginable massacre began . . . People attempted to run in all directions . . . mowed down . . . women and children were murdered. One mother was murdered with two daughters, 12 and 15 years old. Sick prisoners were bayoneted. One man was found naked in a cellar, bayoneted to death. After this, the Bolsheviks showered the heaps of bodies with hand grenades. An old man cried out when bayoneted. A Red army man shot him with a pistol."

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 3 [Special].—The oil polluted pool of Penn Valley park here brought distress to 63 ducks which went swimming in it. The white birds became woozy from the fumes and their plumage turned to shades of buff and brown. Gilbert Lana, a city employé, was set to work with cleaning them up with carbon tetrachloride, which removed some of the oil from their feathers.

PROTESTS FLOOD WHITE HOUSE ON SOVIET RELIGION

Deluge Leads President to Offer Explanation.

tee. The consensus was that Mr. Roosevelt's remarks were linked with the recent visit to the Vatican in Rome by Myron C. Taylor, the President's personal envoy to the pope. Taylor is on his way back to the United States to report to the President.

One obvious reason for the President's remarks was that he was trying to soften opposition to spending American billions for ai dto atheist Russia. But there were persistent reports that Mr. Roosevelt also contemplates reaching an agreement with Pope Pius XII. which may have far-flung repercussions.

If the President can convince the pope that he can induce Dictator Josef Stalin to restore religious freedom in Russia, the pope's services might be enlisted in an endeavor to have Italy withdraw from the war as Germany's ally, according to the speculation of several senators.

Hollow Shell, Says Educator.

In this connection a significant statement was made by the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown university, and in 1922-'23 a representative of the Holy See in Moscow negotiations on religious freedom.

While denouncing the soviet constitution as "nothing but a hollow shell" and noting that a 1929 decree forbids that children under 18 in Russia be taught religion—or even participate in the restricted religious rites and worship mentioned in article 124—Father Walsh added:

"The President has it in his power at this moment to make a historic contribution to the cause of true freedom. He will do this if he will undertake to induce the authorities of soviet Russia to remove the unjustifiable discriminations still in practice. . . . I am confident he will receive a new measure of support from certain quarters which may astonish him."

Disputes Such Intimations.

Father Walsh disputed the President's intimation that public preaching of religion was permitted in Russia.

"It must be remembered," he said, "that the constitutional paragraph cited by the President guarantees nothing bit a hollow shell of religious freedom by permitting the exercise of certain religious ceremonials or rites. This is interpreted to mean that a Catholic, a Protestant, or a Jew may do anything that he pleases within certain rigidly prescribed localities. But he cannot defend his religion publicly by means of freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, by public teaching of religion, by use of the radio, the cinema and those other accessories without which guarantee of inner belief becomes an external mockery.

"But that same article 124 does guarantee full freedom of public, unlimited and even official anti-religious propaganda for purposes of eliminating the very concept of deity from the minds of soviet citizens."

Typical of the protests received at the White House was a telegram from Bishop Raymond J. Wade, head of the Methodist Detroit area.

[Methodist, Russian Orthodox, and Roman Catholic leaders yesterday denounced Red Russian barbarism toward religion. Details in adjoining column.]

Poison Slayer of Husband, in Prison 20 Years, Freed

Boise, Idaho, Oct. 2 (AP).—Lyda Southard, poison slayer of her fourth husband two decades ago, won freedom from state prison today on a probationary release that may lead to a pardon six months hence. The woman whose career included six marriages and nearly 20 years behind bars won clemency after her sister, Mrs. John Quigley of Nyssa, Ore., offered her a home. Convicted of poisoning Edward F. Meyer in 1921, Mrs. Southard was sentenced to 10 years to life.

BAR SIDETRACKS DIRECT ATTACKS ON ROOSEVELT

Advocates Drive to Save Constitutional Form.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—The American Bar association, in convention here, today killed or sidetracked direct attacks on the policies of President Roosevelt but it did adopt a resolution advocating an educational campaign for the preservation of the American form of government.

The convention, in open assembly, also approved a recommendation of its resolutions committee sidestepping the issue of repealing the neutrality act.

James W. Ryan of New York, author of the repeal proposal, said on the floor he recognized it was being killed by being referred to a section of the convention that had adjourned for another year.

Impeachment Move Killed.

Rejected by the assembly, on recommendations of the resolutions committee headed by Representative Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], New Dealer, was a proposal that the bar association appoint a committee to gather evidence for impeachment of President Roosevelt on a charge he has usurped the constitution in waging war without a congressional declaration.

Also rejected was a resolution calling for a bar referendum to approve or disapprove America's participation in the European conflict without a war declaration by congress. Joseph T. Harrington of Chicago, author of both of these proposals, argued on the floor in an unsuccessful attempt to overrule the death sentence from Sumners' committee.

Harrington declared the American form of government has been undermined by Mr. Roosevelt's acts. He cited the transfer of warships to England, the occupation of Iceland, and the President's "shoot on sight" order to the navy.

Raps at Subordination.

The one resolution passed that many considered as critical of the New Deal was sponsored by Lloyd Wright of Los Angeles.

"Whereas," it read, "the subordination of any branch of our constituted form of government to any other branch is destructive to our constitutional form of government;

"Therefore, be it resolved that the American Bar association reaffirm its unalterable faith in the balanced form of government as established by the constitution of the United States—a legislative, an executive, and a judicial branch, each independent of the others and no one dominated by either of the others.

"Be it further resolved that the American Bar association recommend that each state, county, and local association disseminate information in their respective localities and initiate programs calculated fully to advise the citizens of their respective communities of the necessity of preserving our American institutions and our constitutional form of government."

Other Proposals Sidetracked.

Soft pedaled was a move for a constitutional amendment to bar any President from serving more than two terms. As passed, the resolution called for appointment of a special bar committee to study the question.

Sidetracked to a standing committee on national defense were two resolutions sponsored by Eugene Quay of Chicago proposing that draftees should retain civil rights of free speech, public assembly, and petition of grievances.

Also to the standing national defense committee, sidestepping any convention action, went a resolution that would urge congress to enact federal statutes to prohibit strikes on rearmament projects.

Advocates Peace by Force.

Speaking at the annual dinner meeting of the Bar association tonight, Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States Supreme court, former attorney general in the Roosevelt cabinet, discussed in terms of international law and international enforcement a plan for America to help police the world on a permanent basis.

Justice Jackson, who spoke as tho the United States were actually engaged in the European conflict, advocated military measures to enforce the Churchill-Roosevelt peace terms announced from London a few weeks ago. His suggestion was for an armed version of the league of nations, repudiated more than two decades ago by the American electorate. He contended the present European war would not have started had America accepted, and implemented with arms, the league of nations.

Sharing the microphone with Jackson was Sir Norman Birkett, K. C., of the English bar, who spoke on the ties uniting the people of Britain and America.

The bar association's convention will end tomorrow with a luncheon to be addressed by Walter P. Armstrong of Memphis, who will be elected new president of the bar association in the forenoon.

Mrs. Vivian Kolodziejski with sons, Robert (left) and Ronald.

Steve Kolodziejski, 26 years old, was forbidden yesterday by Judge Rudolph F. Desort from seeing his red-haired girl friend, Rusty, or from interfering with Burlington trains by lying in front of them. In addition he must pay $16 a week to his wife, Vivian, 23, for the suport of Robert, 3, and Ronald, 1, pending settlement of his suit for divorce.

Mrs. Kolodziejski appears to have beaten Judge Desort to the ban on Rusty. She caught Steve with Rusty last Sunday and at the end of a stormy scene left Steve dazed and shirtless in Ashland avenue and Rusty in full flight.

Mrs. K., who lives at 2837 Cullerton street, told the judge yesterday that Steve threatened to die in front of a streamliner if she contested his suit. Judge Desort asked where Steve was yesterday and his wife said he told her to look for him in the county morgue.

"He can't do that!" interrupted Norman Becker, Steve's lawyer, "he hasn't paid my fee yet."

18 MEN FINED IN SUBURBAN GAMING CASES

IMPEACH STATE OFFICIAL IN WILD SENATE SESSION

Veteran Democrat Guilty in Pardon Scandal.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 2 (AP).—The Massachusetts senate—sitting as an impeachment court for the first time in more than a century—tonight convicted State Executive Councilor Daniel H. Coakley on 10 of 14 impeachment charges. The council is an advisory committee and has power to pass certain acts such as pardons. The council is elected by the voters.

The roll call votes rolled along smoothly on each of the 14 accusations of misconduct and maladministration, but a battle flared as the senate prepared to ballot on the question of ousting the 75 year old Democratic councilor.

A Democratic senator, demanding the right to enter a dissenting opinion, asserted he would carry out his demands "unless physically restrained," and as tempers mounted Senate President Angier Goodwin ordered a private session.

State Police Called In.

The shouts of the senators could be heard in the corridors after the executive session began. One of the solons poked his head from the door of the room and ordered police called.

Three state troopers entered the room momentarily and then returned outside to guard the doors.

The senate still had to decide on Coakley's right to retain his public office and the future privilege of holding "any place of honor, or trust, or profit under this commonwealth."

The impeachment proceedings developed from a two year investigation by a special legislative commission into charges that pardons were bought in Massachusetts, including one for Raymond Patriarca, convicted Rhode Island gunman, who was released after serving less than four months of three three-to-five year sentences.

Defense Charges "Persecution."

"You're going to decide what the standards of public service are in Massachusetts in 1941," Attorney General Robert T. Bushnell told the senate in his closing argument. He maintained that Coakley had "misused" the names of three Catholic priests in preparing a pardon petition for Patriarca.

Defense counsel held Coakley innocent of bribery and described him as a victim of persecution and of a "whispering campaign," arguing the councilor's efforts in aiding convicts were motivated only by his "warm Irish heart."

Coakley—veteran of the Bay State's political wars and a member of the executive council for eight years—had testified he "never received a nickel" for his work in helping open prison doors for more than half a hundred convicts.

Street Workers Must Wait for Pay Raise Until 1942

Representatives of the city's street workers' unions were told yesterday by the city council labor subcommittee there can be no pay raises this year and that their request will be considered along with all other pay adjustments before the 1942 budget is drawn.

NEUTRALITY ACT LOOPHOLE CITED FOR F. D. R.'S USE

Pepper Sees Way to Send Ships to War Zones.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—President Roosevelt may circumvent both congress and the neutrality act by setting aside the restrictions of existing law which keep American merchant ships out of the war zone around the British Isles.

Sen. Claude Pepper.

Such a course was urged in the senate today by Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], whose speeches usually foreshadow important administration steps on the road to war. Pepper called attention to a loophole in the neutrality act which would enable Mr. Roosevelt to set aside the combat zone restrictions by executive order and thereby avoid a prolonged congressional fight over modification of the law.

Wants to Limit Action.

Well informed congressional sources asserted later that President Roosevelt is considering precisely the course advocated by Pepper. The President, they declared, wants to limit congressional action to repeal of the section of the neutrality act which forbids the arming of American merchant ships. There is no great opposition in congress to the arming of American merchant ships plying to Iceland and elsewhere, so long as they are kept out of the area of greatest hostilities.

Repeal of the prohibition against arming merchant ships would be represented as congressional approval of the naval war proclaimed by the President against axis submarines, surface raiders, and aircraft, according to informed congressional sources.

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech in the house of commons on Tuesday was said to have been responsible for the administration's change in strategy in dealing with the neutrality act.

Decision Expected Today.

Churchill told the house of commons that British shipping losses for July, August, and September were only one-third of the losses for April, May, and June. This indication that the so-called "battle of the Atlantic" has been won by the British, with the aid of American naval forces, would greatly weaken the administration's argument for the right to send American merchant ships to British ports.

The President has been discussing the proposed neutrality act changes daily with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and he is expected to reveal his final decision to Senator Tom Conally [D., Tex.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, at a conference tomorrow. Connally and other congressional leaders are known to favor a straightforward attack on the neutrality law, rather than the devious approach said to be preferred by the President.

Pepper explained that the President is required to impose the shipping restrictions of the 1939 neutrality act only when he finds, in the words of the law, "that there exists a state of war between foreign states, and that it is necessary to promote the security or preserve the peace of the United States."

Pepper Explains Stand.

"The President need not issue a proclamation even if he finds that a state of war exists unless he finds in addition that the imposition of those restrictions is necessary to promote the security or preserve the peace of the United States or to protect the lives of citizens of the United States," Pepper said.

"When Germany declared war on Russia, the administration deliberately refrained from issuing a proclamation under the neutrality act. It was explained that the issuance of such a proclamation would not be in the interest of the peace and security of the United States. The people and the congress accepted that explanation. And if that explanation holds true in the case of Russia, it holds true in the case of Britain.

"If the proclamations heretofore issued under the neutrality act do not protect the peace and security of the United States, why should not those proclamations be revoked?

"If the President possesses this power to revoke, as I most emphatically believe that he does, then the question becomes one of fact. What are the facts?

"Do the restrictions imposed by the President's proclamations, under present circumstances, promote this security and the peace of the United States and the lives of its citizens?

"I believe that the restrictions of the President's proclamation not only fail to promote these objectives but, insofar as they help Hitler in his campaign to dominate the seas, seriously threaten them."

APARTMENT MANAGER ROBBED.

Two young robbers yesterday robbed Mrs. Fay Lyons, manager of the Ardmore apartments, 5830 Kenmore avenue, of $400 and two checks for $56.

HOLD 5 NEGROES FOR GRAND JURY IN HIGHWAY ROW

Five Negroes who slashed and seriously injured Patrick Corbett, 45 years old, 4426 North Damen avenue, in a fight on Sept. 24 south of La Grange on highway 66, were held for grand jury action yesterday in bonds of $1,000 each by Justice Henry Pendl in Willow Springs county highway police court.

Corbett was hurt when he went to the rescue of Lawrence Rossano, 28, of 2438 Taylor street, who had picked a fight with the Negroes. Rossano left Corbett alone with the gang. He was fined $5 and $5 costs by Justice Pendl for starting the fight.

The Negroes are Shefert Newell, 6031 South State street, who was charged with assault with a deadly weapon when he admitted cutting Corbett, and Otis Head, 6012 Lafayette avenue, charged with assault; and Oliver, Lavesta and Lemmer Gavin, brothers who live in Joliet, all charged with assault.

Wondering about the 1942 cars?

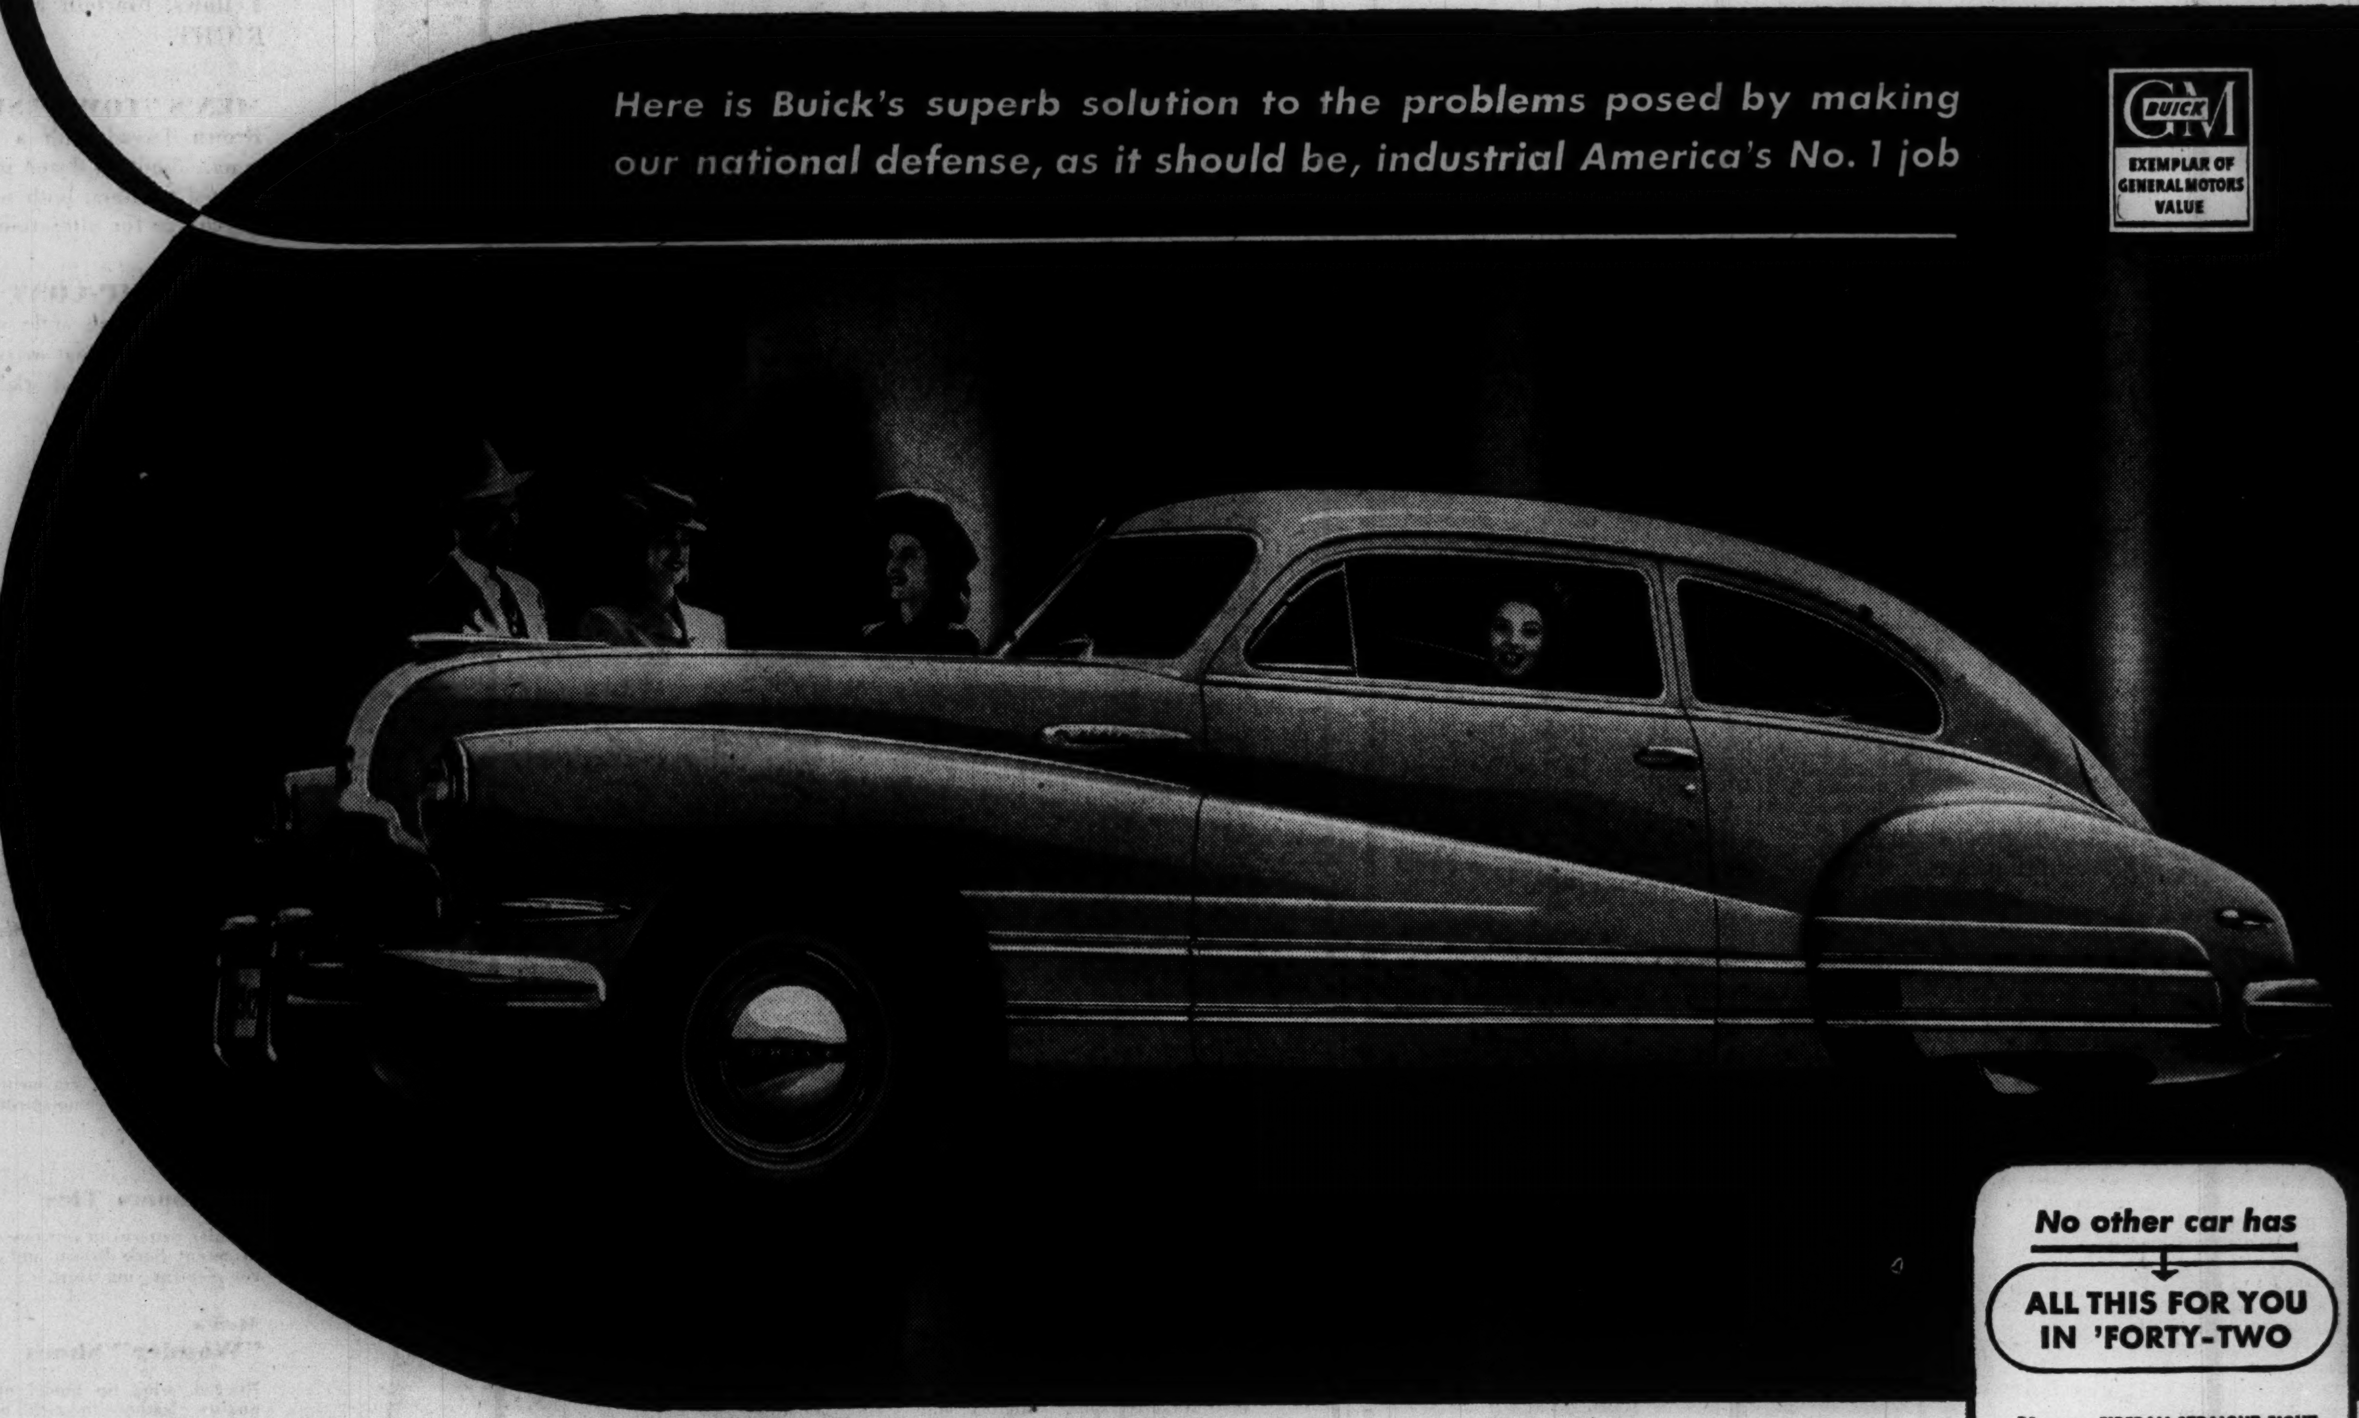
BUICK GM EXEMPLAR OF GENERAL MOTORS VALUE



No other car has

ALL THIS FOR YOU IN 'FORTY-TWO

You get FIREBALL STRAIGHT-EIGHT VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE, for more power and range.

You get COMPOUND CARBURETION (standard on most models), for top economy.

You get OIL-CUSHIONED CRANKSHAFT PINS AND JOURNALS, for much longer bearing life.

You get STURDI-LITE CONNECTING RODS, for greater strength.

You get STEPON PARKING BRAKE, for ease and convenience.

You get BROADRIM WHEELS, for improved ride and handling.

You get FULLY ADJUSTABLE STEERING POST, for extra comfort.

You get BODY BY FISHER, featuring back seats up to 52 inches wide.

You get WEATHERWARDEN ventiheater (accessory), for conditioned fresh air all year.

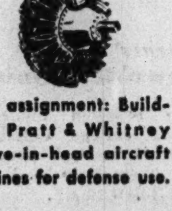
IT was no time to duck or dodge the facts. So we didn't try.

Instead we said—these being the materials critical in the defense program, we'll do our planning for 1942 with that foremost in mind.

Not merely for an "acceptable" car—certainly not for any "ersatz" number. We bowed our necks against that.

No, we had to have a real and representative Buick. One we could be proud of. One able enough, active enough, durable enough to serve and delight its owner till that unscheduled time when annual new models are the rule again.

BUICK BUILDS FOR DEFENSE



Our assignment: Building Pratt & Whitney valve-in-head aircraft engines for defense use.

The world being what it is, that may be a long spell away.

Thus for our own good, too, we resolved on a 1942 automobile of such mettle and merit as could carry and cherish the Buick reputation without fault until other new Buicks, however far off, could come along to refresh it.

So went the specifications for however many or few we may build—now we're announcing the cars.

Why waste words telling you how good they are! You can't put language in the gas tank and learn either how many or how enjoyable are the miles you'll get per gallon.

There's a better answer—you drive the cars themselves.

Come on, do that! Please put your own yardstick on their quality.

It would be a shame, for you and for us, to have you miss the dreadnaught Buick we've built to stand up successfully to the toughest job in years.

TWO SUSPECTS IN MILEY SLAYING FREED BY POLICE

Youths Establish Alibi; Button Clew Fails.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 2 (AP).—The case of the Miley slayings at Lexington was wiped clear of suspects with the release at Shelbyville of the second of two boys who were questioned by authorities during the day.

Commonwealth's Attorney H. B. Kinsolving said he was convinced the youths had no knowledge of the Lexington Country club robbery in which the golf star, Marion Miley, 27, was shot to death and her mother, Mrs. Elsa Ego Miley, 50, wounded fatally Sunday.

Button Clew Fails.

Earlier today Louisville police had released one boy after questioning him. An overcoat with two buttons missing, which was found in their hotel room, could not be linked with two buttons discovered in the Mileys' apartment after the shootings, Kinsolving said.

Mrs. Miley and her daughter were shot by two masked intruders who entered their apartment at the fashionable Lexington Country club and demanded receipts of a Saturday night dance. Mrs. Miley said that after she told the robbers where the money was they beat and shot her. Marion was shot when she ran to her mother's aid. The gunmen were believed to have obtained about $145.

Believed Recognized.

Grief stricken Fred Miley, a Cincinnati golf professional, expressed the belief his wife and daughter were shot after they recognized the intruders. Mrs. Miley was able to give only a sketchy account of the shooting before she died late yesterday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Miley were set for 9 a. m. tomorrow at St. Peter's Catholic church. She will be buried beside her daughter in Calvary cemetery.

SON WILL FIGHT PAROLE PLEA OF FATHER'S SLAYER

The state's attorney's office was notified yesterday that a petition for executive clemency has been filed for Joseph Majczek, 32 years old, who is serving a 99 year sentence for the murder of Policeman William D. Lundy in 1932. The hearing has been set for Oct. 14 before the board of pardon and paroles in Springfield.

William V. Lundy of 15812 South Homan avenue, Markham, the victim's son, said he will go to Springfield to oppose any reduction in the sentence. Majczek, he said, had been arrested several times by the police before he was seized for the murder of the policeman.

Policeman Lundy, who was 67 years old and a member of the department for 27 years, was shot in the holdup of a delicatessen at 4312 South Ashland on Dec. 9, 1932. He was fired upon by two bandits before he could draw his revolver. Theodore Marcinkiewicz, 34 years old, Majczek's accomplice, also was convicted and sentenced to 99 years in prison.

REPEAT CHARGE OF BRITISH RACE PREJUDICE IN U. S.

Security Board Admits It Restricts Hiring.

[By the New York News.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—The Social Security board admitted today that the restriction "for gentiles only" has been placed on official employment blanks for American applicants seeking employment in the British purchasing commission.

British authorities quickly declared that they had never requested the Social Security board or its affiliated New York state employment service to question applicants regarding their religion. They declared that Jewish clerks had been employed by them.

Social security headquarters here then countered with the statement that special qualifications, such as religion or racial descent, were never raised except at the specific request of the employer. They disclosed that the symbol X, meaning gentile, had been used on official application cards to indicate the qualifications of those referred to the British purchasing commission. In addition, an asterisk, decoded to read "absolutely," was used on the British blanks.

A Diplomatic Hot Potato.

This diplomatic hot potato was tossed back and fourth today between Arthur Motley, assistant chief of the Social Security board's employment service division, and Sir Louis Beale, former head of the British agency in New York.

The BPC definitely did not request the employment agency to question applicants on their religious affiliation, said Sir Louis. As to the only other alternative — that it was the employment service's idea—Sir Louis said that he could not speak for the agency.

Referring to his own investigation, Sir Louis stated that "in the course of a general conversation, it came out that the New York state employment service places such qualifications on their cards on the basis of their own experience in dealing with employers."

Back came the answer from social security. Motley quickly pointed out that:

"The general policy of the board is to query applicants on racial and religious points only when the employer definitly asks for such interrogation."

The issue dates back to its injection by Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] during the movie propaganda investigation hearing. Tobey introduced into the record a copy of the publication "In Fact" which bore a photostat of the employment blank, dated Jan. 25, 1941, designating openings for three statistical typists.

Since then several letters and telephone calls have been received in congressional and newspaper offices from people claiming discrimination by the BPC because of their racial and religious antecedents.

A checkup resulted in all inquiries being referred to the British purchasing commission. However, several employment agencies said they had hired Jewish applicants for BPC jobs.

Employers Warned.

Motley declared that, since the racial problem was particularly acute in New York City, state employment people were cautioned against any attempts at discrimination.

David Wills, press officer of the BPC, denied statements of two secretarial school employés before the movie hearing that the BPC had raised the barrier against employés of German, southern [Catholic] Irish, or Jewish descent.

The witnesses, Miss Charlotte Oehmann and Mrs. Penney Adams, testified that the British commission had done its hiring thru Miss Evelyn Pierce. Miss Pierce left town Sept. 22 on a vacation, four days before her name was brought into the movie hearing.

U. S. RESTS CASE AGAINST 23 IN PEANUT SCHEME

Assistant United States attorneys Francis J. McGreal and Robert C. Eardley yesterday rested their case against 23 men accused of having defrauded midwest investors of $832,000 in a scheme to sell peanut vending machines. Forty-three elderly men and women have been called to the Witness stand to tell how they lost sums up to $20,000 thru speculation in the machines.

Judge Michael L. Igoe, who is hearing the trial without a jury, granted a recess until Monday when he will hear arguments on a defense motion for judgment in favor of the defendants.

QUOTING ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Avoiding Absolutism.

The original [Emancipation] proclamation has no constitutional or legal justification, except as a military measure. . . . Military necessity did not apply to the exempted localities. . . . If I take the step, must I not do so without the argument of military necessity, and so without any argument except the one that I think the measure politically expedient and morally right? Would I not thus give up all footing upon the constitution or law? Would I not thus be in the boundless field of absolutism?

A. Lincoln

Chase letter, Sept. 2, 1863.

MR. CHURCHILL AS OUR PRIME MINISTER.

Mr. Churchill in his most recent report on the war to the house of commons warned the British people that sacrifices of the most serious kind would have to be made. He also included the people of the United States in his admonitions, telling them that "enormous new installations or conversions from existing plants will have to be set up in the United States, with all the labor, expense, and disturbance of normal life which these entail."

Mr. Churchill's authority to guide American industry and modify American ways of life is derived from Mr. Roosevelt and his fellow travelers and not from any political action taken by the people over here.

The British prime minister is not content to receive as free gifts the materials flowing into British ports, to obtain the coöperation of the American navy and its convoy of goods in the war against Germany on the sea, or to procure the American army and marine corps in Iceland. He also feels that it is his privilege and his duty to admonish the American people and to urge them to greater sacrifices.

Our war party has given him the warrant for all this and as a patriotic Britisher he would think himself derelict if he didn't use all the authority conferred upon him by the people here who haven't his sense of obligation to their own country.

Mr. Churchill, however, did not give much aid and comfort to the American incendiaries and expatriates when he said that Britain's position was better now than ever before. It was winning the war at sea. The shipping losses during July, August, and September, he said, were only one-third of the losses in the previous three months. Moreover, the Germans no longer had superiority in the air but faced "a very serious shortage." On land, he said, the German superiority remained.

Hitler's vast armies not only could battle the numerically superior Russian forces but could also move in any direction Hitler wished, south against the Nile, westward to invade Spain and Portugal, or Great Britain itself. Therefore, the prime minister refused even to discuss the question of landing an expeditionary force in France to take some pressure off the Russians, who are doing all the shooting against the axis on the continent.

After two years of war, the British empire, with all its man power and resources, confesses thru its chief of government that it cannot give any aid requiring an army to an ally which unexpectedly came upon the scene to tax Hitler to the utmost.

Our incendiaries, who have seen the new American army floundering around without proper equipment and without enough capable officers and who still want to send an expeditionary force on a suicidal expedition, might reflect upon the British refusal to undertake any such enterprise.

The Russians are fighting Britain's war on the land, the United States is helping to fight it on the sea, and both Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt demand more.

LESSONS IN LOUISIANA.

The army maneuvers in Louisiana ended in a stalemate, with the swamps and bayous preventing the two forces from establishing contact for a major engagement.

This is not necessarily a reflection on the army. Maneuvers are more valuable in demonstrating what an army can't do than in what it can do, and in that sense the ones just concluded were a howling success. Enough defects were uncovered to keep the army busy remedying them for many months.

The location of the maneuver area was logical. Louisiana swamps most closely approximate the jungle territory of tropical America. If this nation is to send out an expeditionary force for the defense of the United States, a defense of the approaches to the Panama canal makes more sense than an excursion to the shores of Europe or the sands of Africa.

Mechanized units made an exceedingly poor showing in the waterlogged terrain in which the maneuvers were held. It would be a grave mistake to assume that because our army, in its present state of training, cannot wage armored warfare in such country, other and more experienced armies will meet similar failure. Louisiana demonstrated only that the American army has volumes to learn about semiaquatic warfare, not that such regions are impossible to attack.

The gravest defect shown by the maneuvers—emphasized again by Lieut. Gen. McNair in his final critique on the exercises—is lack of leadership in the army, including such fundamental weaknesses as failure to maintain discipline in troops. This, of course, makes clearer than ever the hypocrisy of the New Dealers who, in their anxiety for a large army for propaganda purposes, ignored the obvious fact that the country did not have, and still does not have, either the trained leaders or the equipment for all the men who were conscripted.

That is something to be remembered in next year's elections, but so far as the army is concerned it is water over the dam. The army's problem is to get better officers, to get as many good ones as it can immediately, and to assure a better source of supply for the future.

Promotion by seniority, which is going fast, should be abolished altogether. No big business could last 20 years if it picked its executives in this fashion, no matter how carefully it chose its executive material. Maneuvers such as those just ended show far more clearly than any roll in the adjutant general's office what officers have what it takes and who ought to be weeded out.

As a long range proposition the present method of selecting regular army officer material thru congressional appointments to West Point should be abolished. Conscription has outmoded it, because the draft brings the best young men in the nation into the ranks of the army, and gives the army an opportunity to judge their fitness for command before they have been trained, rather than afterward.

The present system of commissioning reserve officers because they have a college degree and influential friends—or relatives in the White House—should likewise be abolished. Morale would be vastly improved and qualities of leadership more easily developed in noncommissioned officers if the rank and file of the army knew that it was to furnish the officer material in the future.

THE NAZI TERROR.

Hitler has executed at least a hundred Czech leaders, including five former generals. The premier of the protectorate, Gen. Alois Elias, has been condemned to death and has appealed for clemency. Hundreds of other Bohemians and Moravians in the protectorate have been arrested by Reinhard Heydrich, Herr Himmler's deputy in charge of the Schutzstaffel.

From Hungary comes a report that Nazi firing squads and hangmen have executed 42 persons in Banat, a part of the former Jugo-Slavia. Many hostages in France have been shot because of terrorist acts committed by persons unknown against individuals of the German occupying force.

The unconscionable brutality of Hitler's rule is thus exemplified in the methods by which he seeks to kill the spirit of the various peoples of Europe who are inferior races in the Nazi conception of the new order. That the little pistol toting gunman of Germany's new order should kill without compunction is no news to people familiar with his terrorist habits, the practices of his secret police, and with his personally directed assassination of his closest associates and best friends.

Hitler is a monster unfortunately gifted with a brilliant mind. His acts are those of a slant-headed, beady-eyed, amoral psychopathic case. Unfortunately they are dominated by a realistic sense of what can be done with force and how that force should be organized.

That Stalin has committed worse atrocities does not, of course, obscure the fact that Hitler runs him a close second in his complete disregard for everything that humanity would regard as necessary to tolerable living. The terrorized people of Europe are beginning to rise from underground against this preposterous Nazi doctrine and its atrocious executioners. If any one thinks that a permanent order can be postulated upon such Hitlerite methods, he is ignoring the whole history of Europe's mutations. It is true that Stalin has imposed a like tyranny on Russia for many years, but he is dealing with Russians and Hitler is dealing with a dozen conquered peoples whose hatred increases day by day as his methods become more atrocious and his subordinates more murderous.

It is doubtful if at any time in the history of Europe the name of Germany was more detested and its people more hated than they are at present. If the better elements are not concerned with this now, they certainly will soon be. The dwarfed morals of Hitler, Goering, Goebbels, Himmler, and the industrialists and scientists who contribute to this monstrous scheme cannot possibly represent, in the long run, the conscience of a nation of supposedly civilized and cultured people, however dazed they may be by the régime in which they find themselves.

America is asked to police this scene of political, economic, and moral degeneration. It is in no position to do so and it need not. It could not put an army of occupation in Europe to remain indefinitely to see that the Germans are made incapable of further evil and the other peoples incapable of other follies. Europe presents a problem which it must solve itself or go to ruin. Just now the terrified people probably cannot start a successful rebellion.

The arms are all in the possession of their oppressors. All they can do is commit furtive acts of sabotage, take shots at exposed individuals, show their resentment, and slow down in their enforced labor tasks. That is true at the present time. But who imagines that Europe can be forever held in slavery by a system relying upon executions which increase the bitterness and hatreds?

Hitler's system is one which dooms itself. It can persist, if not overthrown by military action, for an indeterminate number of years. But no one person and no one gang has yet been able to maintain an enduring mastery. The whole continent may be verging upon suicide, but it is a plague from which America should remain aloof and guard itself so that if Hitler sticks his neck out in this direction he will have his head cut off behind the ears.

We should not stick our neck out and let him have a whack at it when we can make him, if he is so minded, put himself at the disposal of our stoutest strokes.

Editorial of the Day

NOT OUR FLESH AND BLOOD.

[Rockford Register Republic.]

Sinking of the S. S. Pink Star in the North Atlantic fails to arouse a war spirit among the people of the United States. While United States owned, the Pink Star flew the flag of Panama, was a former Danish vessel, and had no citizens of this country in its crew.

Despite the President's "shoot first" speech in which he left the impression that the administration regards United States owned ships of Panamanian registry as our own flesh and blood, the people of the nation are not accepting the idea. The limited interest in the Pink Star sinking, evident at every hand, is proof of that.

The Pink Star is the third ship of Panamanian registry to go to the bottom of the Atlantic in recent weeks. There is less excitement over this latest sinking than there was in the cases of the S. S. Sessa and the S. S. Montana. That is because the people of the United States see no affront to our national honor, no danger to our independence or democracy in attacks upon vessels flying the flag of Panama.

We do not make light of the Pink Star sinking, for it is likely that the administration will seize upon it as a reason to take us, without congressional sanction, a step nearer all-out war. Administration spokesmen, perhaps even the President himself, may be expected to hold it up as a challenge to us.

It is not that, nor will it be accepted as such by the people who have disliked from the beginning the subterfuge of sending United States owned vessels into danger zones under Panama's flag in violation of the spirit of the neutrality act.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

THE WONDERS OF NATURE.

Three red foxes, according to the news columns, have been caught near the Michigan Avenue bridge in two days and brought back alive in Frank Buck fashion. Maybe the ancient forest is beginning to creep in upon the city because of depressions, new deals, taxes, demolitions, wars, priorities and all the other brakes on progress.

* * *

Often within the last 10 years the Linemaster, wending his solitary way to his empty club, has cast his eyes aloft, expecting to see wind-planted saplings growing from the crumbling cornices of the Wrigley building, and woodbine twining in melancholy grace up the full height of the Mather Tower. Wolves howled along State street in 1841, and with the barking of foxes along the main stem in 1941 the wheel of life may have turned full circle.

* * *

But perhaps the omen of the foxes merely represents the spreading influence of "Union Now" propaganda. Chicago's principal book store is located in the heart of the fox-infested area. In support of this theory, one might argue that it has been said [if not, it should have been said]: "The redcoats follow the fox."

* * *

Close on the heels of the foxes came an appeal to THE TRIBUNE [printed in the Voice of the People] for a live cougar, needed to symbolize the football prowess of Brigham Young university at Provo, Utah. The civic reputation for wild life has, indeed, gone far afield. The Linemaster cannot guarantee a cougar, but at Dyche stadium tomorrow he expects to see a batch of wildcats.

* * *

The packrat is an animal that has interested most tourists of the Rocky mountains. We find that it originated as a hoax in the Virginia City Enterprise when Mark Twain sojourned in that Nevada mining camp. See Vardis Fisher's novel, "City of Illusion":

". . . A fable of packrats as big as badgers that carried away everything in the homes of men, including stoves, trunks, tables, and the smaller livestock. But for everything they took away they returned a pure hunk of silver."

[The bellhops at Yellowstone Park call themselves "packrats."]

TO A WARM FRIEND.

You had a rather ancient look today—
An injured, dusty look, as if the world
Had left you some months back and gone its way
With no apologies, and danced and whirled
A giddy measure in the sun, while you,
Uncouth, forgotten, soberly stood guard
Against a time of reckoning you knew
Would freeze the piping and make paying hard.
Well, I, for one, sweet friend, have loved you long,
And if the ashes of our love are cold
Let's own the error but forget the wrong,
And light once more the flame we knew of old.

October to our cellars doth return us,
And, gosh! How I do need you, dear old furnace!

Tumbleweed.

When a Horse Stole Second Base.

Referring to "Chicago's First Mounties" [Sept. 29]: The first one of the species that I saw was at the old Cubs park on the west side in the late '90s. It was on a Sunday afternoon; there was an overflow crowd which extended entirely around the field. They kept coming closer and closer to the infield until finally a mounted cop appeared in center field.

He was dressed in the then regulation police uniform, double-breasted long coat and high brown helmet. He tried to drive the crowd back so the game could go on. The horse must have stepped on some of the spectators' corns because suddenly the cop disappeared and the horse trotted to second base, where it stopped.

The fight was on in earnest in center field. In the middle of the conflict was the cop, sans coat, sans helmet but with a bright red undershirt, but, boy, was he wielding his club! I know, because I caught a couple of cracks from it.

The Marquette Cabin Site.

Harry Hansen, former Chicago newspaper man, now literary editor of the New York World-Telegram, sends the following sidelight to his research in preparing to write a book on the history of the Chicago river:

"What amazes me is the great upswing of interest in Chicago history, which seems to have come with the fair. But we'll have to do something about the Marquette cabin site. [Damen avenue, about 2800 south.] It's a perfectly wonderful story, and it seems to have been neglected chiefly because it is in such a difficult place. At different times memorials have been placed there, but you'd think the church would have built a magnificent chapel on the ground where this holy man prayed every day, had mass twice a week, counseled the Indians not to use firearms, and then went quietly out to die."

DINOSAUR TRACKS.

Beneath the desert's mystery,
All silent and alone,
Lie rocky beds that used to be
The haunt of beasts unknown.
Their shapes are gone, but still we see
Their footprints in the sand.

My soul hides fossil beds below,
All battle-scarred and black,
Where envies that I used to know
That never will come back,
And hates that vanished long ago

Neanderthal Man.

How come that Jefferson is omitted from the procession of early Presidents in the names of our loop streets? Of course we have a Jefferson street on the west side of the river, running at right angles to the other Presidents but why keep him out of the loop?

An odd thing about sports writing: No matter how narrow the margin of victory, the winners are always colossal, overwhelming, awe-inspiring supermen and the losers are an insignificant bunch of mediocrities.

COLDS RESPOND TO REST.

THE common cold still remains a universal infection. We all become victims occasionally—some of us frequently. Thus far, no specific antidote has been discovered and we fight off the malady with home remedies—for the most part, effectively.

But neglect is about as hazardous as stirring up a nest of irascible hornets. A goodly share of our serious ailments develop because we have regarded one of these episodes too lightly. "I wore out my last bout and I will whip this one," is a routine remark. The trouble is that we do not comprehend the dangerous possibilities which one of these seizures may bring.

The only safe rule—if there is a temperature of even one degree—is to go to bed. With rest and good hygiene, body resistance will rise and the disorder will pass quickly. There is no method by which we can break up one of these affairs, or induce it to depart abruptly. The alternative is to increase the power of our own tissues to destroy the causative organisms. Drinking plenty of fluids will induce perspiration and persuade the kidneys to excrete a generous quantity of toxins.

If a sore throat is present, or a hot stuffy sensation within the nostrils persists, gargles or very dilute nasal irrigations may be indicated. The purpose of these procedures is to wash away germs which otherwise might find their way up the Eustachian tubes into the middle ear spaces. Take a hot bath, go to bed, and imbibe a pint of orange juice or hot lemonade.

During the acute phase one should adopt mild starvation. Little nourishment will be required if bed rest is complete. Soft eggs, toast, tea, a little crisp bacon, and orange juice will suffice. If laxatives are needed only a mild product, such as compound licorice powder, should be employed.

We can prevent these attacks only by maintaining a sizable reserve within our bodies. As we know, our storehouses will be depleted whenever we lose sleep, become exposed to chill, or to overheated, poorly ventilated rooms. Because of the contagious nature of the infection, it is well to keep one's distance from all sufferers.

If there is a dry bronchial cough, no measure is more useful than saturating the air of the sickroom with steam impregnated with tincture of compound benzoin or oil of eucalyptus. An electrically heated device will keep the atmosphere well filled with vapor. This will relieve much irritation in the airways, including the bronchi. Cough medicines or sedatives will be prescribed only if constant "barking" interferes with rest.

What about vaccines? While medical opinion is divided as to their value, there is no contraindication as to their use. Certain preparations, which consist of killed bacteria of various types, may be taken by mouth. Capsules containing these materials should be swallowed at least an hour before meals. One "pill" daily for the first week, and one or two each week thereafter, may establish considerable immunity so that fewer colds will be encountered. Those that come, despite this program, may be mild.

Perhaps we have not had enough experience with the various drugs of the sulfanilamide group. But these compounds cannot be relied upon to aid in the acute stage. The reason is that they will not affect viruses—the "starters." But should complications appear—such as pneumonia, sinus infection, or middle ear disease—we may utilize them with excellent results. Many an operation for mastoid trouble has been avoided by resorting to one of these chemicals.

IT MAY.

L. M. writes: Does wearing high heeled shoes make varicose veins worse?

REPLY.

Probably, because the foot is in an unnatural position, with considerable strain on the ligaments. Normal movements, which we depend upon for the return of blood to the heart, cannot occur. As we know, stagnation of the circulation leads to dilatation of the veins.

IRRITATION FROM OIL.

T. S. writes: I am a machinist and my arms—which come in contact with oil—are always covered with pimples. How can I help this difficulty?

REPLY.

You are probably sensitive to the particular grade of oil which causes a dermatitis [inflammation of the skin]. Protection [such as gauntlets] should be provided.

NOBILITY AMONG POOR FOLKS.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—For a year I have been making official studies of the social and economic problems of families located in the south, that is in regions like that pictured in "Tobacco Road."

These studies were made after I had spent a good part of my adult life in Chicago hearing tales of the degradation among the families of the poor farmers of the south. What I actually found among them then was a considerable shock. They do have often a "way of life" that should be revealing to all us superior minded city folk who have begun to pity the rural poor.

Most of them, living on land and with possessions that would hardly be worth in cash an amount equivalent to that of a city worker's monthly pay check, still have an aspect of greatness in their living: Contentment, respect for family life, simplicity of living, no worship of things or money, primitive appreciation of nature, and no excessive ambition.

Often as I looked at Uncle Joe, the poor farmer with his dilapidated shack, one mule, and 40 acres in cultivation, I went back in my memory to the many persons caught in the maelstrom of city living. Certainly there are many of these who, tho obtaining all the fruits of metropolitan life, would still yearn for some of the contentment I have seen in the eyes of "poor, downtrodden Uncle Joe."

There is a still further lesson. What is a social truth? Can a civilization be known by a study of its sewers? Can the rural south be known by the fantastic writings of city observers who look only for a negative side of living? In the south there are still noble ways and great people. They may not have our modern plumbing. And they may not want it!

COLLEGE COLLOQUY—1960.

Winona, Minn., Oct. 1.—"Scene on any college chapel steps in 1960?"

Group of college youngsters sitting around with books. One says, "Do we have an exam on the Whole Roosevelt War tomorrow?"

Another: "Nope, only on the Massacre of Dakar."

Another: "Why I thought it was only on that battle at Singapore, you know, the one where 100,000 Americans were killed.

Another: "Thank heaven, we're past the Roosevelt war. We're up to the panic of 1945."

Another: "We're at the riots of 1946 and the blood purge."

Another: "Ho, hum! I've got to toddle off to Roosevelt Economics I, and I don't know a word of the lesson."

THE TWO POLICIES TWINS.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Senator Connally in urging an amendment to the neutrality act pompously pretends that he is a mighty defender of the traditional American policy of the freedom of the seas. Connally is either ignorant or a loud mouthed hypocrite. Doesn't the senator from Texas know that the traditional American policy of freedom of the seas and the traditional American neutrality with respect to European wars are Siamese twins and that, in his advocacy of a modification of the neutrality act, he is not contending for the traditional American policy of the freedom of the seas but is only advocating a declaration of war against Germany under a hypocritical pretense? ERNEST BRADSHAW.

HIS RADIO HOURS UPSET.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 1.—Those who watch out so tenderly for the welfare of the masses in Chicago have been exceptionally kind in not changing back our daylight saving status.

Formerly on the way home from work I was more or less forced to listen to such radio reports as the war and the world today. But now how thankful I am that, during this 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. period, I can listen to Jack Armstrong, the All-American Boy, and Capt. Midnight.

I wish I could see my way to stay up after 10 o'clock to see what they might want us to listen to at that hour. But—you know—early to bed and early to rise—in the dark. MCVICKER OF INVERNESS.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Has Chicago become just another suburban town which insists on walking out of step in regard to change of time? Why be that way? It ruins the radio programs for one thing.

DISGUSTED.

TIME FOR CONSUMER TO ACT.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Your article of Sept. 26 on the current trend of prices was timely. Particularly significant in that it stressed the rapid rise of food costs in the face of the greatest agricultural surpluses the nation has ever had. All of which suggests a lack of interest on the part of the government in the welfare of the people.

A specific instance is the case of milk. Chicago residents, in the center of the largest milk producing section of the country, and paying close to the highest milk prices in the country, were told that they could expect no relief; that, indeed, there may be further increases.

With only a fallacious price control bill in the offing, isn't it time the long suffering average consumer began to act in his own behalf?

Could not an overwhelming body of public opinion be brought to the support of such a campaign? F. C. M.

A WAR MAD PROFESSOR.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 30.—In a speech in Cincinnati last Thursday Dr. Francis E. McMahon of Notre Dame university charged that "obstructionists of the national policy are engaged in nothing but treason today." Must we, the 80 per cent, be so because the worthy doctor makes the statement? Hardly.

Shall we question our own patriotism because we don't express views contrary to our conviction?

TWO JOBS; "DEFENSE."

Chicago, Oct. 1.—When did the city of Chicago start giving city employés furloughs to enter defense plants to work—holding two jobs and thereby depriving another working man of a job? I heard of a caulker in the plumbing department who took a furlough and is working in a defense plant in Joliet. This won't get people off relief or WPA. A. B.

PROPERTY LINES.

Rochester, Ind., Sept. 24. — [Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there an Indiana state law permitting an individual to seize, retain and claim as his own a parcel of land, unimproved, belonging to another and adjacent to property [2] where the individual lived for 20 years, on which he pays no taxes?

Case in point: Recently I purchased a farm in Indiana on which my abstract does not indicate any transfer of any part of the land covered by same.

3. Looking over the property a few days ago I contacted the party who claims the small portion of ground and he was not at all pleasant but claimed, as stated, he lived there long enough to claim the ground. This was not mentioned in the transfer to me by the person who owned the farm originally. The ground lies on a river and is rising in value for resort purposes. All this so you can sort of get a line on my position.

4. Can the party take it?

5. Does it seem fraudulent transfer if he can and it was not mentioned?

R. R.

1. Yes. Practically all states have such statutes of limitation.

2. It is not clear which party you mean by "the individual." The Indiana period is six years.

3. If the conveyance to you was by warranty deed and part of the described land had been in adverse possession for six years you would be entitled to recover damages for breach of warranty.

4. He probably can.

5. Not fraudulent, but see 3.

COUNTY'S DRAFT BOARDS NEARING BOTTOM OF LIST

Many Deferred Cases Will Be Put in Class 1A.

Draft registrants who have been placed in deferred classification by their local boards face the probability of being reclassified and, in the cases of some boards, conscripted within a few months, draft officials here said yesterday.

A survey of Cook county's 180 local boards disclosed that the county may be expected to reach the bottom of its draft lists within six months, chiefly because of the deferment of men over 28 and of most married men, and because the 21 year olds who registered July 1 are producing about half as many 1-A men as was anticipated.

Conscription Chief Explains.

"When a local board exhausts its list of registrants it is instructed to review its entire list of deferred men," explained Paul G. Armstrong, state director of conscription. "During a recent trip thru eastern states I found several cases where boards already have been forced to follow this procedure."

The most obvious reclassifications, Armstrong said, will be in cases where an oversight of the board or a change in the circumstances of the registrant justify placing the man in 1-A. As for medical deferments, already a supermedical advisory board is reviewing these cases and placing in 1-A many men now deferred because of misinterpretations or unfamiliarity with army requirements on the part of local physicians.

The "Borderline" Cases.

Possibly the greatest number of reclassifications, however, will be made from so-called borderline cases of deferment for dependency or occupational reasons, in which the local board has great latitude of judgment and may adopt a less liberal policy on second inspection.

"Suppose a board finds a borderline case in 3-A [dependency claim]," one conscription official explained. "Say the wife is making $1,500 a year. The board may call in the registrant and his wife, and decide that she is sufficiently self-supporting to warrant placing the husband in 1-A. Or they may find a piano maker deferred because he is important to his business—not because the business is important to national rearmament. He could easily be reclassified."

QUIZ IN DIVORCE SUIT IS SHUNNED BY MRS. ORTON

Neither Mrs. Annabelle Adams Orton nor Lou Root, president of the New York Wire Cloth company, were present yesterday in room 2406 of 100 North La Salle street, altho subpenas to appear were served on both last Friday.

The subpenas served on the couple when they dined in a loop restaurant ordered them to appear before Commissioner Robert Collins to give depositions on the divorce bill brought by Mrs. Orton's husband, Philo, owner of a crane and shovel company. The bill charges Mrs. Orton with misconduct with a "Mr. R."

The commissioner was ready. So was Orton, silver-haired, 68, and spruce in a neat green suit. But Attorney W. S. Schwab, appearing for Mrs. Orton, said she could not and would not be there. Orton's attorney, Daniel A. Covelli, then said he would petition Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch Saturday for a court order requiring her appearance.

2 Senators Ask Axis Spy Quiz

Get Warship Facts

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—A federal counter espionage operative testified today that an alleged German spy obtained for transmission to Germany minute construction details of this country's new 35,000 ton battleships and of a new aircraft carrier.

William G. Sebold, the counter-spy, testified that Richard H. Kleiss, one of 16 men on trail on espionage charges, gave him for transmission an extensive report in which Kleiss described the armament, armor plating and new devices of the battleship and a diagram of small landing boats. Sebold ostensibly was in the employ of the German gestapo at the time, but actually was turning his information over to the FBI.

The letter, dated Sept. 17, 1940, was introduced into evidence and purported to show Keiss as the author. It represented him as having made a complete tour of the Newport News, Va., shipyards.

Sebold did not testify as to whether the information was transmitted to Germany and government counsel declined to enlighten reporters.

Earlier Sebold testified that German spies paid operatives in this country money with which to obtain the secret Sperry bombsight and cautioned them not to purchase the famous Norden bombsight because spies already had obtained it.

Japs Under Fire

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Senators Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] and Edwin C. Johnson [D., Col.] proposed in the senate today the creation of a special committee to investigate reports of espionage and subversive activities by diplomatic representatives of Japan and other axis powers.

Acting with what Gillette said was "the approval of the justice department, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the intelligence services of the army and navy, the two legislators proposad an immediate inquiry by a group of five senators into alleged efforts to organize aliens and persons with citizenship in more than one country, for subversive purposes.

Declaring that he was informed that some Japanese consular agents had been "ceaseless in their activities" in organizing groups "hostile or potentially hostile" to this country, Gillette told the senate:

"If the allegations are supported by the facts developed in investigation, it would seem to be high time these Japanese consular officials be accorded the same treatment that has been accorded by our state department to German and Italian officials under similar conditions."

All German and Italian consulates in the United States were closed and the consuls sent home by order of the state department.

STRIKE DELAYS EQUIPMENT FOR AIR FERRY BASE

New York, Oct. 2 [Special].—The recent shipping strike so delayed transportation of workers, technicians and materials to the American naval base at Bermuda that the proposed trip of the liner Acadia to West Africa, with aviation equipment and personnel, has been postponed, an Alcoa line official said today.

The Acadia, which was to have been delivered to the maritime commission yesterday, will make one more trip to Bermuda, then will sail for Africa with equipment for Pan American Airways—bases to be used in ferrying airplanes to British forces in the middle east.

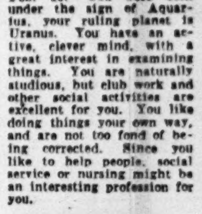
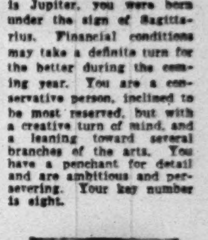
You are foresighted and direct, qualities which will help you to achieve recognition.



Geraldine Deering, Northfield, Minn.

March 9. You were born under the sign of Pisces, your ruling planet is Neptune. This should be an advantageous year for you if you make use of your natural abilities and control a tendency toward impracticality and indecision. Cultivate self-confidence, and you can be successful in many lines. Your key number is four.



Frank J. Bartusek, Chicago.

May 4. You were born under the sign of Taurus, your ruling planet is Venus. You are a generous, good humored person, with a stable and thoroly dependable character. Russell D. Torwelle, Hawarden, Ia.

July 2. You were born under the sign of Cancer, your ruling planet is the Moon. You are gifted with an excellent memory, for that reason, statistical or scientific work may be of interest to you in the future. You have strong family ties, and enjoy your home and your friends. Gertrude E. Kellogg, Chicago.

Aug. 2. You were born under the sign of Leo, symbolized by the lion, and your ruling planet is the Sun. New and useful friends may be yours in the coming year, and if you are careful to appreciate them, your popularity will probably increase. You have an aptitude for natural leadership and are a true and loyal friend, but must guard against being dictatorial or egotistic. You can excel either in the business world or as a homemaker.

John L. Bullinger, Dyersville, Ia.

Oct. 18. You were born under the sign of Libra, your ruling planet or birth star is Venus. You have a great desire for perfection, plus a gentle, likeable personality which expresses itself in many ways. Sensitive, you are easily hurt, and should endeavor to develop emotional balance. Mrs. Leonard Jones, Janesville, Wis.

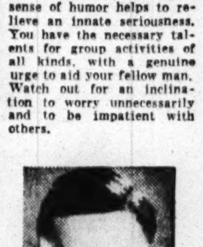
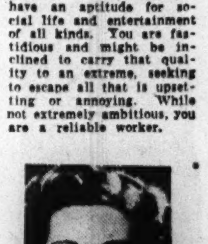
July 29. You were born under the sign of Leo, your ruling planet is the Sun. Loyalty to those you love is one of your outstanding characteristics. You have great interest in your family and are an understanding and helpful friend. Natural ability as a leader is yours, and your disposition is generally excellent. However, you must try to avoid an impulse to dominate. Sunday should be a good day for you.



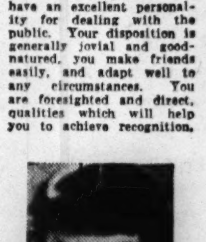
Chas. F. Tillmann, Gillespie, Ill.

Sept. 9. You were born under the sign of Virgo, your ruling planet or birth star is Mercury. You can be tactful and judicious when you wish, since your mental attitude is likely to be analytical, a quality which helps you to see things fairly. However, you have an impulsive side to your nature which may, at times, be a handicap to you. You have many casual friends, but select your really close associates carefully.



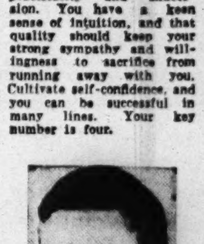
Marguerite Stevens, Hebron, Ind.

April 2. Your ruling planet is Mars, you were born under the sign of Aries. The coming year looks good for you, both in business and social activities. You are an independent person, with a great drive toward accomplishment and action. Progress is important to you, and you can bring confidence and responsibility to any work which you assume. Your greatest fault is probably an inclination to be too outspoken, so when annoyed, try to avoid being stubborn or argumentative.



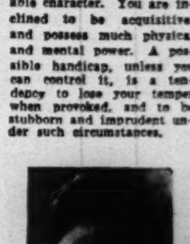
William A. Casey, Chicago.

Sept. 13. Your ruling planet is Mercury, you were born under the sign of Virgo. If you cultivate and develop your natural abilities, you can find success in many fields. You are inclined to be thoughtful and serious, and are a resourceful, efficient person. Neatness and order are essential to you, and you are apt to be fussy and precise. Guard against faultfinding, it is a sheer waste of energy. Your key number is three.



Mrs. O. E. Draudt, Marion, Ind.

Nov. 1. You were born under the sign of Scorpio, and your ruling planet is Mars. Your mind is a keen and probing one, you do not like to lack understanding in any problem. An ability to go straight to the heart of things is yours, plus strength and courage. You have good talents of expression, and wit and humor as well. You must guard against being too frank and brusque, cultivate patience and tolerance of others. Your key number is eight.



John B. Grier, Chicago.

Nov. 5. You were born under the sign of Scorpio, your ruling planet is Mars. You are much inclined to be skeptical, and can keep your opinions to yourself. Your mental processes are keen and probing, you know how to discard the unnecessary and go directly to the vital point. However, you are inclined to be critical of others who are not equally acute, an attitude which may be misunderstood and which you should attempt to control. Tuesday should be a good day for you.

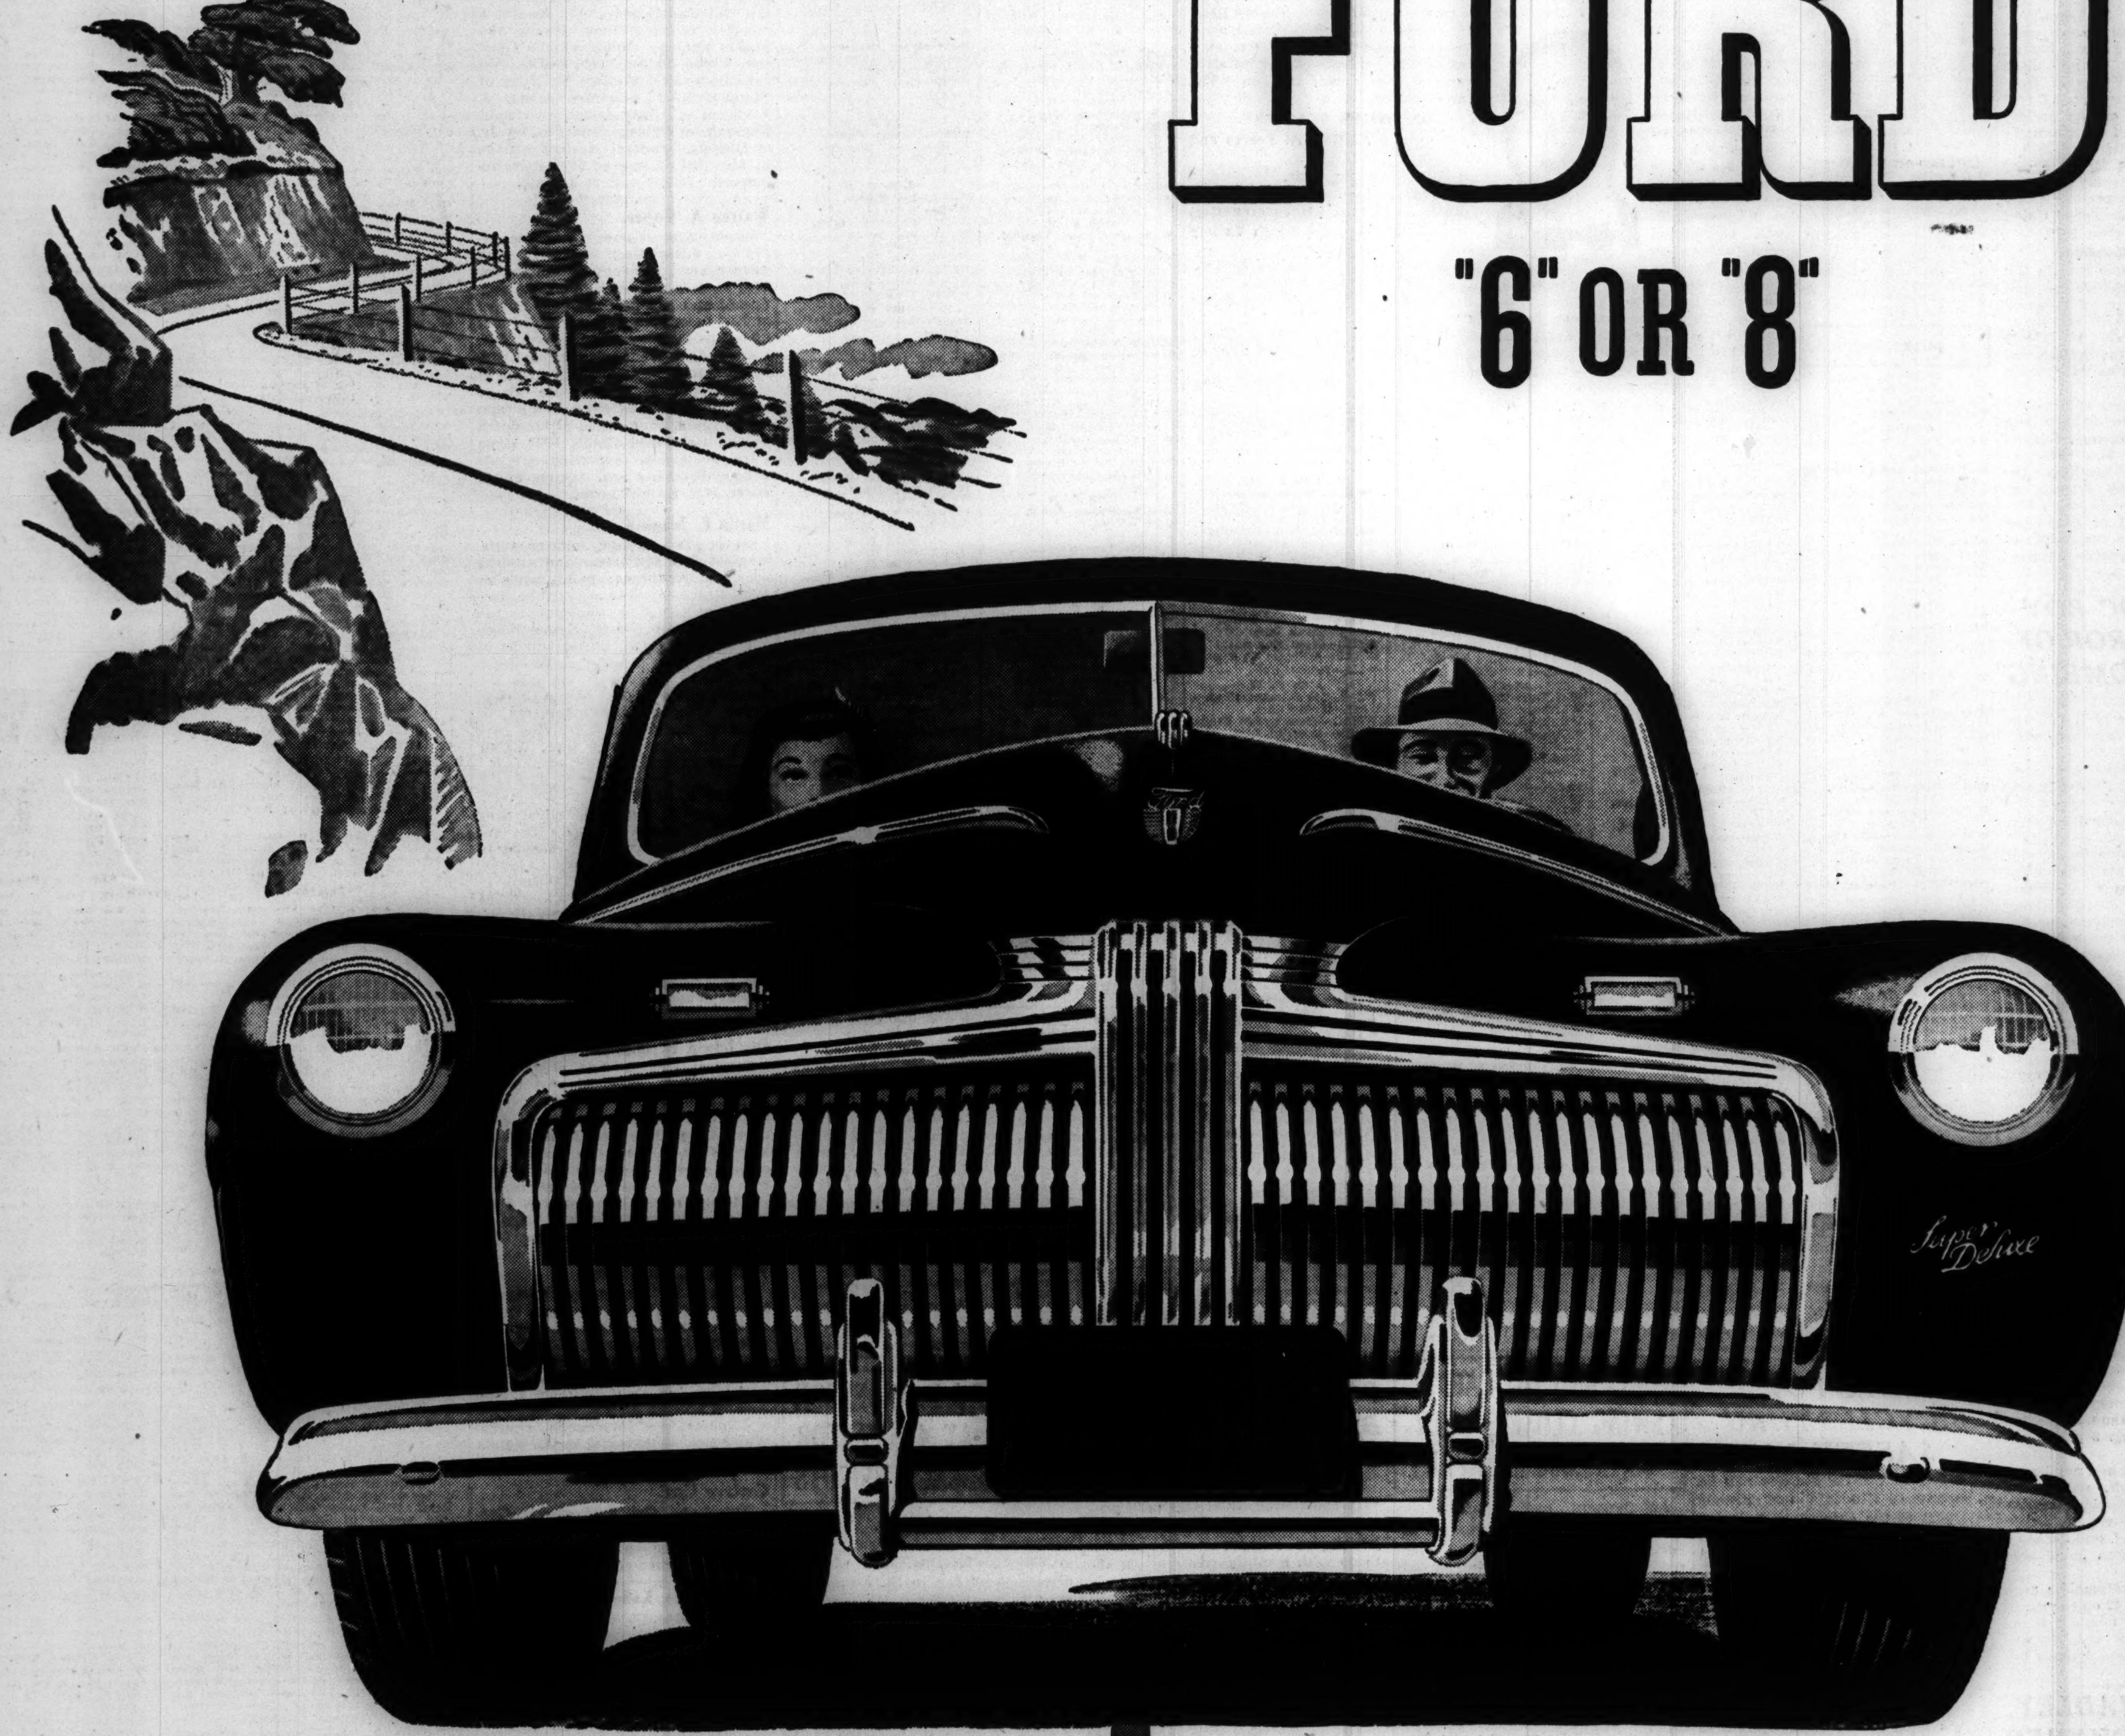
For 1942—a Beautiful New

FORD

"6" OR "8"



IN THESE UNUSUAL TIMES we invite you to inspect an unusual new car—new in its beauty, its comfort, its choice of two fine 90 horsepower engines, 6 cylinders or 8.

See it and you sense at once that here is new style that will stay good for years. On a lower, wider chassis, we have designed new long, low, wide and modern lines.

Interior treatment is entirely fresh, distinctive, pleasing. The beauty of this Ford will more than hold its own in any company.

Inside, the car is big in every way—wide across the seats, generous in knee-room, leg-room, elbow-room.

On the road this year you find the "new Ford ride" still further advanced in its softness, quietness, steadiness and all-round comfort.

At the wheel, you will find driving easier than ever. Steering, gear-shifting, action of the big and sure hydraulic brakes have all been made smoother and easier.

In quality, the car is sound to the last detail. Defense requirements have all been met without a single reduction in the basic and lasting goodness of the Ford mechanically. Some new materials have replaced old ones, usually at a greater cost to us, but in every case the new is equal to or better than the old.

If your family needs a new car, go see and drive this Ford. For what it is today and for what it will be through the years ahead, we believe that you will find in it more and better transportation for your money than you have ever found before.

MANITOWOC BOY TELLS TERROR OF A SUEZ BOMBING

Manitowoc, Wis., Oct. 2 [Special].—A first hand account of the unsuccessful bombing of an American freighter by a German plane in the Suez canal last July was told today by a Manitowoc youth, Robert Bredesen, 20 years old, who was on the ship as a cadet in the maritime service.

Bredesen, who is home for a brief visit with his parents, Municipal Judge and Mrs. Osuld T. Bredesen, said three bombs were dropped alongside the ship, the S. S. President Buchanan. Altho none of the bombs hit the vessel, the concussion sprung steel plates, broke plumbing, and smashed hundreds of light bulbs, he said.

"I was asleep when the bombs started to fall," the youth related. "I started to hunt for my pants, then began groping for a life preserver. An officer told me the ship was sinking, which scared me still more. The whistle of the falling bombs and the roar of the explosion was the most terrifying sound I've ever heard."

REAL DOWNPOUR FOLLOWS CITY'S ALL DAY DRIZZLE

An all-day drizzle culminated last night in a real downpour which flooded many railroad underpasses and tied up street car and boulevard automobile traffic. Measurements at the Chicago airport weather bureau showed a rainfall of .96 of an inch from 12:30 p. m. yesterday to 2 a. m. today; of that more than a quarter of an inch fell between 8 p. m. and 2 a. m.

Viaducts on the west and northwest sides were hardest hit, notably at 4600 and 4900 Grand avenue, Augusta boulevard and Kenton avenue, Kinzie street and Pulaski road, and Jackson, Warren, and Washington boulevards along Rockwell street.

Police reported 50 automobile accidents on the west side, 42 on the south side, and 29 on the north side as traceable to the rain and slippery pavements. Half a dozen persons suffered minor injuries.

WILLIAM HADLEY, BLIND FOUNDER OF SCHOOL, DIES

He was a teacher in the Lakeview High school from 1900 until 1915, when he lost his sight and retired. Six years later, aided by a group of north shore men, he started the school for the blind. He retired from direction of the school six years ago.

Mr. Hadley's wife, Jessie, died a year ago. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Humphreys of Chicago and Mrs. R. N. Tredwell of La Grange, Ill. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Winnetka Congregational church.

PUPILS TO PUT BICYCLES THRU SAFETY LANES

"Safety lanes" for bicycles will be a feature of Students' and Bicycle day, part of the observance today of Courtesy week as more than 500,000 pupils of public, parochial, and private schools participate in the day's activities.

Bike riders at the John W. Garvy school, 5225 North Oak Park avenue, whose wheels pass tests for lights, brakes, tires, wheels, and seats, will be given safety stickers by George W. Fleming, secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee which sponsors Courtesy week. Many school assemblies will emphasize the dangers of careless bike riding.

At another assembly, in the D. R. Cameron school, 1234 North Monticello avenue, patrol boys will dramatize some of their expereinces in handling traffic and protecting school children. Pupils at the Joyce Kilmer school, 6700 Greenview avenue, will see a puppet show, "Courtesy Is Worth While," written and presented by members of the eighth grade. Green courtesy bows will be awarded by vote of the pupils to the children selected as "most courteous at all times."

MARS AND THE EARTH SWING CLOSER; ONLY 38,130,000 MI. APART

Astronomers and amateur sky gazers are enjoying an unusual opportunity to study Mars. The bright red star early this morning is only 38,130,000 miles away from the earth. And astronomically speaking, that's close, according to Maude Bennot, director of the Adler planetarium.

Both the earth and Mars travel in ellipses around the sun. Every 720 days the earth comes directly between Mars and the sun, and Mars is visible all night.

Sometimes this occurs when Mars is at its greatest distance from the sun and about 63 million miles from the earth.

FOR STRAWBERRY BLONDE: MILLION CASH AND A COLD!

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2 [Special].—Virginia Hansen, an attractive 24 year old strawberry blonde, had two problems today—a summer cold and what to do with a million dollars. Of the two, the cold appeared somewhat more immediate but less important to Miss Hansen, an office worker who is preparing to contribute one job toward solution of the unemployment problem.

Miss Hansen, a city welfare department employé, was declared the owner of the Bear Film company, of San Francisco and Oakland, Cal., in a decision handed down today in San Francisco by Superior Judge C. J. Goodell. The company was founded by Miss Hansen's father, Oscar C. Hansen, who died several years ago.

Judge Goodell ruled that Miss Hansen was not disinherited when her father was estranged from her mother and when he transferred his stock in the film company to Miss Hansen's grandmother.

400 LAWMAKERS SEE BLITZKRIEG PUT ON BY ARMY

Hope to Get Congress to Vote More Funds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—Blitzkrieg warfare — American plan — was demonstrated this afternoon to Vice President Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and some 400 members of congress, foreign military attachés and newspapermen today at Fort Belvoir, Va.

The demonstration was considered to be one of the finest bits of strategy executed by the army high command. It may cost the American taxpayers 1 billion dollars.

It was staged with the idea of securing congressional votes for an army request for materiel which was denied by congress a few weeks back. In the last war department appropriation bill was an item for 1 billion 347 million dollars for additional ordnance and other materiel, which was denied by the senate.

Restore 750 Million Dollars.

In conference 750 million dollars of the controversial item was restored, leaving the army 597 millions short of its goal. A week ago Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson announced that the war department would not only seek to get the 597 millions, but would ask for an additional 403 million dollars to round out a billion dollar supplemental appropriation bill.

Following his announcement, the army high command made plans for today's junket to nearby Fort Belvoir to give members of congress a chance to inspect the equipment the army is seeking on the ground and in action. At the end of the day the congressmen expressed themselves as "captured and captivated" by the day's war games.

The day opened with an inspection of military equipment from the rifle to eight inch howitzers and from trucks to the army's latest secret, the radio range finder, which spots the altitude and direction of enemy planes by radio impulses. Photographing of this piece of equipment was barred.

Heavy Pontoon Bridges.

Next on the program was a thoro demonstration of the various types of bridge building from foot bridges to heavy pontoon bridges which can support 30 ton medium tanks. Engineer companies built the bridges under the eyes of members of congress.

The feature of the day were combat exercises. One exercise showed how tank and anti-tank units made war on each other. This exercise was held on the tactical grounds of the fort. The guests viewed the mock combat from vantage seats on a hillside.

Following this exercise was a demonstration of an infantry battalion in attack, which was supported by combined arms, including cavalry, artillery, engineers, tanks, airplanes, and parachute troops. The problem was carried out over the entire valley in front of the specially constructed grandstand.

CLARK REPORTS VALUATION ON LAKE DISTRICT

Assessor John S. Clark reported yesterday that the 1941 personal property assessment valuation for the Lake district, which extends south and west from Pershing road and State street to the city limits, has been put at $48,857,981, a decrease of $7,035,906, or 12.59 per cent, from the 1940 valuation.

With the Lake district valuation reported, all but one of Cook county's 38 tax towns have been reported. The missing district, South town, includes the loop. For the 37 districts, the total valuation is $417,120,765, down $64,626,541 or 13.42 per cent from last year.

Clark said that this year's drop in the total valuation resulted from Illinois Supreme court decisions which ordered reductions in the valuations on certain properties of utilities, and which exempted individually owned stocks of out-of-state corporations having tangible assets in Illinois. The utility ruling cut total Cook county utility valuations about 18 million dollars, Clark said.

PRESS SEARCH FOR HUSBAND OF SLAIN WOMAN

Police continued their search yesterday for the husband of Mrs. Irene Garswick, 21 years old, a dice girl who was found strangled Wednesday in her apartment at 941 Windsor avenue. The husband, Edward Garswick, 31, a taxicab driver, has not been seen since last Sunday.

Sergt. George Brady of the Town Hall station reported that the woman was slain some time between Sunday night and Tuesday. An early edition of Monday's TRIBUNE was found alongside the body. A towel was wrapped tightly around the throat. The victim was wearing a fur cape.

Charles Sanders, owner of the Shag Bark tavern at 3320 Broadway, where the girl was employed, said that she and her husband quarreled frequently because he played the horses. The victim's mother, Mrs. Doris Besser, 1968 Lincoln avenue, said that her daughter telephoned her Sunday night and said that she and her husband were quarreling.

GETS 75 YEARS FOR RAPE AND 30 FOR ROBBERY

Chester Calloway, 31 years old, colored, an escaped convict from Texas, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Julius Miner in Criminal court to 75 years in prison on a charge of rape. Calloway also was sentenced to serve a minimum term of 30 years on three charges of robbery, the sentences to run consecutively.

Calloway was identified by a telephone operator as the robber who on July 7 forced her into an alley near her home on the west side and raped her after threatening to kill her. He was armed. Calloway, arrested on suspicion, denied the rape but admitted committing a number of street and store holdups.

Assistant State's Attorney Irwin Clorfene said Calloway had escaped in 1932 from the Rumsey, Tex., prison farm, where he was serving an 8 year sentence for larceny and perjury.

BOSS CIRCELLA SOUGHT IN VAIN BY U. S. AGENTS

Federal agents admitted last night that the search for Nick Circella, alias Nick Dean, the hoodlum labor boss, is no nearer its goal than when it started. A warrant for Circella's arrest as a material witness in the trial of George Browne and Willie Bioff which will begin Monday in New York was issued here last July 10.

Nick Circella, alias Nick Dean.

A deputy United States marshal, an FBI agent, and an assistant of J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, have devoted most of their time to the search since it began. Known haunts of the night club owner and czar of the motion picture operators' union have been under almost constant surveillance. It is now believed Circella may have left the city for some retreat in the country.

Since the warrant was issued Circella has been indicted by a federal grand jury in New York on charges almost identical with those Browne and Bioff face—extorting money from motion picture producers under threats of labor troubles.

LAST DEFENDANT IN RELIEF CASE GETS SENTENCE

Prosecution of the pending court cases in the Bremen township relief scandal of 1940 was ended yesterday when James Bennette, former bookkeeper in the township relief station, was sentenced by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court to 90 days in the county jail on his plea of guilty to a charge of conspiracy to defraud.

Bennette, who was a fugitive for several months after an incendiary fire swept thru the township relief station, was the state's chief witness in the conspiracy trial of Otto Ziebell, 65 years old, former township supervisor for a quarter of a century. Ziebell was convicted and on Wednesday began serving a six months' sentence.

Bennette pleaded guilty of two charges of forgery and was placed on probation. He protested against the 90 day sentence because of his activity as state's witness in the prosecution, but Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin said the state believed Bennette should receive some punishment. Bennette was granted a stay of sentence until Monday.

HUNT BANDIT GANG.

Police sought a gang of four bandits who stole a car from a garage at 847 West 69th street early yesterday and then committed four holdups on the south side, obtaining a total of $86.

SEEKING MOTIVE FOR ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP RIVERS

Horace W. Bikle Jr. [AP Wirephoto.]

Lakeland, Ga., Oct. 2 [Special].—The mystification of authorities increased tonight with each step of their search for a motive in the strange attack made on former Gov. E. D. Rivers by a man who later killed himself.

The assailant was identified by a driver's license as Horace Waters Bikle of Pittsburgh, Pa. A man of that name resigned as a junior high school teacher in Pittsburgh in 1933 and went south. His father, Horace W. Bikle Sr., is prominent in church and business activities in a Pittsburgh suburb.

The Bikle who attacked Rivers and his wife in their home last night and fled when they almost overcame him, shot himself to death as police surrounded him in a trailer at a tourist camp in nearby Valdosta where they had quickly trailed him.

So Many Bizarre Clews.

The contents of the trailer provided so many bizarre clews that investigators could not immediately decide upon a theory in the case. Two complete sets of new chains were fastened to one of the beds in the trailer in such a way that they could have been used to hold a captive. There was a large roll of 12 inch adhesive tape, such as could be used to bind and gag a person.

An uncompleted note, believed to have been written after Bikle returned to the trailer from Rivers' home, read:

"Since I have failed, the least I can do is to save the people from further expense. May God and all those I love and that love me forgive me. My motive is not robbery, but the futile attempt of a person crazed. . . ."

Another note appeared to have been drafted for Rivers to sign as a ransom plea and a third one, vague and rambling, implied political motives for the attack.

Hatred for Leaders.

In a letter received by his wife in New York and postmarked from Valdosta, Bikle wrote: "I know you are worrying about your people in Norway, but things must improve." He also wrote her of his "growing hatred for our various local, state, and national leaders who have betrayed the people and fattened by doing so."

He told his wife he "had hoped to find something that could be done; some growing organization that would have a plan to work against those known to be politically corrupt and those corrupting them, some way to unearth and expose the selfish interests that are so willing to sacrifice this country."

His wife, who left New York this morning, supposedly to come here, described her husband as having a most gentle disposition and as being "very patriotic."

CARLSTROM SUES HOWARD ELMORE FOR $12,500 FEE

Oscar E. Carlstrom, attorney general of Illinois from 1924 to 1933, yesterday filed suit in Superior court against Howard W. Elmore, wealthy real estate broker and former president of the Chicago sanitary district, for $12,500 attorney's fees.

Carlstrom represented Elmore in 1936 when he was charged with income tax fraud and evasions totaling $100,000, according to the suit. The government's case was dismissed, but Elmore has never paid the attorney fee, Carlstrom charged.

Elmore's office is at 29 South La Salle street. Carlstrom lives in Aledo, Mercer county. Attorney Frederick W. Turner Jr. is representing Carlstrom.

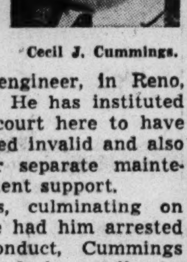
MARIE CUMMINGS.

A tale of how her ex-husband telephoned her 75 times in two weeks and then set his dog on her was related to Municipal Judge John V. McCormick in Shakespeare avenue court yesterday by a school teacher.



Cecil J. Cummings.

The teacher, Mrs. Marie Cummings, 35, of 5471 Division street, divorced from her husband, Cecil J., a civil engineer, in Reno, Nev., on Aug. 26. He has instituted suit in Superior court here to have the divorce declared invalid and also has filed suit for separate maintenance and permanent support.

For two weeks, culminating on Sept. 22 when she had him arrested for disorderly conduct, Cummings harassed her with telephone calls, she told the judge. Preceding the arrest, he ambushed her in her garage, she said, set his dog on her, and rifled her handbag.

Cummings denied all the charges. Judge McCormick continued the case until Nov. 13 and warned both to refrain from annoying each other until the divorce is settled. The latter hearing comes up today before Superior Judge Rudolph Desort.

BUS COMPANY GIVES FIGURES IN FARE FIGHT

The Chicago Motor Coach company told the Illinois Commerce commission yesterday that the original cost of company equipment at the end of July was $10,004,400 and by January will be $10,683,686 because of new equipment on order. The statement was made at a hearing in defense of the company's 10 cent fare rate.

Leonard P. Spacek of the accounting firm of Arthur Andersen & Co. told Assistant Commissioners William E. Helander and Howard West that the net earnings from operations, according to company books, for the 12 month period which ended July 31, were $674,384. He then said that when proper deductions are made for increases in taxes, wages, gasoline costs, and material costs the net earnings for rate making purposes for this year would approximately $421,006.

He said those figures did not include increased costs which may be caused by substitute materials used because of priorities on certain metals for national rearmament purposes. The hearing was continued to Oct. 9 for cross-examination of the company witnesses.

PHONE EMPLOYE ENDS LIFE.

Albert Shaw, 43 years old, an office employé of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, committed suicide yesterday in the garage behind his home at 4948 North Wolcott avenue. His body was found in the rear seat of his car by his wife, Gertrude. A rubber hose led from the exhaust into the car.

SMALL BUSINESS WATCHING NLRB CONTEMPT CASE

Small business men are awaiting with interest a hearing next Tuesday before the United States Court of Appeals in which O. C. Lightner, a magazine publisher at 2810 South Michigan avenue, is scheduled to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court. Lightner is accused of having refused to obey the court's order to comply with a ruling by the National Labor Relations board.

O. C. Lightner.

Lightner's troubles began in 1937, when 15 employés went on strike, charging he refused to bargain collectively with them. He closed his plant for several months. In 1940, after countless hearings, the NLRB ordered Lightner to rehire the strikers and pay them back wages, now amounting to about $10,000. Lightner refused, and the court order followed.

If the publisher is found guilty of contempt, he is liable to a jail term, the first ever imposed under the Wagner act.

Assign Municipal Court Judges to New Duties

Chief Justice Edward S. Scheffler of the Municipal court yesterday announced the October assignments of judges, effective next Monday. Judge Charles S. Dougherty, now in Felony court, will change places with Judge Erwin Hasten, sitting in the Jury and Auto Thefts court. Judge Leon Edelman has been assigned to the Safety court and Judge Frank E. Donoghue to the License court.

700 WAREHOUSE EMPLOYES VOTE ON UNION TODAY

The nine month fight for union control of 700 warehousemen employed by the National Tea company will be decided today by the men in an election under jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations board.

The balloting will take place in the company's plant, 1000 Crosby street, with Robert Williams, NLRB field examiner in charge. The voters will decide between an AFL union dominated by the teamsters or an independent union. They also may reject both.

On the eve of the election a group of the independent union's leaders, who have been slugged or have lost their jobs during the struggle, abandoned the independent union and went over to a local ruled by the teamsters.

Voting will begin at 5 a. m. today and will continue until 6 p. m.

GIFTS OF COOKIES, CANDIES PLEASE BOYS IN BARRACKS

Here Are Some Sweets You Might Send.

BY YVONNE CROWLEY.

If the family's heartiest food fancier is now improving his appetite at one of the military training camps, he's bound to welcome a few sweet morsels from home.

If the food is to be sent thru the mail one must be careful to choose articles that are not too perishable, for damaged goods will be a disappointment in spite of the thought behind them. A good, moist fruit cake will travel safely for some distance if it has been thoroly wrapped in waxed paper and then packed carefully into a tightly covered metal container. Cookies and candies, too, should keep well in metal boxes.

Baking Tin May Be Used.

If such gift boxes are unavailable you can send the cookies or candy right in the pan to their destination. Just bake the cookie mixture [bar cookies are best for this purpose], or pour the candy into a square layer cake pan, mark into squares and wrap with waxed paper when cool. The removable bottom of another cake pan of the same size will give added protection as a covering for the food. Better include postage with the gift, to make sure that the pans will be returned promptly.

If you're looking for ideas for not too perishable food gifts, try these recipes on the sweet toothed boys at camp. Plan on an extra supply, too, for those who are left at home.

APPLESAUCE RAISIN CAKE.

[Eight inch square loaf.]

- ½ cup butter or other shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon cloves
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 egg
- 1 cup thick, unsweetened apple sauce
- ⅔ cup chopped raisins
- 1 cup broken nut meats
- 1¾ cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon soda.

Cream shortening and sugar together thoroly. Add salt and spices and beat well. Beat in the egg. Sift flour and soda together several times and add one-fourth cup of the mixture to raisins and nuts. Add to creamed mixture. Alternately add remainder of flour and apple sauce, beating well after each addition. Bake in greased 8 inch square pan at 350 degrees for about an hour.

GUMDROP SQUARES.

[Two 8 inch square pans.]

- 4 eggs
- 2 cups light brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon water
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- 1 cup gumdrops.

Beat eggs until very light. Add brown sugar and water and continue to beat until thoroly mixed. Add sifted dry ingredients, stir until smooth and add nuts and gum drops [use tiny colored gumdrops, or slice "jelly sticks"]. Spread the batter about ½ inch thick in two square pans. Bake for half an hour in a moderate [350 degrees] oven. Cool and cut into squares.

ORANGE COCONUT BARS.

[Two dozen.]

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons grated orange rind
- ¼ cup butter or other shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg, unbeaten
- ¼ cup milk
- ½ cup orange juice.

Sift flour once, measure and resift with baking powder and salt. Add orange rind to butter. Cream until soft, add sugar gradually and mix until light. Stir in the unbeaten egg. Alternately add flour mixture and liquids, beating until smooth after each addition. Spread in a greased pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 25 minutes. Cool and cut into squares.

HONEY NUT CARAMELS.

- 1½ cups strained honey
- 1⅓ cups white sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅓ cup brown sugar
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- ½ cup butter
- ¼ cup chopped nut meats.

Combine honey, sugars, and salt. Boil until a little forms a soft ball when dropped into cold water. Add the butter and milk, a little at a time, so gradually that boiling is not stopped. Cook to the hard ball stage, or 254 degrees F. Remove from heat, stir nuts in quickly, and turn into well buttered pan. When cold, cut in squares, wrapping each piece in wax paper or cellophane if desired.

A Dinner for a Hungry Person

Here's a hunger-satisfying dinner plateful. Buttered green beans, toasty banana scallops, buttered cauliflower and moderately priced rib lamb chops make up the plate. Cook the cauliflower and beans uncovered until tender in just enough boiling water to cover. Broil the lamb chop and have the narrow end frenched by the butcher to leave room for the paper frill. To make the banana scallops dip inch thick slices of banana in salted evaporated milk, then in cornmeal cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat at 375 degrees for 2 minutes or until browned.

SALMON AND CORN ADD NEW TWIST TO AN OLD DISH: STUFFED PEPPER

If you are a fan for stuffed green peppers, you will add this recipe to your collection, pronto.

Salmon-Corn Stuffed Peppers.

[Serves six.]

- 6 large green peppers
- 1½ cups corn, fresh cut from cob or canned
- 1 cup soft bread cubes
- 1 cup canned salmon, flaked
- 3 tablespoons butter, melted
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- ¼ teaspoon celery salt
- 1 teaspoon minced parsley
- 1 egg [or 2 yolks]
- 4 tablespoons top milk

Cut off tops of peppers and scoop out centers. Rinse well. Mix together the corn, bread cubes, salmon, butter, seasoning, and parsley. Combine egg and top milk and add to corn mixture. Stuff into pepper cases. Set peppers upright in a shallow baking pan containing a little hot water. Bake for 35 minutes in a moderately slow [325 degrees] oven. Serve with tomato, mushroom, egg or any other preferred sauce.

Here's New Way to Serve an Old Favorite Meat

Here's a tasty way to serve that hamburger. Add catsup to the meat to moisten and season lightly with poultry seasoning and a dash of dry mustard. Shape into small balls and poke a cooked dried apricot into each. Place in lightly greased muffin pan and bake in a moderate oven for about 35 or 40 minutes.

HERE'S A CHANCE TO LEARN BASIC COOKING RULES

Lessons to Appear on These Pages.

So you're learning how to cook! Then this is for you.

If you're a bride faced with a slick new kitchen full of shiny equipment and only a hazy knowledge of how best to use it, here's your chance to brush up on those forgotten cookery rules. If you're a seasoned cook with a few problems, you may find the key to your difficulty here. If you're a mother teaching her little girl the art, here's help for you.

Twenty Subjects.

You're going to be able to find the fundamental rules of good plain cooking on these pages every Friday for a few weeks. These lessons will cover all phases of cooking. They'll tell you how to get what home economists call "a standard product," how to cook to save valuable minerals and vitamins, and how to use low cost foods. The lessons won't bother much with recipes except to show the principles behind them. They'll be simple and easy to understand and will get down to brass tacks.

As planned there will be about 20 different subjects. Some topics, such as meat cookery, will be discussed in general at the outset and then in greater detail later. Tips on making coffee, cocoa, and tea; principles of vegetable cookery; how to cook breakfast eggs; how to use eggs in baked and cooked dishes; how to make biscuits, and making the most of your fat frying kettle are a few of the subjects to be covered.

Method of Self-Expression.

Cooking can be a real and most satisfying means of self-expression. A lot has been said of cooking as an art, cooking as a science, and even of cooking as plain drudgery. Fortunately for the great majority of women who sooner or later must learn to cook, it's not quite so arty, so scientific, or so bad as that. To be a good cook, you do have to learn the fundamentals and be prepared to apply them carefully and diligently—the art will come afterwards.

Watch for the first lesson next week on coffee making. It also will discuss briefly the principles of making hot chocolate and tea.

- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs, beaten
- ¾ cup deviled ham

Sift dry ingredients together. Combine beaten eggs with butter and milk, then blend in deviled ham. Add flour and beat lightly to mix well. Bake in a hot waffle iron.

HERE'S A DAINTY TIDBIT FOR THE AFTERNOON TEA

This bread makes inviting lunchbox sandwiches or dainty little tidbits for afternoon tea.

- 2⅓ cups sifted flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon salt

For variety candied orange peel, cut in bits, may be substituted for the nutmeats.

"George has been walking on air ever since I changed to McLAUGHLIN'S MANOR HOUSE COFFEE!"

WHY DO SOME COFFEES TASTE "HALF-BAKED"?

The answer's simple! Most coffees today aren't roasted at all—they're "baked"!

Yes, ma'am, they're rushed through those new-fangled, highly advertised indirect heaters to save time and money. That bakes out delicate flavor oils!

But Manor House—ahhh! It's one coffee that's really roasted. The slow, old-fashioned way, over an open flame. That seals in all the delicate flavor oils.

Try it! Manor House comes in three grinds. Your husband will cheer for its grand flavor—so order the thrifty 2-lb. jar Today!

SHOPPER FINDS FEWER BARGAINS IN VEGETABLES

Home Grown Supplies Are Fading Away.

BY MARY MEADE.

With food prices rising all around it's sad news to the budget shopper to learn that supplies of homegrown vegetables [the one bright spot in the food price picture] are diminishing.

A few vegetables are still coming in large quantities from nearby regions, but supplies on the whole are lessened. Home grown crops of green peas and beans are pretty well cleaned up.

Good beans are high, but there's a wide variation in quality and if you can use the poorer ones you may find a fair bargain. Only a few beans come from near by, the great majority being shipped from Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, and Tennessee.

Prices are sharply higher on green peas which are scarce, almost a luxury.

Root Vegetables Reasonable.

Those vegetables which are still mainly homegrown include the root crops, beets, carrots, parsnips, radishes, and turnips, greens including spinach and cabbage, and eggplant, green peppers, tomatoes, and green onions. Most of these are quite reasonable.

Parsnips are a little higher. Prices on the best quality tomatoes which come from California nowadays are up. Other tomatoes are very low priced however and many of them are suitable for table. Squash, mostly acorns and Hubbards, is another excellent vegetable buy.

Both Brussels sprouts and broccoli are still rather high. Broccoli prices dropped only very slightly this week. Cauliflower, on the other hand, is noticeably cheaper, but quality of this vegetable is only fair.

Celery Cabbage for Salad.

Celery and celery cabbage from Michigan are both excellent bargains. You might try using the celery cabbage in your salad bowl in place of head lettuce, the best of which is price rising slightly. Okra from southern Illinois and Tennessee is also reasonable.

Cucumbers haven't gone up much in price this week, even tho homegrown supplies are about wiped out. The majority now come from Louisiana.

Apples and seedless grapes are the major good buys at the fruit stands this week. The fancy Northwestern Jonathan apples are somewhat less expensive this week, which helps to even off the price between them and the more reasonable eastern and local apples. Apples are available in great variety.

Seedless grapes are still very low priced, while tokays, which seem to be in much greater demand, are somewhat higher. There's no change in prices of Concords. Supplies of these have been light all season and the price is higher than last year.

Peaches, Plums Higher.

Peaches and plums are nearing the end of their respective seasons and are wearing higher price tags this week-end. Both will be gone in about another week to 10 days. Bartlett pears, also higher this week, will last two weeks more. After that you'll have to depend on the winter pears, D'Anjou and Bosc varieties.

It's getting late in the melon season, too. Honeydews will be around for some time yet and they're one of the best melon buys now available. Watermelons are gone, and there are only a few Santa Claus, Persian, and Cranshaw melons around. Cantaloupe, tho more scarce and far from tops in quality, remains low priced.

It's off season for oranges. The new navels and Florida oranges aren't in yet and the California Valencias are tapering off. Prices are higher this week on this fruit.

Florida Avocados Here.

Avocados from Florida are reasonable for this time of year.

Cranberry supplies are light; prices are moderate.

Lamb still gets plenty of attention at the meat counters at about the same price as a week ago: The list of meat bargains is longer this week and includes a little pork and an occasional veal cut as well as beef and lamb. Some stores are featuring ham at prices comparable to beef rib roasts. Meat prices on the whole are about the same as a week ago. There seems to be a great variation between stores, depending on the grade of the meat sold.

Poultry looks to be a fairly good buy. One store is featuring ducklings at a tempting low price.

INSTALMENT XXII.

UPSET BROTHER-IN-LAW.

In the car I said doggedly, "It still sounds incredible that Cousin Lou should have left me a legacy."

"I apologize," Miles Dorsey answered, "for springing it on you in public. I don't regret it, tho, in view of the result."

He'd done this on purpose!

"Stop!" I cried. "I'm getting right out of this car!"

He drove steadily on.

"You wanted that detective to see how I reacted! You did, so don't bother to pretend."

"Well, and has it demonstrated to you the full extent of your present position? You were very much worked up to think you might be suspected of jewel thieving. If it's a matter of murder, don't you want to conduct yourself with slightly more caution?"

I smothered down my rage.

"Many thanks. My eyes are now completely opened. . . . And now, Mr. Dorsey, would you mind telling a little more about that key?"

"Key! What key?"

"O, only the latchkey to the Rentrew apartment! The one the ex-lady's maid handed you in your office. You gave it to Horace yesterday afternoon. That was Thursday; but just how long had you had it?"

We nearly smashed into a bus.

"Quite so," he agreed, fictitiously cool. "The woman brought it in just as I was leaving late Wednesday afternoon. I dropped it in my pocket and entirely forgot about it till I came to the Avenue Malakoff the following day."

During which interval the apartment had been entered. The necklace had been put back in the safe, and I had been brutally etherized—very nearly killed.

My barb had gone home, tho knowing it gave me singularly little satisfaction. Already I was remembering how on the Tuesday night I'd smelled an odor impossible to connect with any one except Hortense, definitely not with the man at my side. I was about decided there were two separate and distinct intruders into the bedroom—one on Tuesday, the other on Wednesday. The first I still believed had been the cook. The second? There was really no clew beyond that of waist measure and muscular power.

Come to think of it, was it likely Cousin Lou had told her lawyer about buying a famous necklace and not getting it insured?

In any case, Mr. Dorsey was not successfully silenced. He drove me to my door and with a curt nod set me down.

• • •

I was on my bed, resting and thinking all this over, when Horace knocked and came in. His face was ghastly.

"My God, Gay," he groaned, "if only I'd known!"

I'd got to listen. I sat up and tried to help him along.

"Of course, I quite see how you feel, Mr. Rentrew. You thought it was simply that Cousin Lou's case had been grossly mishandled."

"Mishandled. I went on thinking that. I told myself even after they gave me the report . . . but, no, those fellows won't hear of its being a mistake. Do you know what they're insisting? That she was deliberately poisoned, and with the one sort of drug calculated to boost up her own doctor's diagnosis?"

It was a rhetorical question and he rode on over me. I could quite believe the verdict was so horrible a shock his first instinctive impulse had been to deny its implications altogether; but I couldn't help thinking that in the back of his bewildered mind he must now be making some kind of guess as to who had done this wanton piece of work. Suddenly his tormented ravings came to a full stop. He came over close to where I was sitting and spoke lucidly, but in a hoarse, fear smitten voice:

"And now! See what it does for me—yes, me, Horace J. Rentrew! My brother's will. You know, do you, how I came in for practically all Hiram's money?"

"O, certainly," I soothed. "But who can blame you for being Cousin Hiram's heir?"

"You did know, then. Who told you?"

"Mr. Dorsey. I saw him this morning. There were other details of those two wills that interested me a lot more."

"Um-m-m?" He lit one of his fat Turkish cigarettes, took a few considering puffs. In pathetic dejection he shook his head. "I wish to God I could see something in those smaller legacies. They interested you, hey?"

I was beginning to understand what Cousin Lou had meant to him—invariably brisk and positive, dead sure of herself even when wrong. Men like Horace lean on that type of woman. It flatters their own dubious masculinity if they can think they're protecting her; but, like the true mothers' boys they are, they are really being protected all the time. Now Cousin Lou was gone, Horace was fastening on to me for comfort and reassurance. It was a bore, but I must put up with it, I supposed.

"I know well enough what you're driving at," he persisted. "But"—in a squeaky whisper—"is it conceivable this hound dog of a butler, for the sake of a mere $5,000——?"

"O, him!" I switched my ideas. "Frankly," I whispered back, "I don't get Manx's combination. What I did feel was that Cousin Lou was more than fed up with this officiousness—about ready, in fact, to let him go."

He looked at me sharply, but as I elaborated his eagerness died.

"Yes, I know. It explains her leaving him behind last January; but take it from me, it was just part of her mood."

"The mood lasted, didn't it? If Manx had lost his job, he wouldn't have touched a cent of that $5,000."

"That's so. . . . Yes, it's certainly an idea. Go on. Did you—did you gather that Hortense might have gone into the discard as well?"

"Well, since you ask me, I did. Maybe not, tho. Cousin Lou seemed very sure of Hortense's affection."

The part of him that seemed hanging on my answers let out a thankful sigh. The other part remained tight-screwed, still terribly worried. I mentioned the lady's maid, Alixe. He jumped violently and erupted again.

"Two-faced trollop! Never trusted that girl. Have you seen her around this place?"

"Why, no! All I know is what Hortense told me about her coming her at a crucial time with regard to the necklace stealing. Then there was the key she handed over, the one she declared she had lost."

"True," he muttered, turning vague. "I wonder, can we make anything out of that?"

He was over by the Riesener table, stroking its surface with the loving, if absent-minded, caress of the real connoisseur.

"O, well, in any event this ghastly mess needn't concern you! I knew you and your people were being left a little something. Marise used to say what a hard time you'd all had."

He bit on his cigaret and roamed out.

Up I flashed and across the table. All this blow of my inheritance had put Pete's communication clean out of my mind, but now, in the full blaze of the afternoon sun, I examined the Riesener's marvelous finish, its mountings, its delicately turned legs.

"No," I murmured regretfully, "that notion's out. I'll stake my $5,000 legacy this table's no fake!"

For a little, while I'd waited for Nurse Martin, I'd considered the exchanges which from time to time do occur in repair shops where both genuine and reproduction pieces are handled. Most of the Riesener things you see are bogus copies. One wizard fraud fooled the customs sharks in New York not so very long ago. Pete's caginess . . . would it mean he was protecting some unscrupulous employé?

"O, rubbish! Pete's not taking a chance like that. My goodness, if it were found out!"

And yet, if it had happened?

I found a cable form among the writing articles and with cautious pains dashed up a night letter. This other table was going over on the Normandie. Well, there was no possible harm in tipping Mr. Goldmark off so he could take a quiet look at it. At worst, it was only letting him know the Ripley girl kept her eyes wide open. At best, she'd be proving she was a buyer to keep on. . . .

I got my hat, thinking I must send this cable myself. And then I remembered I hadn't told Horace of my trip out to the nursing home to collect Cousin Lou's things.

I caught him, just going out, less dandified than usual, rather draggled, in fact, as if for the first time in his 50 years he'd lost count of his own person. He'd lost count of me, too, now he'd unburdened his woes, and hardly listened at all—tho he did wince a little over the reference to Marise's belongings.

"I thought perhaps you'd like to put them away yourself."

"No, no, you do it. I'd rather you did, you know."

HERE ARE THREE BUDGET DISHES, ALL WITH MEAT

And Each Puts a Tasty Touch to Cheap Buys.

Thinking up new ways to serve inexpensive meats can be a job in itself when all meats are high and the budget cuts appear all too frequently. But here are three smart tricks with low priced meats.

This meat cobbler is really a cutie and it's practically a one dish meal:

SAUSAGE COBBLER.

[Serves six.]

2 cups tart apple sauce
2 cups diced cooked sweet potatoes
1 dozen pork sausage links, cooked
1 cup sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
⅔ cup milk [about]

Cook sausages and arrange in bottom of a rather shallow baking dish. Cover with diced sweet potatoes and apple sauce. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together and cut in shortening. Add liquid to moisten and turn out on lightly floured board. Knead gently for one half minute, then pat out to fit top of baking dish. Cover baking dish with biscuit dough and bake in a hot [450 degrees] oven until dough is browned and done, about 15 minutes.

MEXICAN BURGER CASSEROLE.

[Serves four to six.]

1 8-ounce package macaroni
1 cup minced onion
⅓ cup minced green pepper
2 tablespoons lard
1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
6 tablespoons grated cheese
1½ cups well seasoned medium white sauce
½ cup canned tomatoes

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender, and drain. Cook onion and green pepper gently in the fat until tender, being careful not to brown. Add meat, and cook until lightly browned, stirring frequently. Add salt and pepper. Add 4 tablespoons of the cheese to the white sauce, then gradually add tomatoes, stirring carefully. Arrange alternate layers of macaroni, meat, and tomato sauce in casserole. Sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons of cheese and bake uncovered in a moderately hot [375 degrees] oven for 45 minutes.

BARBECUED WEINERS.

[Serves six.]

½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons salad oil
¼ cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon vinegar
½ cup catsup
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon celery salt
¼ cup brown sugar
½ cup water
2 pounds frankfurters

Brown onion in salad oil. Add remaining ingredients, except frankfurters and simmer 30 minutes. Arrange frankfurters in skillet and cover with barbecue sauce, simmer, turning frequently for 20 minutes. The frankfurters may be split and dipped in barbecue sauce, then broiled, if desired. Brush frequently with barbecue sauce.

DRESS UP YOUR FRUIT SALADS IN THEIR OWN JUICES—LIKE THIS

A good fruit salad deserves a special dressing all its own—one like this. It's a zippy fruit juice combination thickened with flour and egg yolks.

Citrus Salad Dressing.

[About 1½ cups.]

3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup orange juice
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon butter
¼ cup lemon juice

Mix flour, sugar, mustard, and salt together thoroly. Add the orange juice and well beaten egg yolks. Cook in top of double boiler until thickened, stirring constantly. Add butter and lemon juice. Remove from heat and chill.

SURE-FIRE WAYS TO MAKE YOUR APPLE PIE A HIT

Crust and Fillings Given for Old Favorite.

Despite the fact that apple pie is the nation's favorite dessert, there is many an apple pie made that is none too edible. Whether the fault lies in the crust or in the filling is a question, so let's start out with a failure-proof recipe for pastry.

Plain Pie Pastry.

[For 2-crust pie.]

2¼ cups flour, sifted
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup hard fat
⅓ cup water [approximately]

Sift flour once, measure and add salt. Sift again. Using a pastry blender or two knives [some persons prefer to use their fingers], cut the cold, hard fat into the flour until the mixture is in small lumps about the size of peas. Do not continue the mixing beyond this point. Add the water, a little at a time, over a portion of the mixture. Toss lightly with a fork, just enough to make it hold together. Add water to another portion, and toss, continuing until all flour is dampened. Press the mixture into a firm ball with the hands and chill it in the refrigerator before rolling, unless an iced rolling pin is used. An hour is sufficient time for chilling. Break off a little more than half the ball to roll for the lower crust. Pat it out on a pastry canvas or lightly floured board and roll quickly to about ⅛ inch in thickness, pinching edges together if they crack. Fit pastry into pie shell, fluting the rim by pinching it lightly into shape with the fingers. Roll top crust out in the same manner.

With a rich, flaky pastry, a good variety of cooking apples, and just the right amount of sweetening to bring out the natural flavor of the fruit, it's easy to make the most popular version of apple pie—the two-crusted type.

Filling for Apple Pie.

6-8 tart apples, peeled and sliced
¾ to 1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter

Fill lower pastry with sliced apples, placing them close together and piling them higher than the rim of the pie plate. Mix sugar, flour, cinnamon, and salt and sprinkle over the apples. Dot with butter. Slash upper crust to allow for the escape of steam, and place over the filling. Press edges of pastry firmly together, and trim off with a knife. Dot top crust with a few tiny pieces of butter and sprinkle very lightly with sugar and flour to get an attractive, brown coloring. Bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees, for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and continue baking 30 minutes longer. [Omit flour from the recipe if the apples are quite dry.]

Deep Dish Apple Pie.

6-8 thinly sliced tart apples
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup white or brown sugar
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice
½ cup seedless raisins
Plain pastry for one crust

Butter a 9-inch casserole. Mix melted butter with apples, and combine sugar with grated rind. Place a third of the apples in the casserole, sprinkle with a third of the sugar mixture and some of the raisins, and repeat until ingredients are used. Sprinkle orange juice over the top. Cover with pastry which has been pricked, pressing it firmly to the edges of the baking dish. Bake in a 450 degree oven for 15 minutes, then for half an hour longer at 350 degrees. Serve warm.

Dutch Apple Pie.

Plain pastry for one crust
6-8 tart apples, peeled and sliced
1 cup sour or sweet cream
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons flour

Wash, peel and quarter apples. Remove cores. Mix brown and white sugars with cinnamon and flour and spread half the mixture over the bottom of the pastry-lined pie plates. Arrange apples over the mixture. Mix cream with rest of the sugar mixture and pour over the top. Bake in a 450 degree oven for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until apples are tender, about 35 minutes longer.

FRENCH APPLE PIE.

Line pie plate with pastry and cover with plain apple pie filling. Cream together ⅓ cup butter and ⅓ cup brown sugar for topping. Work in 1 cup sifted flour to make a crumb mixture. Sprinkle over the top of the apples and bake as usual. Serve warm or cold, with plain or whipped cream.

CRANBERRY RELISH MOLDS ADD COLOR TO BUFFET SUPPER

Serve these little cranberry relish molds with the cold meat at your next buffet supper. They make a gay little platter garnish and one that isn't excess baggage at all. They're very good with hot meats, too, tho you'll not be able to use them as a garnish in that case, lest they melt.

Cranberry Relish Molds.

2 cups raw cranberries
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
⅓ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup cold water
½ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon horseradish

Put berries thru food chopper. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add sugar, salt, and cold water and chill until partially thickened. Add cranberries, celery, and horseradish and turn into small individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold on a platter.

Here's Tangy, Inexpensive Salad of Late Vegetables

Try this tangy, inexpensive salad on your family one of these fine fall days.

Beet and Cabbage Salad.

2 cups shredded cabbage
1 cup diced cooked beets
¼ cup chopped sweet pickle
2 tablespoons grated horseradish
⅓ cup diced celery
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon paprika
¼ cup French dressing

Mix and chill vegetables and seasonings. Toss with dressing and serve from salad bowl.

American Family Flakes 3 to 1 FAVORITE for WASHING CLOTHES WHITE In Chicago Women's Choice

WOMEN'S CHOICE
CLEAN UP
HOW ON EARTH DO YOU GET YOUR SHEETS SO WHITE ?
DON'T GIVE ME THE CREDIT ! USE AMERICAN FAMILY SPEED FLAKES —AND YOURS CAN LOOK THE SAME WAY

Won Over Every Brand of Granulated Soaps, Chips, Powders

Here's how American Family Flakes won over competing soaps when hundreds of Chicago women, who do their laundry at home, were interviewed by a nationally known independent research organization:

1ST FOR WASHING WHITE. American Family Flakes won by more than 3 to 1 over nearest competing soap when hundreds of Chicago women named their choice for white washing.

1ST FOR WASHING SAFELY. American Family Flakes won by more than 5 to 1 over nearest competing soap when these women named their choice among laundry soaps for washing safely.

1ST FOR WASHING MACHINES. American Family Flakes received more votes than the next 12 soaps combined when these Chicago women named their choice for best results in washing machines.

HAVE you wondered how on earth your neighbor hangs out such a beautifully-white washing? She could tell you the answer . . . if you were willing to ask her!

But . . . an independent research organization has already asked hundreds of your Chicago "neighbors" what laundry soap they choose for washing clothes sparkling white. For washing safely. For best results in washing machines.

Wins On All These Points

And these hundreds of Chicago women named American Family Flakes by an outstanding margin. 1st . . . 1st . . . 1st . . . on all these virtues. And this is their honest opinion . . . because these interviews were conducted by an independent research organization—not connected with the soap business. Now—what does this mean to you?

Well, if you're using one of the popular brands of granulated soap, chips or powders that lost in this survey . . . doesn't this mean that you should try these flakes that were named by so many hundreds of practical housewives as their No. 1 choice?

Find Out For Yourself

Why not find out next washday? Try American Family Flakes and see if you, too, don't rank them as your No. 1 choice.

Adviser Tells of Woman Who Sensibly Lost 35 Pounds

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A "living example" of a woman who reduced 35 pounds in a little over three months greeted our eyes the other day when we met her for luncheon. A trimmer, more chic looking person was she, and she assured us that she had never felt better in her life. We'd been looking forward to renewing "auld acquaintance" but gone was any other thought but to find out HOW SHE DID IT! From a size 44 dress to a size 18 was her achievement.

She had moved, bag and baggage, to a milk farm within easy commuting to her place of business in the city. [These milk farms, by the way, are springing up all over the country.] Only over the week-ends did she have the time to "go in" for any real reducing program. During the day she merely followed a diet prescribed for her, and in the evening she would eat a planned meal.

For breakfast she had fruit or fruit juice, lightly buttered toast, black coffee. For lunch, a hearty fruit or vegetable salad, with mineral oil and lemon juice dressing, black coffee, or a glass of milk. Dinner varied. Most often, however, she had two lamb chops, two servings of green vegetables, milk, fruit, dessert. She could add a clear soup, if she wished. Just before lunch and dinner she ate a part of a plain chocolate bar to take the "edge" off her appetite. Chocolate is nourishing and gives quick energy.

When going "home" after business, she would relax a few minutes, then do her "exercises." The directress of this particular milk farm taught her how to do the rhumba and the Viennese waltz, two dances which teach not only grace, but accomplish svelter body lines. The rhumba posture, you know, calls for pulling in the abdomen and working the knees in rhythmic time to the music.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson has been appointed chairman of the Red Cross volunteer production corps for Chicago, James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter, announced yesterday. The corps has 46,537 volunteer workers representing every community in the chapter's territory. They annually produce 2,000,000 surgical dressings for local hospital use and 3,000,000 surgical dressings for the military and naval forces. In addition, the workers produce thousands of garments for hospitalized soldiers and sailors, for foreign war relief and for victims of domestic disasters.

Becoming Lipstick.

O. W. V.—The purple shades are not being featured as much as they were a few months back. They're giving way to the rosy tints. However, any shade of lipstick that is becoming to the individual wearer is fashionable.

Postbleach Care.

M. K. S.—Dyeing the hair back to its natural shade will help you to hurdle the discouraging period when the bleached hair is growing out. Be sure to have the work done by an expert, and give your hair especially good care during this time.

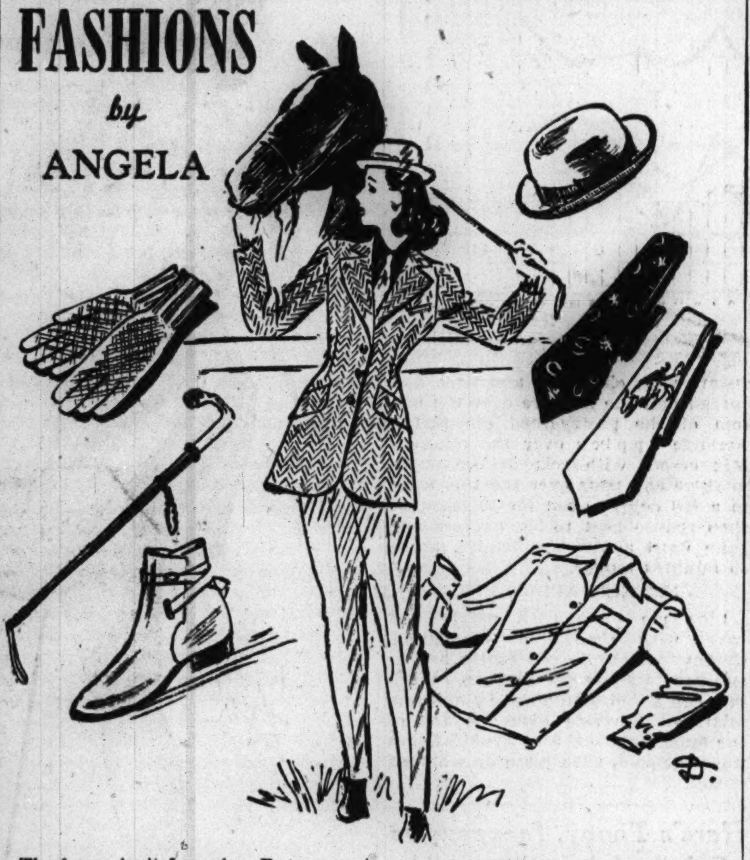
FASHIONS by ANGELA



The horse isn't for sale. But everything else is.

Clothes for the rider—man, woman or child; all the appurtenances and accessories, and even some leather goods, including saddles and bridles and straps. This being a fashion department we will stick to the thing we know a little something about—clothes—and refrain from getting beyond our depth in the real horsey items.

First consider the jodhpurs. According to information given me this style of riding attire is a good deal more popular with women enthusiasts than are breeches. Even inexpensive jodhpurs are now made slightly bell shaped at the bottom and without a turned up cuff. They are reinforced with leather at the knee, leather straps under the instep, zipper closing, and a wide belt. Of the colors available we chose green for the sketch. Others are blue, black, brown, and beige. Priced under $7.

A green herringbone tweed jacket with leather buttons complements the green cotton whipcord jodhpurs. There are many other colors and other materials to choose from.

At the left of the figure are closeups of the calf boots—they are fully lined and have the adjustable strap. Under $4. A leather covered crop with handle in the form of a horse's hoof. And knitted string gloves—washable, wearable, and practical.

At the right is a detailed illustration of the flat topped Derby with the narrow rolled brim bound in grosgrain. It, too, is available in a variety of colors such as black, brown and green. There are ties of a rayon silk decorated in an appropriate manner. Two of them are sketched—one printed in a horseshoe pattern, the other embroidered with the figure of a bucking bronco.

And finally there is the shirt. In this case it is a cotton gabardine cut extremely long to prevent parting company at the waistline, long sleeves with buttoned cuffs and an adjustable collar that may be worn open at the throat or buttoned tight and encircled with a tie.

[For information call Angela, Superior 0200. Mail requests should be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.]

Seek to Solve Troubles of School Life

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Let us suppose that your child either just beginning school or in one of the lower grades still shows signs of discontent with his school life even after many weeks. He may be unhappy merely while he is there, but he also may show all sorts of results of his emotional state before he leaves in the morning, when he comes home in the afternoon, or even in his sleep.

The first thing for a mother to do, under these circumstances, is to look into his physical condition, his food, his rest, his outdoor play, his eliminative processes. A good, thoro going-over by a doctor also is quite in order.

The next thing for a mother to do is to turn her attention to the conditions that prevail in the school her child attends, and this takes in several factors: The children, the teacher, and the whole "set-up," and even the walk or journey to the school building.

Next, don't get the idea that your young child must, all of a sudden, adapt himself and stand on his own feet in this new and strange environment. He can't necessarily do that at once, especially if the odds happen to be against him. And such very unforeseeable odds they can be. For instance: A boy with bully tendencies told a small lad that janitors put all the bad little boys and girls in the furnace. The tale quite naturally terrified him and ruined a whole school year for him before his mother learned of it. Being an intelligent woman, she saw to it that her son had the opportunity to become friends with the janitor, who was an understanding man with children of his own.

Other conditions may affect a child's adjustment to school. He may be seated near a boy or girl who torments him, or takes his pencils, or gets him into trouble. Or suppose he's a little slow in learning and feels ashamed of it and needs to be let alone; or, if noticed at all, to be encouraged. These and many other difficulties can be cleared up if parent, or teacher, or both will take plains to do so.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Here's something every woman should know: Don't apply perfume or cologne directly to fabric!

Not all perfumes or colognes will injure all fabrics, but it's not a good idea to take a chance, especially now when textiles are not what they seem and often the dyes are not as good as they should be.

Cologne contains a good percentage of alcohol. It can affect some dyes badly. When you travel and take cologne along make absolutely certain that the stopper of the bottle is extremely tight; an extra precaution would be to wrap cotton around the neck.

Usually it's not possible to transfer cologne to a traveling atomizer because of the shaker top. Your only protection in that case is a good fitting stopper. Ordinarily cologne won't do much damage to pure white things, but if it spills on most colored fabrics you're running a big risk of a bad discoloration.

It's not wise to apply concentrated perfume to fabric for two reasons. Your scent won't be as diffused and beautiful as it can be if it's dotted around, and here again there is danger that the oils or other ingredients in the perfume will affect either the dye or the texture of the cloth.

If you like fine perfume by all means invest in one of those excellent traveling atomizers, which prevent evaporation and spilling.

Cleaners tell us there is nothing they can do about cologne discoloration if the dye is affected, and that very often perfume stains won't respond to the most expert treatment by spotters. So, to be on the safe side, apply your scenting agents only to the flesh!

Lehigh U. to Observe Its 75th Anniversary

Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 2 (AP).—Lehigh university will celebrate its 75th anniversary tomorrow and honor Asa Packer, the farmer-industrialist who founded it to give others the education he never had. Awarding of honorary degrees will precede a review of the university's progress since Packer established the institution with an initial gift of $500,000 and the 57 acres of Bethlehem's South Mountain where Lehigh's campus now lies. Packer, Connecticut-born, came to Pennsylvania's Lehigh valley at 18 to rise from farmer to builder of the Lehigh railroad. His gifts to Lehigh—which today has 1,750 undergraduates in its colleges of arts and science, business administration, and engineering—have totaled about $3,000,000 and four buildings.

Forty Hopefuls Make Bids for Operatic Fame

BY EDWARD BARRY.

About 40 young men and women singers, hopeful of a chance to appear in opera, sang at the Civic Opera house yesterday afternoon before the Chicago Opera company's auditions committee. They were the first of the probable four or five hundred who will be heard in the course of the company's 1941 auditions.

Mrs. William Cowen, chairman of the auditions committee, professed herself well satisfied with the basic quality of the material heard. The voices of the contestants were surprisingly good, and altho comparatively few were found who possess the experience, training, and stage poise which could fit them for an actual part in opera, she is confident that the series as a whole will discover at least two well prepared young singers.

One of the contestants, Emily Ortner, 24 years old, 914 Ainslie street, is a great-great-grandniece of Jacques Offenbach, the renowned composer of "The Tales of Hoffmann."

The opera auditions will continue to be held at short intervals until all of the accepted applicants have been heard. Applications for a hearing in the series should be sent to the Chicago Opera Company Auditions committee, 20 Wacker drive, and must arrive not later than tomorrow. Applicants must be 16 or older, and they must have an operatic aria prepared. Professional experience does not bar one.

The singers finally selected will appear with the Chicago Opera company during the forthcoming season [Nov. 8 to Dec. 13]. In addition they will have the privilege of attending all stage rehearsals and all regular performances.

The committee which will serve with Mrs. Cowen in the selection of the winning singers consists of Mrs. James Ames, Edward Barry, Mrs. Clifford Caldwell, George Czaplicki, Fortune Gallo, Mrs. Royden Keith, Giovanni Martinelli, Mrs. William Ragland [Edith Mason], Mrs. Frederick Moorhead [Margery Maxwell], Robert Pollak, Roy Shields, Cecil Smith, and Eugene Stinson.

Universal day—Things get going early today so be an early bird.

October—Since this month is a seven month for the world, we will all feel the depressing effects of this month's events. Even if you personally have a happy three or romantic five for your month, you can't ignore the state of the world. The sorrows of the less fortunate are bound to make us stop and think. Since the universal year is a six, we are likely to be concerned more with the state of health of the victimized nations than about the battles won or lost. Great emphasis will be put on questions of food and clothing for those in need.

Springer Club Field Trials to Open Tomorrow

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT will be husband against wife this week-end when the field trials of the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial club is held, for Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson have so many good springer spaniels entered that each will be handling one dog. The trial will be held tomorrow and Sunday west of Lake Bluff, near the junction of Green Bay road and route 176.

Mrs. Simpson will handle their imported English field trial champion, Bryngawr Firearm. Mr. Simpson will try his hand in the competition with Noramby Flycatcher. Clifford Wallace, their professional trainer and handler, will be in the competition with other Simpson dogs, including two other champion springers. One of them, Brigadier, now is leading all other American field trial springers with its 20 points toward the big trophy given every year to the springer getting the highest score in American trials.

Names as Interesting as Are the Dogs.

The names of these dogs are one of the most intriguing sidelights of the field trials, to onlookers. The Simpsons have one dog with the pretty name, Staindrop Patricia, that needs just one more win in the open all age stake to get its championship papers. Staindrop Patricia will be running against its kennel mates' tomorrow when the open all age stake, the big event of the two day program, is run.

It will not be Mrs. Simpson's first attempt at dog handling. She handled dogs in the spring field trial held here and did very well. Mr. Simpson, in a few years, has built up one of the finest springer spaniel kennels in the country and has gone to the top nationally with his dogs in such a short time that veterans in the game are amazed.

Lake Forest dog fanciers will be out in full force at the trials this week-end as the site is so close. Among them probably will be the Gaylord Donnelleys, who are interested in sporting dogs, especially retrievers. Mr. and Mrs. Donnelley have one of the few trained receiving poodles in the country. She recently had a big family which has kept Mrs. Donnelley busy playing nurse.

Governors of Opera Giving Reception Today.

The board of governors of the Chicago Opera is giving a reception at the Casino this afternoon to introduce the new artistic director, Giovanni Martinelli, and the new general director, Fortune Gallo, to the board of trustees, to last year's woman's board of the opera, to the Illinois Opera guild, and to contributors to the opera fund and boxholders. Robert Hall McCormick, president of the trustees; Mr. Gallo, and Mr. Martinelli will receive and each will speak briefly. They will be assisted by some of the trustees and their wives, including the Barnett Farolls, the Weymouth Kirklands, the Clark J. Lawrences, the William D. Saltiels, and the Nathaniel Leverones.

Also invited to the party is the cast of "Claudia," some of the consuls, and Mrs. M. Lee Alberts, president of the Drama league. The program for the afternoon will include songs by Marguerite Namara of "Claudia" and Mona Bradford, a member of last year's opera chorus.

Mrs. Millard B. Kennedy, chairman of the membership committee of the Illinois Opera guild, is giving a tea at her home in Evanston this afternoon for the young women who are helping Mrs. Kennedy and the president, Mrs. James G. McMillan, organize a junior membership. Miss Carol Fox heads this group of young women that includes Miss Ariel Tatman, Miss Betty Vincent, Miss China Ibsen, Miss Graziello Polacco, Miss Jeanne Kimball, Miss Mary Jane Brummel, Miss Kay Keehn, and Miss Maxine Cooper.

Mrs. McMillan and Miss Polacco's mother, Mrs. William E. Ragland [Edith Mason], will be especial guests at the tea this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel H. Owings [Emily Otis] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter yesterday at the Passavant hospital. The baby has twin sisters, Natalie and Emily, who were 2 years old last month. The three little girls are granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis and of Mrs. C. M. Out-of-Doors Clothes Take Shoppers' Eyes

BY REA SEEGER.

Out-of-doors clothes rate most of the shopping excitement. What with football schedules just starting, with the best of the crisp weather ahead for steak fries and barbecues no wonder the spectator sports clothes are going strong. There are daringly different sweaters, ablaze with brilliant color, some in diamond shape patterns, some in diagonal stripes, some with long sleeves, some with short. There are short fleecy jackets and swaggers in white and brilliant red. there are red wool coats lined with fleece or fur, and these linings are removable, thanks to the zippers. And there are fur collared coats that are really great coats to wear over dress, suit or three piece ensembles.

The plaid reefer daytime coats rival any paint card for color combine and contrast. As for the size of the plaids, checks and open squares in eye blinding mixups, there isn't any limit. Nor do the color combines offer much in subdued control. Clash of gawdy color will be worn everywhere. The now painless union of red and green no longer shocks, the yellows crossed with red are rapidly becoming easy to look at and the greens, combined with both yellow and red, no longer do anything more than cause a second turn of the eyes and that turn only one of envy.

The same abandon is stressed in two piece suits, unusually handsome tweeds and woolens in bold colorings and in gigantic plaids and checks. The skirts are pleated fore and aft or all the way round formations. Jackets are appreciably longer and fit more snugly than last year and are made to wear either with or without sweaters or blouses.

Stunning suede dresses and suits are other shopping finds. Russet, forest-green, old gold, vivid Kelly green, tobacco brown and a few blacks, and the beautiful shades of wine and cherry reds are some of the most flattering. These dresses are simply cut with attached belts, side fullness and convertible collarlines. Both short and elbow length sleeves are featured. Two piece suits of suede come in the same color range.

Miss Mary Virginia Morley of River Forest has charge of refreshments; Miss Katharine Allison of Omaha, Neb., will be the hostess.

Stage Note

So much confusion has arisen among theater goers as to how the new luxury tax will affect the price of theater tickets, that the local managers have been obliged to point out the following fact: Theater patrons have had to pay a 10 per cent tax on their tickets since the first World war, and the new tax will therefore not affect the standard prices paid. As an example, for a ticket marked $2, the customer has to pay an additional 20 cents, or a total of $2.20. This condition has prevailed in the past and will continue to do so without any change whatsoever.

Found: Paragon of Politeness in the City Hall

[While Chicago observes Courtesy week, The Tribune is conducting a search for genuine courtesy among public employés. Today's winner is the sixth and last to receive the Tribune $20 award.]

BY MARCIA WINN.

Maurice Possner.

The great sullen pile of sootened stone in the heart of Chicago's loop which houses the city hall and county building alike is not Chicago's Buckingham fountain of courtesy. It is a temple of opportunism, devoted to power and expediency, and is filled with the every-man-for-himself haste which characterizes these qualities.

The information clerks are brusque. You are one of a thousand, one to be rid of as quickly as possible and who are you, anyway? The elevator operators are all smiles for the judges and other office holders, but all disregard for the underlings.

Because these things are accepted truths, Maurice Possner, form clerk in the office of the clerk of the Municipal court for the last 14 years, today receives the sixth and final $20 award given by THE TRIBUNE this week for unusual courtesy under stress.

Possner is 54 years old, the father of a son, 24, and a daughter, 18. He lives at 1452 South Springfield avenue. His wife, when told he had received the award, was not at all surprised. "O, he' alway polite," she said calmly. "That's why I married him. He never fusses, not at all."

THE TRIBUNE politeness reporter put his politeness, of which she naturally knew nothing, to great test. She came to the desk where he was handing out forms and affidavits in the guise of a woman about to be evicted. She was shabbily dressed and hysterical. She demanded an explanation of why her landlord was suing her for $90 in back rent.

"My dear madam," Possner said, "how should I know? Did any one serve papers on you?"

"Yes," she told him. "A man with a star."

"Uh, huh," he grunted. "A bailiff. Where are the papers?"

"I tore them up," she assured him. "Why not? I don't owe any $90."

"I can't look up your case without the papers," he told her. "Anyway, whether you owe it is for the judge to decide. Are you supposed to come to court?"

"Yes," she said, naming a date, "but I'm not coming. I don't owe the $90."

"Have you your receipts?"

"Of course not," she said angrily. "He never gave me any."

"But how can you prove anything without them?" he asked gently.

"I don't have anything to prove," she retorted. "I paid my rent. My neighbors will say so. I say so. Now he sues me. Why?"

"Lady," he said, "there's nothing I can do for you. The judge is the only one. Tell it to him in court."

"But I'm not going to court," she said flatly. "That's that. That's why I'm here. I want to settle this right now. I don't owe any money."

"Lady," he said softly, smilingly, pleading with her. "You have to go. He has a suit against you. If you don't go, you'll be evicted in five days. Now, I don't know why he sues you, but listen, lady, this is Chicago. A landlord can sue you any time he pleases—just to get rid of you."

"Why can't I sue my landlord?" she said with sudden inspiration.

"What for?" he said with a barely repressed smile.

"Why, he sues me. Why can't I sue him? He says I owe money, and I don't. I'll sue him—I'll sue him for defamation of character. Here, fix one of these things for me," indicating a form.

"I can't," he said. "Anyway, it'll cost you $2 to file one and $1 to have the papers served on him."

"Oh," she said. "Well, I haven't $3. Why can't the city do it for me? I'm right. He's wrong."

"Lady, only a lawyer can help you."

"But I haven't one. I have no money for a lawyer. Why can't you be my lawyer?"

"I'm a clerk," he said patiently.

When later notified he had received THE TRIBUNE'S $20 award, Possner asked how and why. When told, he was incredulous. "O," he said, "she was that dope. I couldn't get anything into her head."

Scholar.

The academic procession of the University of Chicago convocation Monday was unusually brilliant because of the many scientists and scholars gathered for the 50th anniversary celebration. The Rockefeller Memorial chapel was so crowded seats had to be numbered. A typical beefeater Englishman, a gentleman whose broad back was resplendent in five or six academic hoods, stopped a man and inquired: "Pardon me, old chap, but would you please tell me the number of that chair?" indicating one. "I can't read numbers."

POEMETTES OF THE HOUR.

Hess' hunger strike seems a little odd,
And, with food so scarce, an act of God.

We know it's fall, if only by reason
Of cards displayed for the Christmas season.

The time when dictionaries fail yuh:
Six different ways to say "reveille"!

—Hazel M. Duncan.

Madison, Ind., Footnote.

Miss Duncan's couplet above, referring to Margaret Leech's Reveille in Washington, brings to mind a footnote from our Madison, Ind., correspondent, Robin L. Graham. He recalls that a daughter of Rose O'Neal Greenhow, the famous Confederate spy of Civil war days who appears in the book, lived in Madison. She was Mrs. Alexander Craven, Leila Greenhow Craven. Mr. Graham remembers a Christmas party she gave for her small daughter. Santa Claus was prevented from making an appearance and she told the children that he sent a pretty fairy to take his place. The fairy was the sister of the late George Gray Barnard, sculptor. Among the effects of Leila Greenhow Craven were papers of her mother and letters from President Buchanan, Bettie Duvall and others mentioned in the book.

Cup Rattler.

Miss Elizabeth Foster saw her employer's face was very red when he entered the office one day last week and learned why. He had gone to the United China Relief offices to get a collection can that his wife wanted for bridge winnings. As he was standing on a street corner waiting for transportation back to the office, a little old lady had bustled up to him.

"Hold it straight, sonny," she said, indicating the can, and, dropping in a dime, she had hurried away.

'Poison Ivy' Type of Girl a Poor Sport

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A Portrait of a Girl It Isn't Nice to Be is presented in a communication from one signed "Confused." Confused is a man, and the girl's orneriness apparently intrigues his interest. He tells of her that she is very independent; that she is mean to members of her own sex as well as to the opposite; that she's always telling lies to give herself a higher rating. She says boys call her up when they haven't done so; that said boys confess their love to her, the boys, on inquiry, saying it is not so. She tries to make her friends jealous even of her clothes, by saying they cost five to ten dollars more than they do. She also is expert at insulting her friends, leaving them often on the verge of tears.

"Unfortunately," the confused man says, "she is quite attractive and has something about her that makes most of her friends, including the fellows, like her even tho they know what she is made of."

We are asked what we think, and our answer is that we think the girl is a femme fatale or just plain poison. They often are combined in one and the same woman. And such women invariably have personalities that intrigue interest, altho it invites criticisms and resentment. One of them isn't born every minute, nor do girls like that appear one in a thousand. If they didn't have that something that Confused admits, they'd be social outcasts.

Of course, a woman like that can be ganged up on. The whole crowd can get together and give her a little of what she is giving to others. They can laugh at her dress cost exaggerations and laugh again when she goes high hat, insulting friends. One thing the type cannot stand is being laughed at. That's because they have no sense of humor, so they don't know how to take it. But with all the normal, nice girls in the world, why worry about Miss Poison Ivy?

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

Ask the average bridge player, "Would you give up one trick in order to gain two?," and undoubtedly he would stare at you as tho you had just escaped from the observation ward. Yet his hauteur would be quite out of place. Time and again Mr. Average Player fails to take advantage of the very bargain to which I have referred. Today's hand is a case in point.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Altho he went slowly at first, South realized that he never would be able to discover whether or not North had a club honor which would virtually insure the slam, therefore, quite logically, determined to bid six and hope for the best. If North had the club king, a grand slam would be a laydown, but there was little hope of finding that out [except thru the use of asking bids, which the partnership was not using]. South's six bid can not be even mildly criticized, since his hand was enormous. His play, however, left much to be desired.

West opened the spade jack. Declarer won and stared mournfully at the luscious K-Q-J of diamonds which his own blank ace seemed to make as remote as the moon. With a gentle sigh, he began running off the trump suit. He kept one for safety's sake, then cashed his two other spade tricks and the diamond ace. Praying for a miracle, he then laid down the ace and a low club. The miracle failed to materialize, however, and the opponents took two club tricks. The vulnerable slam was down one!

Shrewd analysis would have turned the play into the proper channel. With two losing clubs in the South hand, and a great unlikelihood that the club king lay doubleton with either East or West, only one line of play offered an excellent chance for success. That was to make an entry out of dummy's nine of hearts. Actually, such a feat would require only a 50-50 break of luck, since there was precisely that chance that the heart ten was held by West. Correct play, then, was to win the opening spade lead, cash the diamond ace as an unblocking measure, and to play a low heart toward dummy. Obviously this play would have won, and insured the contract. If West put up his ten, the nine would become a second round trump entry; if he ducked, it would win on the spot and declarer could discard his two losing clubs.

It would be difficult to present a more clear cut opportunity for a two-for-one trade.

Tomorrow's Hand.

Publisher's Editor Says Modern Child Demands Realism

Elementery school children will not swallow propaganda in book form if the propaganda is too obvious. This observation was made last night by Miss Helen Hoke of New York City, a publisher's editor of children's books.

She spoke before 100 members of the Illinois Women's Press association at 410 South Michigan avenue. Mayor Carl F. Zeidler of Milwaukee also spoke. Mrs. Bernadine Bailey, club president, presided. Miss Hoke asserted that the modern trend of reading by grade school youngsters inclines more to the realistic. Fantasy is no longer in style, she said. Like propaganda, patriotism in books is examined critically, she said.

"The children will not take a straight dose of patriotism in their books," she declared, "unless it is an integral part of a good story well constructed."

Have you a perplexing problem on which you need friendly counsel? Write to Doris Blake in care of the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. If you wish a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Time Heals Wound.

"Dear Miss Blake: If the girl you loved married another, do you think you would be able to forget her, or would you think of her always?

—J. D."

In time you probably would think of her less and less, even tho you might never forget her. Another love might give you a measure of happiness—perhaps even a greater happiness.

A Sailor's Wife.

Will you be this sailor's wife, honey? Give him your answer, quick!

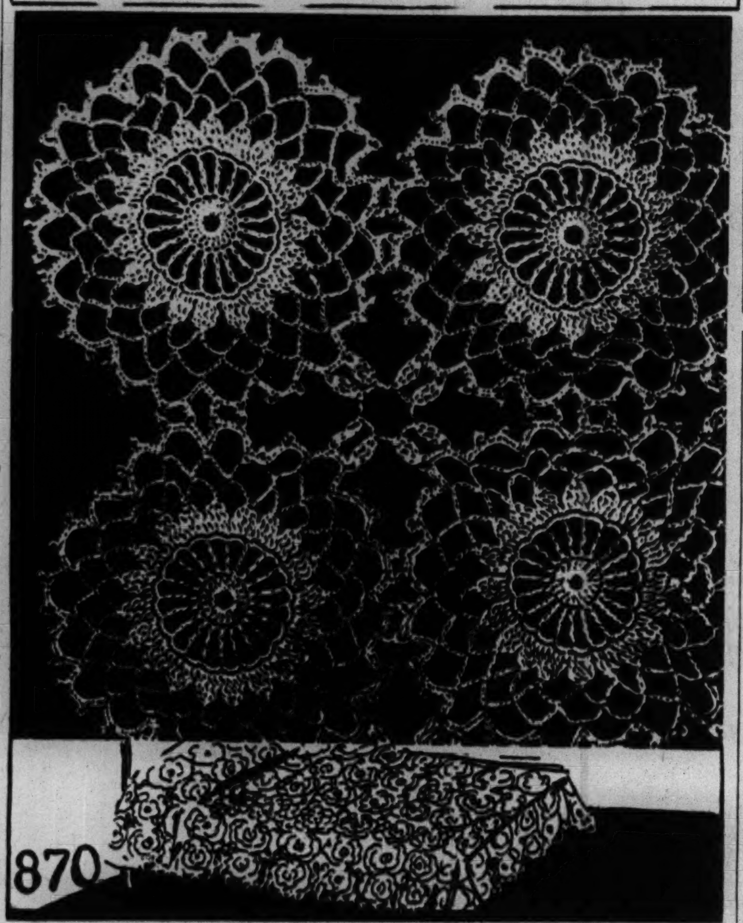
Cluster and Mesh Medallion



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

When crochet workers are looking for unusual medallions from which to create tablecloths or bedspreads, this cluster and mesh design is suggested for rapid, yet easy work. Ivory mercerized crochet cotton is used for the tablecloth, while white bed cotton is suggested for the bedspreads. Each medallion requires only a little time to create, and it is one of those "conversation pieces," at which the individual may work while talking.

For instructions in crocheting the cluster and mesh medallion, No. 870, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.

State Hospitals to Free 7,000 of Their Wards

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 2 [Special].—Carrying into action his belief that individual Illinoisans should care for their irresponsible relatives, State Welfare Director Rodney H. Brandon announced today that about 7,000 "socially safe" state mental hospital patients will soon be released in care of relatives and friends.

In a recent speech at Bloomington, Brandon criticized what he called "a concentration camp complex" that has developed in late years among residents of this state who dodge the responsibility of caring for relatives by having them committed to state hospitals.

"Many of those now being cared for in state mental hospitals had no business being committed in the first place," he declared. "In spite of the constant expansion of state institutions we have been faced with continual overcrowding. We are going to send as many safe patients as possible back to their relatives."

Brandon said he hoped to cut the state mental hospitals' population from its present level of 38,000 to 31,000 patients.

Investigations are under way, he said, to place patients over 65 years, who can be classed as socially safe, on old age assistance rolls. As many as 2,000 of these may be released in the next few months if such arrangements can be made, Brandon asserted.

In order to help relatives care for persons who are mentally ill, outpatients clinics are being established in Chicago and at the hospitals for free treatment of those who are released. One clinic already is functioning in Chicago, Brandon said, and others will soon be established at each state institution.

Looking at Hollywood

by John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 2.—Back in 1918 David Belasco produced a little number called "Daddies," a wartime thing about some bachelors who decided to adopt some babes. Jeanne Eagels was in it. Well, the Warners are going to produce a 1941-'42 version of "Daddies" with Gloria Warren, 15, and Patty Hale, 6, as the head women. Patty Hale was known until week before last as Diana Jean. . . . Ginger Rogers is about to check in for a picture at Twentieth-Fox. Warners have been dickering with her for another, and now Paramount comes up with a choice of two for her. One is Clare Boothe's "Wedding Day," which Miss B. is supposed to have tossed off as a sort of memorandum. The other is "The Crystal Ball," about a Coney Island hot dog saleslady who pinch hits for a fortune teller and gets a millionaire. You can't go wrong if you have a hot dog girl get a millionaire. It's practically obligatory for a Rogers picture. . . . R-K-O, which recently put Pare Lorenz on the producing staff, is begging Gregory La Cava to come back to the fold. . . . Paramount has signed a couple of he-men to contracts. One is Jim Brown, 6 feet 2, tennis star from Baylor university. He came here for a tennis tournament. Was spotted by an agent, was offered to Buddy De Sylva, was hired forthwith. The other incipient leading man is Ken Griffith, surfboard champion. These lads should solace Paramount, whose heart has been aching ever since Stirling Hayden up and said the hell with the movies.

Frances Gifford, Republic's Jungle Girl, went to a neighborhood house last Saturday afternoon to catch an episode in her serial. She was recognized and the kids ganged on her for autographs. All except five cynical lads who stood off and made cracks. "Why don't you take off your clothes, if you're the Jungle Girl," they taunted. These bad manners made about 10 young ladies mad, so they lit into the boys and pretty soon there was a free for all that would have been a good shot for one of William S. Hart's old saloons. Miss Gifford fled.

Metro will team Walter Pidgeon and Greer Garson, of "Blossoms in the Dust" fame, in "Mrs. Miniver." . . . David Loew and Albert Lewin have bought from Metro the screen rights to Somerset Maugham's "The Moon and Sixpence." This yarn has been a toughie to produce on account of morality angles. Paramount first owned it, then sold it to MGM. Loew and Lewin want Paul Muni for the rôle of the painter. . . . Richard Himber is going back to New York Friday. So is Gloria Swanson. And for gossakes don't read between the lines. I doubt if Dick and Miss S. are even acquainted. . . . Edmund Goulding is due back to begin tests for "The Constant Nymph." Bette Davis is due to arrive Monday with her dog-bitten nose healed, and so is the Navy Blues sextet, with its feelings wounded. The Navy Blues girls wanted to stay in New York and and see a couple of series games, but the studio ordered them back for a new movie.

So far as I know, a sheriff's posse is just a Southern California phenomenon. If you're a member of a sheriff's posse, you get a badge and a plate for your car and the privilege of riding in parades. At the Pomona fair there is a cavalcade of sheriff's posses that would knock your eye out, with groups from various counties in gaudy uniforms on gaudy horses. An S. P. is an equestrian version of a socially ambitious Kiwanis club. Well, young Glenn Ford went western when Columbia put him in a movie called "Texas." Up to then he had been just a lad from Santa Monica, but now he's horse-daffy. He thought it would be nice to join a sheriff's posse. The studio went to work, and a chief deputy sheriff agreed to sponsor him. Glenn got word that he had been tapped for membership. He could join, he was informed, if he would provide a $1,500 saddle, a horse worth at least $500, a $100 entry fee and a $200 Spanish leather costume for parades. Ford bowed out. He isn't making that kind of money yet.

Knitted Garment Drive for English Children Started

A campaign to provide warm sweaters and other knitted woolen garments for destitute children in England this winter was launched yesterday at a luncheon meeting at the Palmer House. Mrs. Thomas A. Connors, co-chairman with Mrs. John C. Slade of Bundles for Britain in Chicago, spoke as did Claire A. Wolff, who represents the New York branch.

Three thousand department stores and shops thruout the country are coöperating in the work. Special patterns and knitting instructions will be available in these stores for volunteer knitters. Women who have time to knit are asked to make not only garments for British children, but for the men who are serving in the United States army and navy.

Special classes in knitting will be held in many of the stores, and teachers will be available to instruct groups in clubs, schools and other institutions. Mrs. Killian V. R. Nicol is vice chairman of the Chicago Bundles for Britain. Orville J. Taylor is executive committee chairman.

BROOKLYN GETS SERIES TODAY; IT'S ALL EVEN

NOTRE DAME TO FACE A WORTHY FOE IN INDIANA

But Irish Are Listed as Favorites.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 2.—Notre Dame's quest for football perfection, despite the encouragement given coaches and players by the victory over Arizona in the opening game, this week has included two scrimmages and culminated today with a long dummy scrimmage against Indiana university's plays.

No one expects the Irish to achieve perfection, certainly not Frank Leahy and his associate coaches. But they hope sufficient progress can be made so that Notre Dame will move from point to point with success. Leahy correctly regards Indiana as a most worthy foe and doubly dangerous now because of the memory of last week's surprising licking by the University of Detroit.

Looked Too Far Ahead?

The Hoosiers, so several scouts have reported, may have been thinking too much of this date with Notre Dame, the first since Coach Bo McMillin took command eight years ago—and not enough of Detroit's Titans.

Leahy is not unusually pessimistic over the Irish varsity. He seems happy over initial success but now is concerned with what may happen before 45,000 in the Notre Dame stadium Saturday afternoon. Bill Hillenbrand, Indiana's sophomore left half back, acquitted himself with distinction against Detroit and Notre Dame fears he may do better this week.

Diffidently Leahy said today he sincerely would be happy with a one point victory. The same could have been said last week before the Irish ran up a 38 to 7 count on Arizona. The Irish go into Saturday's battle with full strength. Altho Wally Ziemba, husky center, and his alternate, Tom Brock, have had leg injuries, they are in good condition now.

Wants Better Blocking.

Leahy today praised Ziemba's work at center against Arizona, particularly in passing the ball. He believes, however, the one time tackle will improve his blocking. The lack of sharp blocking by the line is the principal defect in Notre Dame's attack, Leahy added.

Leahy points out that Notre Dame's team lacks power for the short line smashes frequently essential in completing a touchdown drive. Evans is a fine full back and once thru the line he runs like the half back he is, but he does not have the weight or the drive, for instance, of a Milt Piepul.

Notre Dame has two advantages over Indiana Saturday, it seems, from comparison of their respective opening day games. The Irish line probably will outcharge Indiana's forwards, who principally are replacements for the 1940 line that Coach McMillin regarded as best in the Western conference.

Irish Advantage Grows.

Notre Dame's sophomore left half back, Angelo Bertelli, completed more than 75 per cent of his forward passes and all the Irish throwers had completions in 20 attempts. Fit this achievement into the Indiana defensive weakness as evidenced by the Hoosiers' game with Detroit and Notre Dame should have a tremendous advantage. Detroit completed seven passes in 13 attempts for a gain of 134 yards.

Equally important, since Notre Dame's line figures to outplay the Hoosiers', is Indiana's forward passing record against Detroit of only four completions in 15 attempts. All of these facts points to a Notre Dame victory.

More than 600 Indiana students and the university band will arrive Saturday morning. Special trains from Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind., as well as Chicago assure attendance of 45,000. Seats will be available, however, at the kickoff which is scheduled for 2:30 Chicago daylight time.

SWIHART IS BACK.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 2 [Special].—Its kicking and passing game improved by the return of Dale Swihart, veteran back, Indiana went thru a final drill on the home grounds today before departing for Notre Dame.

Swihart, kept out of the Detroit game by an injured ankle, was shifted from half back to full back and will handle most of the punting and share the passing duties with Half Back Billy Hillenbrand and Quarter Back Lou Sabin. Today the Hoosiers rechecked plays learned this week and polished their aerial defense.

The squad will make its headquarters at Elkhart. It will hold a light workout in the Notre Dame stadium Friday afternoon.

The following 32 players comprised the Hoosier traveling squad:

ENDS—Jack Nash, Howdy Elliott, Ted Haspes, Kenney Smith, Kent Myers, Bob Ricketts, and J. C. Coffee.

TACKLES—Jim Trimble, Fred Huff, Ed Bell, Bob Zimny, Peter Iacino, and Joe Gaul.

GUARDS—Capt. Gene White, Al Bragalone, Charley Steele, Sheldon Gayle, and Russell Deal.

CENTERS—Walt Jurkiewicz, Ken Moeller, and John Tavener.

BACKS—Billy Hillenbrand, Chuck Jacoby, Dale Swihart, Eddie Herbert, Earl Doloway, Bob White, Lou Saban, Patsy Ronzone, Dan Preger, Bud Harrell, and Howard Brown.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A Brooklyn symphony orchestra, composed of four completely balmy persons, paraded around Yankee stadium at 4 o'clock this afternoon bleating the civic anthem of Flatbush, "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum." . . . The term bum, as applied to the Dodgers, is a word of endearment, not derision, because the Bums had just whipped the New York Yankees, 3 to 2, to even a world series which, for partisanship, attendance, and receipts, has had no equal. . . . This was the first defeat the Yankees had suffered in world series competition since the Giants accomplished the feat in 1937. . . . They won four straight in 1938 and 1939. . . . The great White Way became the great Wyatt Way as Brooklyn celebrated its first series triumph in 21 years. . . . It was Whitlow Wyatt, a White Sox castoff, more than any other man who was responsible for the Dodgers' success today. . . . He was nicked for nine hits, but he always had what it takes when the going became tough. . . .

Babe Pinelli.

Joe McCarthy.

The general admission customers were much slower in arriving today than for the opening game. . . . There were only about 6,000 in line when the gates opened at 8:30 o'clock this morning. . . . At that hour yesterday there were 26,000. . . . Meanwhile a line had formed at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, where the third game of the series will be played tomorrow. . . . George Levy, Yankee stadium announcer, ought to be pressed into service at Brooklyn. . . . His pronunciation of Stoim, foist, and toid was poifect. . . . Fans were still talking today about the way Leo [The Lip] Durocher bounced out of the dugout before yesterday's contest and planted a kiss on Joe McCarthy's cheek for the benefit of news reel cameramen. . . . The smallest amount ever paid to members of a winning world series team was $1,102, which went to each of the 1918 Red Sox for whipping the Cubs. . . . The largest winning share was $6,544, earned by the Tigers in 1935. . . . Dave Rutizer, who was imported by the Western Union from Chicago to help handle the enormous telegraph file, says this series has the most extensive coverage in the history of the event. . . .

As evidence of the growth of baseball's popularity, 6,000 more fans saw the opening game yesterday than attended the entire 1908 series between the Cubs and Tigers. . . . Walter Stewart of the Memphis Commercial Appeal has definitely established his claim to the heavyweight eating championship of the press headquarters. . . . Slip Madigan and a party of 55 Californians, who came east for the Louis-Nova bout and the first two series games, headed home via Miami Beach and Havana tonight. . . . State's Attorney Tom Courtney and Mrs. Courtney of Chicago plan to stay over for the opening game in Ebbets field. . . . Ralph Pinelli of the National league, who served as umpire in chief, called the managers to the plate just before the game and reminded them that the customers had come to see a fight and beseeched them to go back to their corners and come out fighting, to break clean, and to keep their punches up. . . . Lew Fonseca's American league movie photographers made a group shot of DiMaggio, Henrich, and Keller, the Yankees' regular outfielders, who have made a total of 94 home runs this season. . . . Keller leads with 33, Henrich poled 31, and DiMaggio 30. . . . The entire White Sox team made only 46. . . .

"What curves!" exclaimed a spectator as Wyatt struck out John Sturm, first Yankee batter. . . . "Right," agreed a press box wag, looking down at some of the Broadway lovelies behind third base. . . . Clarence Rowland, Cub scout, was the busiest fellow around town today, talking to managers and owners about potential trades. . . . Irving Cummings, one of Hollywood's most widely known directors, is parlaying the Yankees and Stanford. . . . Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer had a crew of 20 cameramen operating before the game today getting background material for "The Life of Lou Gehrig," which soon will go into production. . . . Joe E. Brown, who sat behind the Yankee dugout yesterday, was near the bums' bench today. . . . The Mouth wanted to be close to The Lip. . . . Tommy Connolly, the American league's umpire in chief, who has been with the league since its organization, recalls that in 1905 umpires got only $475 for working the series, out of which they had to pay their expenses. . . . Now they draw $2,500, and are allowed $43 a day for expenses. . . . The weather today was much better for players and spectators. . . . The temperature was in the low 70s and there was no threat of rain. . . .

Joe Gordon, whose home run was a high spot of the opening game, contributed the most brilliant fielding play today when he dashed behind second base to make a one-handed stop of Reiser's hard grounder, throwing to first in time to head off the Brooklyn runner. . . . Dodger fans claimed it was robbery, nothing less, and demanded that Tom Dewey conduct an investigation. . . . A few seconds later Gordon cracked a single into left field to open the fourth inning. . . . Some one in the stands fired a blank cartridge pistol twice. . . . "Two supporters of the bums have blown their brains out," a scrivener explained. . . . Billy Herman, who once was identified with the Cubs in some vague capacity, partly offset Gordon's brilliance with a spectacular catch of Rizzuto's short fly into right field. . . . A few moments later the Dodgers had tied the score, and nothing else mattered. . . .

WALDORF TO TRY SOPHS IN KANSAS STATE BATTLE

N. U. Coach Wants a Line on Reserve Strength.

No matter how formidable Kansas State proves to be, Coach Lynn Waldorf plans to utilize tomorrow's opening game to get a line on a number of sophomores and last year's reserves who are expected to figure prominently on the Northwestern eleven this fall.

After all, Waldorf has a pretty accurate estimate of the ability of the starting lineup, consisting of eight seniors and three juniors, all of whom are lettermen. But the newcomers, who form much of the reserve strength, have yet to be tested.

A sophomore back field will probably go into action early against Kansas State. This combination consists of Don Buffmire and Dud Kean, small but speedy half backs from Grand Rapids, Minn.; Ed Hirsch, hard hitting full back from Williamsville, N. Y., and Ernie Weingarten, quarter back, from Aurora.

Watch Soph Linemen Also.

Operating in the second team back field is another sophomore, Otto Graham of Waukegan, whose passing and kicking has stood out in practice. Casey Peifer, sophomore full back from Austin High, and Sonny Skor and Jim Furlong, reserve backs from last year, are also expected to play tomorrow.

The line also has a group of sophomores whom the coaches are anxious to see under fire for the first time. Hal Hudson, center from Wood River, Ill., is in line for reserve duty behind Seniors Gene Mundy and Don Johnson.

A pair of sophomore guards, Alex Kapter of Waukegan, and John Gent of Nokomis, Ill., both on the third team, are providing hard competition for the regulars. This is also the case at tackle where Ray Vincent, Tony Samarzia, and Bob Carlson have progressed rapidly. Bob Wallis, who prepped at Fenger, will be in at end. Bill Ohland, another sophomore end, is nursing a side injury and probably will not play.

KANSAS STATE OFF TODAY.

Manhattan, Kas., Oct. 2 (AP).—Kansas State's Wildcats gave equal attention to offense and defense today in the last home practice before the Northwestern game. The team will leave for Evanston, Ill., tomorrow morning.

DODGER VICTORY RETURNS ODDS TO EARLY FIGURES

New York, Oct. 2 [Special].—The victory of the Dodgers in the second game of the world series today threw the betting odds right back to where they were when the struggle started. The Yanks still are favorites to win the series. They likewise are favored to win tomorrow's game, regardless of whether Freddie Fitzsimmons or Kirby Higbe pitches for the Dodgers or the left handed Marius Russo or Atley Donald hurls for the Yanks.

Broadway betting commissioners tonight quoted 2 to 5 against the Yankees on the series. The price against the Dodgers on the series was 2 to 1. On the result of tomorrow's game the price was 7 to 10 against the Bombers and 11 to 10 against the National league champions.

Betting in advance of the series and since the games got under way has been on a modest scale.

NORTHWESTERN REPORTS SELLOUT FOR NOTRE DAME

If you haven't already purchased your ticket for the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game in Dyche stadium on Nov. 15, you might as well have your radio tubes checked, and prepare for an afternoon beside your loudspeaker. Ted Payseur, Northwestern's ticket manager, announced last night that the 48,000 seats for the battle have been sold.

Good seats still are available for all of the Wildcats' other home games, including tomorrow's with Kansas State. Payseur said the Notre Dame sellout is the earliest in the history of the series.

Rain Halts City Series; Play 3d in Comiskey Park Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.
(Pictures on next page.)

Rain washed out the second game of the city series between the White Sox and Cubs after three innings of zero play in Wrigley field yesterday afternoon. All of which didn't make any of the players angry, for they now will cut in on Sunday's game in Wrigley field, as well as night games in Comiskey park tonight and tomorrow. All night games start at 8:15 o'clock.

If the weather clears up, it should mean many dollars for the athletes, who get a whack at the receipts of the first four legal games to the series.

Tonight's mound opponents will be Lefty Edgar Smith of the Sox against Lefty Vern Olsen. Smith won 13 and lost 17 during the American league season. Olsen won 10 and lost 8 in his National league season, tho handicapped by illness.

Officially Is Third Game.

Altho only one decision has been reached, tonight's game in Comiskey park officially is the third of the series. This designation is made in order not to interfere with ticket arrangements.

It was remarkable that the Sox and Cubs kept their minds on their work in the three innings played yesterday, for there wasn't enough in the till to buy shells and bait for a week-end of hunting and fishing this winter. If the game had been played to a 4½ inning decision, however, it would have counted as one of the four games for the player's pool, of course.

It should be said for the integrity of the players in this connection that they did no stalling while resumption of pregame showers was in the threatening stage.

Cubs Outhit Sox.

Rain checks will be redeemable either in cash or for a ticket for Sunday's game in Wrigley field, or on Wednesday if the series stretches that far.

The Cubs outhit the Sox, four to two, in the curtailed competition yesterday. Thornton Lee, 22 game lefty victory ace of the majors, started for the Sox, Paul Erickson for the Cubs.

A double by Mike Kreevich in the second inning and a single by Ben Chapman in the third represented the South Siders attack on Erickson. Stan Hack made a double leading off the first inning and a single leading off the third. Dom Dallessandro and Bob Sturgeon were the other hitters, with singles in the second inning.

Beans Reardon, dean of National league umpires and veteran of the quartet working the present series had to tote the big leather baseball pouch when rain interrupted yesterday's game at the start of the fourth inning. This chore usually is reserved for the baby of the umpiring team.

Jocko Conlan, National league umpire, attended the world series opener and got to Wrigley field in time to watch the rain soaked spectacle.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—A fellow who found only grief in seven years as an American leaguer today picked up his associated Dodgers bodily and carried them back to their Brooklyn hut with an even break in the world series, which now approaches its third game after two days of battling in the stadium, home of the Yankees, champions of the American league.

Wyatt, calmly but effectively paying his respects to the league that bruised him so much that he had to be coaxed back into baseball from his Georgia plantation, subdued the Yanks before 66,248 today, 3 to 2, and the lamps were immediately relighted in Brooklyn so that its beloved Bums could find their way back to Ebbets field for the next three games.

Who ARE These Yankees?

The tall, baldish Wyatt not only frayed the broom with which the Yanks have been sweeping the fall event in four straight but he also put a stop to their streak of 10 consecutive series games. They hadn't been beaten since the Giants did it in the fourth 1937 battle.

When today's struggle came to its end without the free wheeling Yankees having notched even one homer, both Joe McCarthy, who leads the American leaguers, and Leo Durocher, who does the same for the conglomerate outfit known as the Dodgers, went on the defensive as regards their pitchers for the initial attraction in the Brooklyn park, which seats 32,000.

It May Be Donald.

McCarthy wants to feed a left hander, Marius Russo, to the Dodgers, if for no other reason than that he might force an alteration in the enemy lineup. But the left handed hitters in the Dodger attack were well subdued, at least on long drives, by right handers in the first two games, so the Russo angle may be only a screen for Atley Donald, a right hander.

Durocher said only that it would be either bulky, old Freddy Fitzsimmons, who as a Giant was spanked by the Yankees, or Kirby Higbe, who, like Wyatt, was a 22 game winner in the Dodgers' pennant march.

The Dodgers climbed to today's success over the hard route. They were two down in three innings and the Yanks hadn't really opened up with what is known as their lethal batting punches. The American leaguers had an accumulation of seven hits off Wyatt in four innings.

Up to that point in the battle the Dodger attack hardly had been heard from. It was represented by one hit—a single from the bat of Joe Medwick. But Spurgeon [Spud] Chandler, the Yankee starter, who had toyed with the Bums, indulged in a base running act, exhausted his fuel, and crashed in a forest of Dodger bats.

Chandler Gets Generous.

When Chandler, after facing only 12 enemy batters in four innings, opened the fifth his control was gone. A pair of passes wrapped around another hit by Medwick filled the bases before anybody was retired. A double play helped to extricate him with the damage limited to the two tying runs.

But in the sixth Joe Gordon, the reliable, erred; a hit by Billy Herman followed, and Johnny Murphy came in to do one of his famed rescue acts. The error became a run on a hit by Dolph Camilli, who had been a flop in the first game, and on that lone run the Dodgers rode to victory.

Wyatt Displays Courage.

One run might not have been enough if Wyatt had not taken a turn for the better as soon as he had been given a tie. Altho the victim of seven hits in four innings, only one was a two bagger and a few of the others were dinky singles. But

TWO FIELD TRIAL RECORDS WILL BE SET ON WEEK-END

Judges, Entries to Come from Both Coasts.

BY BOB BECKER.

Two midwestern field trial records will be set this week-end when the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial club of Illinois opens its annual outdoor event near Lake Bluff, Ill., tomorrow morning. The trial continues thru Sunday.

The club will establish a new record in judging when David Elliott of New York and R. C. Bishop of Portland, Ore., open the trial by picking the winners in the puppy stake tomorrow morning. It will mark the first time in the history of midwestern springer trials that any club has gone to both the east and west coasts to get two spaniel authorities to act in a judging capacity.

Another New Record.

When Roy Gonia, professional handler of McKenna, Wash., walks out on the field trial grounds tomorrow he will establish another new record for the middle west for he will be the first spaniel handler from the Pacific coast ever to run dogs in a middle western trial.

On the basis of the early entries received by Charles Goodall, secretary of the club, local spaniel enthusiasts are anticipating in this trial some of the most brilliant field trial competition that middle west sportsmen and hunters ever have seen. There will be springer champions galore to compete for top honors.

Martin Hogan of Barrington will handle the field trial champion Dalshangan Pomme de Terre, owned by David Silberman, and Jans Hi Target which needs just one more open all age win for its championship. C. B. Dushane will pilot Champion Cloverdale Zipper. Clifford Wallace of Wadsworth, Ill., professional handler and trainer of James Simpson's kennel, is scheduled to be in the competition with an impressive string of dogs including field trial Champion Breckonhill Brigadier [now leading with 20 points toward the Field and Stream trophy], and Champion Bryngaur Fireside.

Simpsons Will Compete.

Mr. Simpson himself will handle Noramby Flatcatcher and Mrs. Simpson will test her skill with the English field trial Champion Bryngawr Firearm which has been entered in the trial. J. E. Hoenes is coming from Milwaukee with his Champion Alskeith Lily. The west coast professional handler Gonia is bringing four springers to this trial, including two champions, Newt Sir Malcolm and Newt Torpedo, both owned by Dr. C. G. Sabin of Portland, Ore.

The puppy amateur open all age stake and the amateur shooting dog stakes [for springers, cockers and clumbers] will be run tomorrow on the field trial grounds at the western limits of Lake Bluff. The open all-age stake is scheduled for Sunday. Charles Goodall of Downers Grove, secretary of the club, said last night that post entries will be accepted.

RAIN STOPS SIXTH GAME OF LITTLE WORLD SERIES

Columbus, O., Oct. 2 (AP).—A steady rain forced postponement tonight of the sixth game of the little world series between the Columbus Red Birds of the American association and the Montreal Royals of the International league. The Red Birds are leading the Canadians three games to two by virtue of last night's 13 to 3 victory.

Manager Clyde Sukeforth of the Royals was expected to start Kemp Wicker when play resumes, while Burt Shotton of the Birds likely will use Sam Nahem. The first three games of the series were played in Montreal, and the remainder will be played here.

COCHRANE GETS OFFER TO DEFEND TITLE IN LONDON

Summit, N. J., Oct. 2 (AP).—Freddie [Red] Cochrane, world's welterweight boxing champion, announced today a British syndicate had offered him £10,000 to defend his crown against Ernie Roderick, British title holder, in London, England, in December. The official rate of exchange would make the purse worth almost $50,000. The offer also included three round trip Clipper airplane transportations.

Cochrane has a nontitle engagement with Lew Jenkins next Monday in New York, but has no other bouts lined up.

RAIN MARS DAY, BUT BOB FELLER FETED, ANYWAY

Van Meter, Ia., Oct. 2 (AP).—Rain marred Bob Feller day, but it didn't prevent hundreds of the star baseball pitcher's boyhood neighbors from tendering him a rousing welcome home today. He was scheduled to pitch two innings in an exhibition game between semipro teams but the rain eliminated that part of the festivities.

The home folk turned out to hear Gov. George A. Wilson and Senator Clyde L. Herring praise the Cleveland baseball club's pitcher and swamped him with autograph requests which he obligingly filled.

Morgan Park Junior to Meet La Salle-Peru

Morgan Park Junior college's football team will begin its 1941 campaign this afternoon, meeting La Salle-Peru at Abells field, 111th street and Hoyne avenue. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Montgomery Is Due Today for Bout with Day

Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia lightweight, who recently was named No. 1 challenger in his weight class by the National Boxing association, will arrive today for a 10 round bout against Davey Day in Chicago Stadium next Friday. Julie Kogon, New Haven, Conn., 135 pounder, who stopped Pete Lello last week, also will reach town today for a 10 round semiwindup on the card against Nick Castiglione. In yesterday's drill Castiglione knocked out two sparmates. . . . Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor heavyweight, who defeated Selman Martin in Hammond Wednesday, will return to training chores in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon for a 10 round headliner against Joe Maxin of Cleveland in Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . The Illinois Athletic commission has ordered licensed fight managers and seconds to appear at a special meeting in the commission office tonight, when Dr. Frank A. Lagorio, chief medical examiner for the board, will instruct the men on the treatment of injuries between rounds of a fight.

Tony Zale, middleweight champion, has returned from New York, where he was forced to postpone a scheduled match with Georgie Abrams because of a skin ailment. Because he has not completely recovered from the affliction as yet, Zale may be unable to appear in an exhibition engagement booked for the soldiers stationed at the ordnance depot in Savanna, Ill., next Thursday. However, Joe Louis is set to appear as a referee of one of a series of contests between soldier fighters or in an exhibition match against a partner, or he will appear in both rôles. . . . An amateur boxing show will be offered tonight in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. . . . Jack Hartford, trainer of Al Hostak, who is signed for three fights in New York under Mike Jacob's auspices, recently became the father of a nine and one half pound daughter, born in Oak Park hospital. He has named the baby Joan Marino Hartford, the middle name after Hostak's manager, Eddie Marino.

JIM CONZELMAN FAVORS GAG ON SCORE REVEALING

Recalls Packers Inspired by Bear Defeat.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Coach Jim Conzelman of the Chicago Cardinals is in favor of a gag on announcements of contemporary National Football league games while his team is engaged with the Green Bay Packers, whom his forces meet Sunday afternoon in West Allis, Milwaukee suburb.

"We were playing the Packers a ball game last year," recalled the man who likes to recall incidents. "And you'll have to take my word for it that we were driving for a score which would tie the game.

"Then it happened. Over the loud speaker came the announcement that the Chicago Bears had lost. Well, that was our finish. The Packers came to life, stopped us cold, and in their enthusiasm added another touchdown. If the Bears lose Sunday in Cleveland I hope the Packers don't hear about it until our game is over, because they're going to be tough enough without the added tonic of knowing their big rivals have been whipped."

Live Up to Expectations.

The Cards have lived up to their coaches' estimates of being stronger than last year, even tho they have yet to attain a victory. They lost the opener to Cleveland, 10 to 6, then tied Detroit, 14 to 14. They've matched touchdowns with two teams which figured to be stronger. A field goal and an extra point after touchdown is their only scoring deficit in the two games.

The Cards were spirited yesterday as they followed a thoro session of reviews against Green Bay plays with a 25 minute scrimmage. The two new right half backs, John Martin of Oklahoma and Avery Monfort of New Mexico, who started the season as Bears' rookies, have absorbed the Cards' plays. They will give veteran Johnny Hall a breathing spell, as the boy from Texas Christian has played 50 minutes in each of the two league games.

Will Have More Power.

The Cards will have more man power Sunday. In addition to Martin and Monfort, such fellows as Frank Balazs, full back, and Dick Evans, end, both former Packers, will be craving action.

There are indications that the Cards will fight fire with fire, which in this instance means they'll throw a lot of passes. Tho Ray Mallouf, rookie from Southern Methodist, is the team's passing specialist, almost any one in the back field is likely to let one go. The occasional passing by Marshall Goldberg continues to be quite an amazing thing, especially as the old Pitt star is completing 'em. Heretofore he has been labeled as strictly a runner.

Long Passes Prove Weakness.

Long passes have proved to be the weakness in the Cards' defensive armor, and but for these lapses the south siders might have beaten both the Rams and the Lions.

It goes without saying such a weakness Sunday against the Packers will be fatal, as this is the passingest team in football. The Cards will leave for Milwaukee tomorrow morning.

The Bears went thru offensive and defensive maneuvers yesterday along the lake front south of Soldiers' field.

WASHINGTON FAN BARELY ESCAPES FLATBUSH WRATH

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—There were harsh words in Brooklyn today for one John Green, who was called a saboteur, a fifth columnist, and—a bum.

While the faithful slept, Green stole in from Washington, D. C., and camped first in line at Ebbets field, where a good part of Brooklyn will welcome home their warriors tomorrow for the third game of the world series with the Yankees.

That stranger at the gates—that was hard to take.

"Throw the bum out!" came a cry when the line began forming.

It looked bad for Green, a 65 year old retired government employé, until a pacifist recommended:

"Let's give him a chance to leave peacefully."

This and the presence of 10 stalwart policemen and a sergeant comforted Green, who still was first on line tonight when hundreds of King county dwellers began crowding near the entrances—armed with chairs, warm coats, and box lunches, prepared to spend the night.

Brooklyn had read early this morning about the audacious presence of this Mr. Green and there was danger thruout the day that the armistice might be punctured.

Later, it developed that this fellow wasn't so bad, after all.

"Twenty years, mister, is a long time," Green said, referring to the 21 year lapse between Brooklyn pennant victories. "I'm a Brooklyn rooter and I'm going to see them win."

125,000 New York Fans Phone About 'Them Bums'

New York, Oct. 2 [Special].—The New York Telephone company announced today that more than 125,000 telephone calls, eight times the normal number, were made yesterday afternoon as the company put into effect its service of giving the scores by innings and the final score of world series games with the time announcements. The calls were made between 1 and 6 p. m., when there is a normal load of 16,000.

Phillips, Hirsch and Crane to Risk Unbeaten Records Today

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Three unbeaten and untied Public High School league football teams—Crane Tech, Phillips, and Hirsch—will risk their lofty positions in three of the five games scheduled this afternoon and tonight. However, the road to another success doesn't appear too dangerous as each of the three elevens opposes a squad which thus far has failed to score a victory. Crane Tech meets Marshall in St. Philip stadium, Van Buren and Albany streets; Phillips engages Gage Park in Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue, and Hirsch encounters Harper in Shrewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets.

The Hirsch-Harper contest will be part of a double header in the south side stadium. . . . Bowen and Morgan Park, tied for third place in the south division, will make up the other half of the bargain program. . . . The only other game will send Farragut against Du Sable at 83d street and Yates avenue. . . . Two contests will open the 1941 Private School league campaign this afternoon. . . . Harvard faces Francis Parker in Lincoln park and Northbrook will meet North Shore Country Day in Winnetka. . . . Quincy, which lost to Oak Park, 20 to 0, will seek its first victory today against Lanphier, 1940 Central Prep conference champion.

The Rev. Patrick J. Conaty of Fenwick has been reëlected president of the Catholic league. . . . The Rev. J. E. McDonnell of De Paul academy is secretary. . . . Followers of Indiana prep football are expecting two distinguished guests at the South Bend Central-Evansville Reitz Memorial game in South Bend tonight. . . . They are Capt. Gene White, guard, and Bill Hillenbrand, left half back, of Indiana university's team, who will sit in opposite stands. . . . White is a graduate of South Bend Central while Hillenbrand is an alumus of Evansville Memorial. . . .

Capt. Wendell Olson, left tackle, is the only letterman in the East Aurora varsity lineup. . . . Jack Erban, 1940 East Aurora guard joined the navy last June. . . . George Wilcox, Joliet senior quarter back, has been lost for the season. . . . Wilcox was hurt in the Joliet opener against Lockport and has been ordered by physicians to abandon football for this season. . . . Forty-eight of the 55 members of Fenger's squad will return in 1942. . . . St. Thomas High of Rockford boasts a line which averages 180 pounds. . . . The squad, which defeated Aquin of Freeport, 40 to 0, last Sunday, opposes St. Mary's of Woodstock tomorrow.

When West Aurora adopted a new victory song, "Roll, Blackhawks, Roll," students agreed to sing it after each touchdown. . . . In two games they have used it 14 times as West Aurora defeated Glenbard, 36 to 0, and Spring Valley, 54 to 6. . . . The students are said to be in good voice for tonight's game when West Aurora meets Elgin on the Aurora field. . . . A record crowd of 5,700 is expected to see the game. . . . West Aurora is coached by Marger Apsit, former Southern California half back. . . . Mike Farroh, one-time Iowa full back, coaches the Elgin eleven. . . .

COLIN PURSE WON BY SYRIAN BOY; STRING BAND 2D

Big Lee Takes Third in Hawthorne Feature.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

John Marsch's Syrian Boy came up swiftly in the stretch to beat a field of nine rivals in the Colin purse, a six furlong dash for juveniles which topped yesterday's program at Hawthorne. Racing thru a persistent drizzle, he got under the wire a length in advance of the 2 to 1 favorite, String Band. Big Lee was third.

Syrian Boy, who was scoring his second victory of the meeting, rewarded his supporters with $9.40, $4.80, and $3.40 across the board. Jockey N. L. Pierson was forced to bring him from far back after he had been running with the trailers while Memphis was setting a crisp early pace. String Band and Big Lee were in closest pursuit of the leader as they swung around the bend. In the stretch Memphis steadily gave way. String Band and Big Lee held on well but didn't have enough left to withstand Syrian Boy's strong finish.

Owners Set MacAndrew Down.

Don MacAndrew, who has brought in 31 winners, 10 seconds, and 11 thirds to place himself far ahead of every other rider except Steve Brooks at the Hawthorne meeting, received no mounts yesterday. Track officials and MacAndrew's agent said that the boy had been set down by his contract employers, M. A. and L. D. Kern.

It was reported that he will be put back to work as an exercise boy until he shows that he's ready to snap out of the riding slump into which he has fallen in recent days. He had been failing repeatedly with odds-on favorites and other well backed horses. He hadn't ridden a winner since Saturday.

Daily Double Pays $475.40.

The combination of Sugarage in the first race and Ten Blow in the second made up a daily double worth $475.40. Sugarage was fairly popular, being quoted at a little better than 4 to 1 odds. It was Ten Blow which was responsible for the big payoff on the double. This horse was a 38 to 1 shot, returning $80.40, $22.20, and $12.60 across the board.

Sugarage scored his victory by six lengths after leading all the way. Ambo, the favorite, was second, and Tusco, a thumping longshot, landed third place at a payoff of $42.40. Ten Blow had to work somewhat harder, but he had everything well under control at the finish. After racing in a forward position in the early stages of this six and a half furlong sprint, he moved up swiftly approaching the stretch, engaged Queen Echo in the drive, and drew out handily in the latter stages.

THE BUMS—JUST A BIG HAPPY FAMILY AFTER TRIUMPH

Durocher Turns Gracious Clubhouse Host.

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—Emotions suppressed and smouldering in the hearts of the Brooklyn Dodgers for 24 hours gave way with terrific force after they tramped over the Yankees, 3 to 2, today to even the world series.

Leo Durocher, manager of the Dodgers, took personal charge of the joyous celebration in the clubhouse. He was quickly joined by that fashion plate, Larry MacPhail, the Brooklyn president and general manager.

This Is Durocher Talking.

The Dodgers had just handed the Yanks their first defeat in their last eleven world series games and Durocher was elated. Waving a fistful of telegrams and drinking a bottle of soda pop, Leo was as gabby as a parrot.

"We could just as well have had two right now as to have had this thing even," he began. "Good old Wyatt pitched a whale of a game. But those Yankees ain't seen nothin' until they see what Kirby Higbe throws at 'em. The Yanks have faced him only two or three innings during spring training, and he threw nothing but fast balls. He's got a curve now that'll kill 'em."

MacPhail cut in with the assurance that he felt pretty good. He threw his arms around Durocher and gave him a bear hug. MacPhail blurted out, "We've been doing nothing but bouncing back all year, and we'll keep right on bouncing. I feel pretty good about this series now."

May Start Fitzsimmons.

Durocher was far more affable and agreeable after today's victory than he was yesterday, when he barred the dressing room doors to visitors for half an hour. He bellowed out that the reporters could come in at once, and he was at the door to greet them.

As the visitors stormed in, the triumphant Dodgers cut loose with a whistling, shrieking, and yipping. They rushed over to congratulate the baldish 32 year old Wyatt, who accepted their pats on the back quite graciously.

Durocher said that either Higbe or Freddy Fitzsimmons would be his pitching choice tomorrow, and that it all depended on how Fitz's arm felt in the morning. He explained: "Fitz's arm sometimes tightens up in the morning, and if it's all right tomorrow he'll go. Otherwise it will be Higbe. Higbe will definitely start the next day if I don't use him tomorrow."

McCarthy Laughs It Off.

Durocher had particular praise for the aggressiveness and hitting ability of Joe Gordon, the Yankees' second baseman. He declared that Gordon was the man to stop in the Yankee attack.

Over in the Yankee dressing room, Manager Joe McCarthy showed how "downhearted" he was by kidding with baseball writers about the "long time it's been since you've had to come and see me about a loser in a series game."

"You can't win 'em all, can you?" he asked. "You haven't chased me over a loser since the fourth game of the 1937 series, and you haven't been in my office here since Oct. 5, 1936. That's the last one we lost in the stadium. Check up and see if I'm not right."

Breaks Won the Game.

His Yankee men had the same theme—you can't win 'em all.

McCarthy got his dander up when some one wanted his comment on Wyatt.

"What do I wanna talk about the Dodgers for?" he barked. "Wyatt was no better than Murphy or Chandler. There were just a couple of breaks that went against us and they settled the ball game. We got the breaks yesterday, they got 'em today. They're happy tonight and we're not so happy."

The No. 1 break was when Joe Gordon failed to complete a double play in the last of the fifth inning. Before that, another break was the walk to Dolph Camilli which was followed by Joe Medwick's double.

"I made a mistake there," Chandler admitted. "I gave Medwick a fast inside pitch, and I knew it was bad as soon as I let it go."

Rizzuto Injured Slightly.

The Yanks came out of the game with one minor casualty. Shortstop Phil Rizzuto was struck on the left big toe by a ball in one of the early innings and a sore developed under the toe nail so severe that Trainer Earle Painter feared for a while he might have to puncture it. Later he said he believed application of epsom salts over night would do the trick. Charley Keller's ankle still bothers him slightly, but not enough to interfere with his play.

"Marius Russo'll go tomorrow if his ailing stomach is okay," McCarthy said. "He said he was ready to start today, but since his only food for two days was a little toast this morning, I decided to hold him off another day."

Dodgers Beat Yankees, 3-2; Square Series

he set 'em down in order in the fifth, yielded one hit in the sixth, dodged two errors by Pee Wee Reese in the eighth, and sailed thru the ninth after surrendering one more single.

By fanning Walker and Reiser, two of the three men who faced him, Chandler made brief work of the opening inning, but Wyatt, altho he escaped unscathed in the Yankee half, was under extreme pressure. He started by fanning Sturm, but, on the next pitch, Rolfe laid down a surprise bunt and beat it for a hit. When Henrich walked, bringing up DiMaggio, a feeling spread thru the stand that something was about to happen. It did, but not in real Yankee fashion. The great DiMaggio grounded sharply to Reese for an easy double play.

Keller Carries On.

Keller, who walked twice and scored each time in yesterday's game, stepped up at the start of the second, and, after two strikes had been called on him, belted a single into center. Dickey sat down after Wyatt had rifled a fast ball past him for a third strike. Gordon drew a dividend on his homer and single of yesterday—he walked. The two men moved up while Herman was tossing out Rizzuto. Chandler slammed a high bounder toward third and Lavagetto clawed the air trying to hurry the ball's descent. His throw to Camilli was too late to beat Chandler to first, so Keller scored, but Gordon, who was roaring homeward in Keller's wake, was nailed on Camilli's lightning throw to Owen.

Trouble with Two Out.

The third, when the Yanks registered their second run, was calm until after Sturm and Rolfe had lined and grounded, respectively, to Camilli. Henrich boomed a low drive into the right field corner and it caromed off the wall for a double. DiMaggio wouldn't nibble at the bad pitches offered intentionally by Wyatt, so he walked. Keller lashed into the first pitch and sent it between Herman and Camilli for a single. Henrich sprinted home and DiMaggio wound up on third. This Yankee surge was halted on Dickey's tap to Herman.

Gordon led off in the fourth with a single to left, and what threatened to be a single by Rizzuto was turned into an out when Herman ran back into short right to make a one-handed grab of Rizzuto's looping liner. Gordon was forced at second on Chandler's poke to Reese. Sturm's puny fly fell among Reese, Herman, and Reiser in short center for a single. Chandler tried to leg his way from first to third, only to be nipped by Reiser's throw to Lavagetto. Chandler stalled for time before resuming his pitching chores, but he was winded by his sprint and the Dodgers made merry.

Spud Is Fatigued.

Proof that Chandler had thrown himself off stride came when he walked Camilli on five pitches to open the fifth. Medwick didn't wait for a pass. He fouled off one pitch and banged the next down the left field line for a two bagger, Camilli stopping at third. Lavagetto walked and the bases were filled with none out. Reese bounced to Rizzuto, forcing Lavagetto, but Gordon's relay throw for a double play was low and Sturm couldn't hang onto it. Camilli scored on the play.

Owen clipped a single into left to send in Medwick with the tying run. The Dodgers were stopped quickly on Wyatt's grounder which Gordon turned into a double killing.

Gordon Throws One Away.

The sixth started with Gordon throwing wide to Sturm, after capturing Walker's tricky bounder. On a hit and run, Rizzuto went over to cover and Herman singled thru the vacated spot, Walker taking third. Fireman Murphy came to the rescue and fanned Reiser on four pitches. Camilli picked off a 3 and 2 pitch for a single to right, Walker scoring to put the National leaguers ahead and Herman scooting to third. Medwick also carried Murphy to 3 and 2, but finally bounced to Rizzuto and Herman was out at the plate. DiMaggio smothered Lavagetto's fly to conclude the inning.

The Yanks had two men on the bases in the sixth but didn't cause much of a flutter because two were out before Gordon walked and Rizzuto singled. This threat faded when Murphy fanned. The next Yankee to survive was Dickey, after two were gone in the eighth. He went to second on Reese's two errors, one a fumble and the other a throw which bounced into the boxes. Gordon then was purposely passed and Bordagaray ran for Dickey, but Rizzuto grounded to Reese who passed to Herman for a force play.

Yanks Threaten in Ninth.

The Yankees wouldn't give up for the day without making their customary last minute threat. Selkirk batted for Murphy and walloped a 3 and 2 pitch for a single into right. For a moment, their home run urge was forgotten. They were reduced to the necessity of playing for one run. Sturm tried to sacrifice but his bunt was snared by Owen, who whipped the ball to Reese in time to force Selkirk at second. The remainder proved easy for Wyatt. Rolfe's grounder to Herman forced Sturm and narrowly missed being a double play. Then Walker took in Heinrich's tall fly for the finishing touch.

BADGER LINEUP FOR MARQUETTE GAME UNCERTAIN

Sophs Crowd Wisconsin Veterans.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 2 [Special].—The starting lineup against Marquette Saturday remained in doubt at four positions this afternoon as the Wisconsin football squad rehearsed offensive and defensive assignments.

The left guard job still is a tossup between Evan [Red] Vogds and Pat Boyle, right guard between George Makris and Harold Koehler, right half back between Ted Damos and Don Miller, and full back between Bob Ray and Pat Harder. Vogds, Boyle, Koehler, and Harder are sophomores. A wrenched knee will keep Bud Seelinger, sophomore passer, out of the game.

Coach Stuhldreher said he was pleased with the team's "quick reaction" on defense, particularly against passes; even so, the Badgers hardly know what to expect from Marquette because the Hilltoppers have a new coaching staff.

All service men without commissions will be admitted to Wisconsin's home games this year for 50 cents, Stuhldreher announced.

MARQUETTE SEEKS BLOCKER.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 2 [Special].—Robert Dams, a junior reserve from Milwaukee, today loomed as the Marquette starting quarter back in Saturday's opening game with Wisconsin at Madison. THE WORLD'S LEADING PANATELA!

When they say "Panatela," most smokers mean— Robt. Burns Panatela de Luxe
Robt. Burns de Luxe
10¢

To most smokers a panatela cigar means a Robt. Burns Panatela de Luxe. There are two important reasons. It pioneered the present popularity of panatelas. Second, outstanding leader of panatelas for years, it is today supreme among them. Since the first Robt. Burns Panatelas de Luxe were made, more of them have been smoked than all the panatelas of all other high class brands combined.

There are still further reasons. Its streamlined gracefulness catches the modern man's eye. Its ingratiating flavor, deliciously ultra-mild—credit its 100% Havana filler—holds its friends, notably smokers who relish imported taste without heady after-effect.

Due to its suave, unobtrusive appearance and the class of its smokers, it holds a place of honor at the cigar stands of clubs and better hotels, a welcome companion of club specials and high priced private brands. And it's always the choice of each new younger generation . . . Ask for "The Sophistocrat," the world's leading panatela.

STOCKS MOVE UP UNTIL BASEBALL LURES TRADERS

Prices Slide as Tickers Tell Dodgers' Doings.

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—The stock market was doing all right until the second game of the world series started today when many early buyers shelved commitments and adjourned to the news tickers to watch the play by play account.

Virtually all the day's activity centered in oils and low priced issues, the majority of which held to an extremely narrow range. Leaders generally were up fractions to a point or so in the forenoon. Advances then began to fade and volume dwindled. At the close 246 issues were higher, 224 lower, and 200 unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks finished with a net loss of .1 of a point at 43. Transfers of 464,927 shares compared with 368,195 the day before.

Telegraph Shares Dip.

Business news was viewed as fairly constructive and war bulletins generally were without disturbing qualities. A little bearishness cropped up, however, as Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau warned that this year's tax bill was only a starter.

Western Union and Postal Telegraph preferred extended yesterday's upturn in the forenoon, but slipped on profit selling after a senate subcommittee recommended legislation permitting a merger. Previous strength of these stocks was apparently based on rumors such action would be taken.

A membership in the New York Stock exchange was sold for $25,000, lowest since June 4.

CHICAGO PRICES EBB.

The price trend was slightly downward on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in transactions totaling 16,000 shares, with 29 issues advancing, 36 declining, and 26 closing unchanged.

Volume leaders were National Cylinder Gas, 2,300 shares, off ⅛ to 10⅛; Middle West, 650 shares, off ⅛ to 4⅝; Aviation corporation, 500 shares, unchanged at 4, and Central and Southwest Utility, 500 shares, unchanged at ⅛.

FINANCE FIRMS VOTE EXTRA AND USUAL DIVIDENDS

Directors of the Merchants and Manufacturers Securities company, a Chicago finance company, yesterday declared extra dividends of 5 cents each on the class A and class B common shares in addition to the regular semi-annual payments of 20 cents each on the issues. The company also authorized a participating dividend of 50 cents in addition to the regular semi-annual payment of $1 on the participating preferred stock.

Domestic Finance corporation, a subsidiary of Merchants and Manufacturers Securities, authorized an extra dividend of 10 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 35 cents on the common shares.

The Jantzen Knitting Mills voted a dividend of 15 cents compared with payments of 10 cents in preceding quarters.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC AGAIN CLIMBS TO PEAK SINCE 1930

U. S. Railroads Load Total of 919,510 Cars.

Reaching the highest level for any week since late in 1930, revenue freight loadings by railroads totaled 919,510 cars in the week ended Sept. 27, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. This was an increase of 5,558 cars over the preceding high mark established in the week ended Sept. 13. It was the fifth week this year in which loadings topped the 900,000 car mark.

Freight shipments increased 11,541 cars, or 1.3 per cent, over the preceding week, and 97,076 cars, or 11.8 per cent, over the same week last year.

Miscellaneous freight loadings, which had passed the 400,000 car mark in the week ended Sept. 20 for the first time since 1929, showed a decrease of 764 cars last week. This class of freight shipment includes machinery and all types of armaments and is considered an accurate barometer for industrial activity, particularly under the nation's preparedness program.

Loadings of the various commodities compare as follows:

Vote Monday on Increase in Grain Trading Fees

Members of the Chicago Board of Trade will vote Monday on increasing the commission charge on transactions in grain futures. A proposed amendment to the rules of the exchange would raise the rate $2.50 to $15 for the purchase and sale of 5,000 bushel lots of wheat and other grains. Increased operating cost was given as the reason by the Association of Grain Commission Merchants.

Commodities

Late profit taking sales and hedging erased early gains of more than a $1 a bale in cotton futures yesterday and prices closed 60 to 90 cents a bale below Wednesday's final levels. Traders received reports that 60,000 to 65,000 bales of American cotton had been shipped to Canada within the last few days under the subsidy plan.

Other commodity futures closed irregularly in narrow price ranges. Cottonseed oil closed 0.04 cent a pound higher to 0.02 cent lower after early gains of 0.13 cent. World sugar ended 0.01½ cent a pound higher to 0.01½ cent lower, and the domestic contract closed 0.10 cent higher to 0.01 cent lower. Coffee futures were moderately lower, and hides advanced 0.07 to 0.10 cent a pound.

MORGENTHAU PREDICTS 'ALL OUT' TAX BILL FOR NATION NEXT YEAR

Demands Sacrifices; Promises to Take Profits from War.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. yesterday called for "all out taxation" to finance armament spending and stop inflation.

Congress will be asked, he said, to adopt in 1942 a super tax bill that goes far beyond the scope of existing federal taxation. Its objective, he declared, will be to "take the profit out of war" and it will levy on all in accordance with ability to pay.

The secretary spoke at the closing convention session of the American Bankers association in the Stevens hotel on the same program with Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. Connally again asked for repeal of the neutrality act and the immediate arming of American merchant ships.

Asks Extended Program.

Morgenthau said that as part of the new tax program the social security program should be extended. By this means, he asserted, several billion dollars of additional national income would be absorbed.

The social security levy was the only specific tax mentioned by Morgenthau. He did not refer to the 6 per cent limit on corporation earnings which has stirred up a storm of opposition in congress since Morgenthau first proposed it 10 days ago.

Morgenthau said the new tax program will be accompanied by a renewed drive to sell defense savings bonds to individuals and other nonbanking investors. He asked the banks for coöperation in this drive. He asserted that the treasury would resort as little as possible to the sale of government bonds to banks as a financing measure.

Aims to Avoid Inflation.

By selling bonds to investors other than banks and raising a much larger part of the armament cost thru taxes, the treasury will seek to avoid the serious price inflation that occurred during the World war, he asserted.

Morgenthau spoke before an audience of nearly 3,000 in the grand ball room of the hotel. He gave particular emphasis to the passage in which he mentioned that the new taxes would "take the profit out of war."

The most vigorous applause occurred when Morgenthau made the statement that nonarmament expenditures of the government should be curtailed as an anti-inflation measure. The applause interrupted the speaker for several minutes and the chairman had to request the crowd to stop the hand clapping so that Morgenthau could resume his speech.

Urges Curb on Loans.

Morgenthau urged the bankers to refuse loans for civilian projects which require materials needed for rearmament. By postponing such "unnecessary" loans, he said, the banks will aid the government in restraining inflationary forces. When the priority system becomes more fully effective, he said, it will accomplish this purpose.

"There is real need of convincing the average citizen, right, now, that he will have to accept far greater taxation," the secretary said. "There is real need in preparing him to make greater savings in his daily life to ensure long run survival and improvement in his standard of living. Above all there is need of explaining to him that this war cannot be won quickly, cheaply, or easily."

Preliminary symptoms of serious price inflation, he said, are already present altho expenditures for armament have as yet not reached the high level they are destined to achieve.

Advises "All Out" Taxation.

"The indispensable method of paying for defense without inflation is 'all out' taxation, a method that has not yet been tried in spite of the good start that congress has made in raising $3,500,000,000 in additional revenue," Morgenthau continued. "With the help of the revenue act of 1941, our tax structure will yield about 14 billion dollars in revenue, but, in my opinion, it still contains many inequalities and many omissions which will have to be corrected next year.

"The tax bill next year will have to be a genuinely 'all out' bill, a levy on all in accordance with their ability to pay, if it is to raise the necessary revenue, place the necessary check on inflation, and tax the profit out of war."

All ideas of "business as usual" must be thrown in the rubbish heap, the treasury head asserted. Complacency is now retarding the armament program, he said, and the country does not appreciate the stupendous size of the job that confronts it.

Connally Would Repeal Act.

Connally's address was mostly a repetition of the radio speech he made earlier in the week from Washington urging the scrapping of the neutrality act. He asserted that the repeal would not be an unneutral step, declaring the act had gone far beyond the normal definition of neutrality.

"After its repeal," he said, "the United States would be a neutral under international law. The act prohibits the arming of merchant ships. I favor the repeal of that provision. It is my view that merchant ships that are now being ruthlessly attacked upon the high seas, while on lawful business, ought to be allowed to arm for their necessary self-defense—for the defense of lives and property."

BANKERS DEMAND CUT IN NEEDLESS SPENDING BY U. S.

Resolutions adopted yesterday by the American Bankers association asked for immediate curtailment of nonessential government spending and condemned price control that does not apply to all interests impartially.

The resolutions, approved at the closing session of the convention in the Stevens hotel, were drafted by a committee headed by Francis M. Law of Houston, Tex., a former president of the association.

The declaration on spending called attention to the sacrifices that are being asked from all groups in the interests of military preparedness.

Asks U. S. to Set Example.

It asserted that the government itself should set the example in sacrifice by lopping the unnecessary expenditures. It commended the proposal for a joint congressional committee to carry out the plan.

"When men in the service, taxpayers, business men, and others are being asked for sacrifices, the agencies of the government themselves must demonstrate their willingness to sacrifice nonessential activities for the defense program," the resolution said.

The price control resolution did not refer specifically to farm prices and wages which are exempted from control under a pending administration measure. It was obvious, however, that the omissions in the pending bill were meant.

Control All Elements.

"A policy of controling inflation must include direct control not only over prices, but over all the cost elements which are the cause of prices," the resolution said. "Such controls must be equitable. No pressure groups should obtain unfair advantage. There must be no exception; there must be equality of sacrifice."

The bankers had this to say of the arms program:

"The situation of this country probably is more critical than most people realize. Our defense is less advanced than headlines of huge spending lead us to think."

MAYOR PRESSES FOR ARMS POOL TO RETAIN LABOR

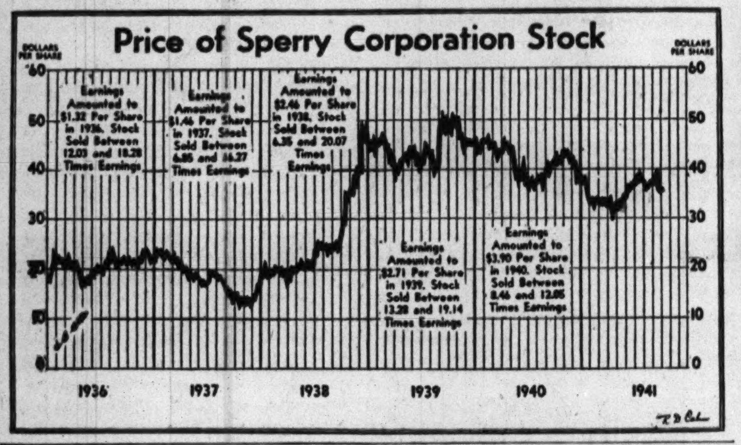
Skilled labor will leave Chicago for jobs in other cities unless its small plants obtain armament work, Mayor Kelly told almost 1,000 plant owners and representatives last night at a meeting to set in operation machinery to form industrial pools of small manufacturers.

"The walkout already has started," he said. "If it continues it will ruin our neighborhoods. It has taken the nation's armament program with its great demands to make us realize that as individuals we can do little but by coöperative effort we can accomplish much.

"Big business has the greatest opportunity in its history to demonstrate that it is the friend of little business. By organizing quickly and efficiently and by being willing to share contracts, big business has the power to save thousands of small plants from closing down. This coöperation is being evidenced already on a large scale."

General Electric Reports Orders Set 9 Month Peak

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 2 (AP).—Orders received by General Electric company during the first nine months of 1941 soared to a record $831,390,000, 109 per cent above the corresponding 1940 period, it was announced today.



Go Slow on Pay Roll Tax Boost, Says Doughton

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—Representative Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, today conferred with President Roosevelt and later warned against boosting social security pay roll taxes too much at this time.

Rep. R. L. Doughton.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau has advocated tripling the present 1 per cent tax on pay rolls contributed by both employés and employers for old-age and survivors insurance.

Doughton, who heads the committee which considers all tax legislation, said he did not want to commit himself at this time on increased taxes, of which the nation was warned during the day in a Chicago address by Morgenthau.

Warns of Hasty Boost.

Doughton admonished against hasty boosts in the security tax rate, however. He issued a similar warning last week against Morgenthau's plan to confiscate all corporation profits above 6 per cent.

Doughton said that his off-hand view is that Morgenthau's proposed increase in social security taxes would be "pretty steep."

"It might not be best to boost the social security tax too much at this time," Doughton said. "It is a matter, however, that ought to be given very careful consideration. It is a very delicate and difficult matter, and once opened up it will provoke unended discussion."

Boost Not Due Till 1943.

As the law now stands, the tax rate on pay rolls will not go up until 1943, when it will rise to 2 per cent each on the employer and the employé, making a total return to the government of 4 per cent on the pay check. A 3 per cent rate, to be paid by the employé and also by the employer, will not become effective until 1949.

Morgenthau and other high officials, however, hope to move up these increases. This plan would provide the treasury with more funds to help finance the mounting rearmament costs, already in the neighborhood of 60 billion dollars, because the payments are dumped into the general fund of the treasury.

OPM BUYING ALL SILK AVAILABLE; NONE COMING IN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—The Office of Production Management said today that the Defense Supplies corporation was buying all silk that was being offered and it planned to use the silk only for military purposes.

"OPM has no program to import more silk at this time, and knows of no movement to bring more in," Frank Walton, chief of the OPM textile section said. "Meanwhile, OPM is proceeding with the original plan to use the stocks of frozen silk for defense purposes."

★SMALL BUSINESS★ MAN'S DEPARTMENT

This department is prepared to help the small business man who is seeking information on priorities, substitute materials, and related subjects. Inquiries should be directed to the Small Business Man's department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. All inquiries will be given careful attention. Letters on subjects of broad interest will be published with comment.

EXTENSION PROCESS.

A customer sent us a copy of preference rating order P-29 with a priority rating of A-10. Please let us know in detail the procedure which now must be followed so the steel mill will honor our purchase order. We make metal mouldings.

Answer: Warren G. Bailey, district manager, field service of the priorities division of the Office of Production Management, advises the following:

The preference rating order P-29, known as the health supplies rating plan, provides that when the rating is extended by the manufacturer of health supplies to his source of materials, the latter should execute copies of the order. The supplier should retain the original name and serial number on the first page and sign the last page.

One copy must be sent to the priorities division, Office of Production Management, Washington, D. C., and a signed copy may be extended in turn to his supplier, the steel mill.

REPAIRS.

Can I use the A-10 rating granted under the repair plan to obtain necessary repair parts ordered before Sept. 9, when the plan was announced? I have had some of those orders in for more than a month but cannot get delivery.

Answer: Under an interpretation of the repair plan [preference rating order P-22] by Priorities Director Donald M. Nelson, the priority rating of A-10 can be assigned to deliveries of materials for vital repairs in 20 so-called essential industries even tho the orders were placed before Sept. 9.

ENFORCEMENT.

Is it true that the priorities division is going to send inspectors into industrial plants to enforce compliance with its regulations?

Answer: The compliance and field service section of the priorities division is launching a nation wide factual survey to ascertain by plant visits to what extent the priorities regulations are being adhered to.

The priorities division will be assisted in this survey by representatives of other government agencies as indicated early last month by the Small Business Man's department. The inspections will not be made to enforce compliance but to gather data which will be available to the priorities division in enforcing its orders.

SEPTEMBER SPENDING FOR ARMS HITS PEAK OF OVER 1.3 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Oct 2. (AP).—Armament spending hit a new record of $1,319,954,559 last month. The treasury said today that the September expenditures were nearly 200 millions more than August, when the previous record was set. Arms costs for the first three months of the fiscal year, beginning July 1, totaled $3,403,930,272, compared with $621,076,265 for the similar period last year.

Kemper Warns Waste Perils Nation's Credit

Nomination of congressional candidates pledged to "elimination of waste and extravagance" as a protection against development of totalitarianism in the United States was urged yesterday by James S. Kemper, Chicago, president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company. He addressed the closing session of the annual convention of the Farm Equipment institute in the Edgewater Beach hotel. About 450 representatives of farm equipment companies attended.

Selection of such candidates, declared Kemper, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will "give to the American people the best guarantee they could have that we shall not, while seeking to suppress totalitarianism, achieve it here as a result of impairment of the federal credit."

May Forge Own Chains.

He said that "unless we are vigilant in protecting our rights during this difficult period we may find that we have been forging the very chains with which we are to be shackled," and added, "If there ever was a time when business men should take an active part in politics it is now."

Kemper reviewed the government's economic history for the last 25 years, and asserted that by August, 1939, the people had begun to realize the New Deal's spending program was "no good" and congress ignored party lines to defeat decisively a 3 billion dollar spend-lend program.

"Then came another European war, which focused attention on our lack of military equipment," he continued. "Incidental to the necessity for correcting that situation, the war afforded the planners, the parlor bolshevists, the regimenters exactly the opportunity they were looking for.

War Gives New Excuse.

"All they needed to do was to divert the attention of the people from the mistakes that had been made, by concerning them with the specter of war, and under the guise of patriotic appeals reinstate the program that so recently the congress had repudiated.

"And now we witness the greatest spending program of all time. The 1941 congress appropriated and authorized during the first six months a billion dollars more than all the assets which all the life insurance companies in America have accumulated for the protection of 67 million of our countrymen and at least another 33 million of dependents. How long can this continue without serious impairment to the federal credit?"

Walter S. Tower, president of the American Iron and Steel institute, told the equipment group it is "extremely doubtful" whether any measurable effect of the government's plan to increase steel production capacity by 10 million tons could be expected before 1944, while the peak demand for steel under the rearmament program will be reached in 1942 or early 1943.

A. OF C. OUTLINES STEPS TO SECURE 'ARMS CONTRACT

Eight steps for Chicago business men to take in adjusting their affairs to the armament program were outlined yesterday by Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Association of Commerce, in a bulletin to members.

The steps are: [1] Attempt to obtain priority ratings for which your work is eligible; [2] seek armament orders; [3] seek subcontracts thru the Office of Production Management's contract distribution division; [4] form pools of plant facilities; [5] conserve materials you are now using; [6] study new lines of business; [7] attempt to sell to defense housing projects, and [8] maintain export business with Latin America, the British empire and certain other nations.

Lyon urged business men to consult the defense problems service of the association headed by Guenther Baumgart.

SENATORS AGAIN EXPLODE ICKES' GAS 'SHORTAGE'

Roads Refute His Tank Car Figure.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—A senate committee, told that the railroads could begin hauling 200,000 barrels of petroleum daily to the eastern seaboard within two weeks, reaffirmed today its findings that a threatened gasoline shortage could be avoided if proper steps were taken.

Chairman Francis Maloney [D., Conn.] summed up members' views with the comment that he saw little change in the situation since the committee reported three weeks ago that there was no actual shortage either in gasoline or transportation facilities.

"It appears to me," he said, "that what change, if any, has taken place has been an improvement in the situation."

24,000 Tank Cars Ready.

Maloney said the foundation for this viewpoint, substantially the same as that expressed by Senators W. Lee O'Daniel [D., Tex.], Harold H. Burton [R., O.], and W. Warren Barbour [R., N. J.], was laid in testimony given today that the railroads had 24,000 available tank cars and that it would be no problem to load and ship 800 to 900 daily bearing 200,000 barrels of oil.

Previously Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes had testified that if something was not done to overcome his reported 175,000 barrel daily excess of consumption over shipments to the seaboard area there would not be enough oil to go around this winter.

President John J. Pelley of the Association of American Railroads laid before the committee today a tabulation showing the location of 41,993 tank cars.

Waiting for Oil Companies.

Allowing for average daily loadings, he said 23,595 of these, plus 993 other "empties" stored elsewhere, were available to take on fuel cargoes if the oil companies wanted to use them.

This was in direct contrast to Ickes' contention that only 5,000 cars were available.

Pelley said the railroads had stepped up their daily oil hauls to the east from about 15,000 barrels three weeks ago to 80,000 barrels.

ASK REPEAL OF CURFEW.

Immediate repeal of the east coast gasoline curfew was asked yesterday in telegrams sent to Senator Francis D. Mahoney [D., Conn.], chairman of a senate subcommittee investigating the purported oil shortage, by the Chicago Motor club and the Automobile Association of America. Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, asserted that complaints from motorists indicated hardships caused by the curfew and that American travel—a 5 billion dollar industry—"should not be carelessly jeopardized.

BUROCRATIC OIL 'FUMBLING' HIT BY GOV. PHILLIPS

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 2 [Special].—Gov. Leon C. Phillips, chairman of the Interstate Oil compact, charged today that "fumbling boards and bureaus" at Washington are responsible for a crisis in the petroleum industry which finds a shortage of equipment for exploration and continuation of normal production.

Gov. L. C. Phillips.

Phillips called upon the state defense council to demand of Harold Ickes, petroleum coördinator, that priorities be granted the petroleum industry for equipment to prevent a decline in oil production and a discontinuance of drilling in new fields.

"It is another example of burocratic bottlenecks," said Phillips.

No Arms Bottleneck in Nation's Railroad System, Says White

Roy B. White, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, declared yesterday at the annual meeting of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce that the railroads are handling the armament load in stride.

Roy B. White.

Addressing about 1,000 business and railroad executives attending the opening session of a two day meeting in the Palmer House, White, formerly head of Western Union Telegraph company, said:

"There has been no genuine bottleneck on the railroads, and as nearly as we can see there will not be any. Certainly there will be none unless difficulties now unforeseen appear to plague us."

Rails Paying Own Way.

Observing that the railroads are called upon to provide more and more transportation as the armament program gains speed, White asserted that they "are delivering the best service in their history and have paid their own way, even tho 10 years of depression had bled them white."

The railroads are hauling about 25 per cent more tons of freight one mile than they were during the war year 1918, White said, adding: "They are doing this without congestion, and with 500,000 fewer freight cars than they had in 1918."

White said that back of the roads' determination to meet transportation demands "is a railroad plant improved to the tune of 10 billion dollars in the last 20 years."

"Locomotives are fewer now, but they are bigger, stronger, and can haul more, faster," he said. "Cars are fewer but they also are bigger, stronger, and can haul more, faster. Lines have been straightened, heavier rail laid for faster, safer hauling. Bridges have been strengthened, and automatic signals extended and improved to eliminate delays."

White said that shippers have coöperated with the roads to speed up freight movement by loading and unloading cars promptly.

Directors of the chamber were elected for various districts of the state prior to the luncheon at which White spoke.

Warns Slow Shippers

A. H. Schweitert, chairman of the midwest vigilance committee speeding use of railroad cars, asserted yesterday that "drastic action must be taken if industries are slow in unloading cars during the peak load late this month."

He addressed a meeting of the Midwest Shippers Advisory board, which has already estimated that 121,000 more carloads of freight will be moved in this area during the last quarter, 1941, than in the same period of 1940. Schweitert said 48 local vigilance groups are now watching for slow shippers but no penalties have yet been imposed.

The midwest area includes Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, upper Michigan, and western Indiana.

Union Is Ready to Ask Federal Rail Seizure

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, concluded railroad labor's arguments for wage increases yesterday with a denunciation of "manipulation" of rail finances by bankers and the assertion that his union is ready to recommend that the government "take possession of the railroads and put them on a cleaner and more decent basis."

He told President Roosevelt's fact finding committee meeting in Kimball hall that the railroads "wasted" funds totaling more than enough to meet the unions' wage pleas, and declared the carriers' capital structure "contains 9½ billion dollars of water and blue sky which must be removed for the good of the industry."

Refuses Plea on Rules.

Whitney asserted his brotherhood will "give no consideration to any railroad suggestion that the working rules be changed." He denounced what he termed eastern banker domination of many railroads and cited Interstate Commerce commission figures to illustrate his argument that railway capital values had been inflated.

Deep slashes in capital issues which the commission has ordered in the case of several reorganized carriers demonstrate the commission agrees with his opinion on railroad finances, Whitney declared.

"The railroads, weighted down for years with over-expanded capital structures, have exerted themselves to pay disproportionate interest charges, while their workers were deprived of a just wage," he said.

Workers Denied "Justice."

"Sound financial management would have slashed interest charges and done justice to the workers. But the interests controling the bankrupt railroads, for their own selfish reasons, would not permit such justices."

This morning, Julius H. Parmelee, head of the bureau of railroad economics, is scheduled to start presentation of the management's side of the controversy after brief cross-examination of Whitney.

Just before the start of the present hearing the railroads agreed to hold up their demand for changes of the rules, including the "featherbed" make-work rules, until the wage issue was settled.

JONES REVEALS U. S. WILL BUY ALL PERU'S SURPLUS OF MINERALS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, announced today an agreement with Peru under which that nation's principal minerals would be retained exclusively for the United States and other countries of the western hemisphere.

He said that, in collaboration with the state department, a contract had been signed with Peru under which any of the specified minerals not sold in the course of normal business in the western hemisphere would be bought by the Metals Reserve company, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The agreement covers antimony ores, copper ores, copper concentrates, copper matte, lead ores, lead concentrates, refined lead bars, tungsten ores and concentrates, vanadium, and zinc concentrates and electrolytic zinc.

9 MILLION TANK PLANT ORDERED FOR E. CHICAGO

A Defense Plant corporation lease agreement with American Steel Foundries for construction and equipment of a $9,413,901 tank equipment manufacturing plant at East Chicago, Ind., was announced yesterday by Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator.

The war department announced award of two contracts for four ton trucks totaling $2,085,386 to the Diamond T Motor Car company of Chicago, and a $27,900,376 contract to General Motors corporation, Detroit, for manufacture of guns by its A C Spark Plug and Frigidaire divisions.

It was announced at Washington that the army has earmarked $12,500,000 for production of plane engine superchargers by the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company at Milwaukee.

U. S. RUBBER HAS NEW SUBSTITUTE FOR ALUMINUM

New York, Oct. 2 [Special].—The United States Rubber company today announced that it has developed a new nonmetallic material one-third lighter than aluminum and designed to replace that metal in many important uses.

Company officials said that the new substance, which is known simply as formula C-102, already has been tested and approved by the United States army for use in self-sealing fuel tanks.

It is made from fibrous and rubber-like ingredients and, except for small amounts of rubber contains none of the so-called critical materials.

MERGER OF BIG WIRE COMPANIES RECOMMENDED

Congressmen Find Postal in Danger.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—A special senate subcommittee, warning that the Postal Telegraph company is in imminent financial danger and that the Western Union Telegraph company may suffer disaster in another business depression, today recommended legislation which would permit American domestic telegraph carriers to merge in a single entity.

The subcommittee reported that the present precarious financial condition of the companies is due chiefly to [1] loss of revenue thru competition from new and cheaper or improved means of communication, such as the "heavily subsidized" air mail service, [2] loss of revenue during the last decade due to the general business decline, [3] increased operating costs, particularly in the last four years, due to increased taxation, [4] unrealistic industry, financial and management policies, and [5] lack of adequate government interest, attention and regulation.

International Units 'Sound.'

Legislation permitting the American international telegraph carriers to merge into another separate entity also was suggested by the subcommittee, with the added proviso that there shall be no common control between domestic and international wire companies.

Unlike the domestic companies, the senators found that the international carriers, which includes Western Union's cable operations, are "financially sound" enterprises. However, the report continued, their competition for foreign connection has raised a problem in view of the fact that nearly all foreign systems are government owned and operated.

Thus, it was explained, the question is whether American policy should be one of encouragement of competition between American owned international carriers or whether international business should be carried on by a single company operating as a monopoly.

Wheeler Conducts Hearings.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], chairman of the interstate commerce committee, was chairman of the subgroup which held the public hearings attended by officials of the major companies and labor and employé representatives.

Today's report will be considered by the full committee before the recommendations are formally reported to the senate.

There is no question, said the senators, as to the strong financial position of the American Telephone and Telegraph company which controls all long distance oral communications. It was explained that this company has developed the teletypewriter and leased wire telegraph services as an adjunct to its oral communications services.

While praising the development of these facilities as a noteworthy advance in the communications art, the subcommittee said there is a serious question whether a corporation enjoying a monopoly in the oral communications field should be permitted to employ its "vast and unequaled" resources to compete in another communications field.

WHEAT FUTURES DIP IN FACE OF WINNIPEG RISE

Fall ½ Cent After Steady Ten Days' Advance.

Wheat prices closed lower on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday for the first time in 10 days, sinking ⅜ to ⅝ cent in the face of an advance of 2 to 2⅛ cents in Winnipeg, the first time the latter market has shown any activity in a number of weeks. December wheat closed here at $1.22½.

Selling of wheat futures here against purchases at Winnipeg was partly responsible for the break in Chicago prices, brokers said. Reports from Winnipeg indicated that American interests had purchased 2 million bushels of wheat futures there.

Texas mills were reported asking for offers of Canadian wheat following the disclosure that the Canadian grain can be delivered at Gulf of Mexico ports at a price much lower than the cost of domestic wheat.

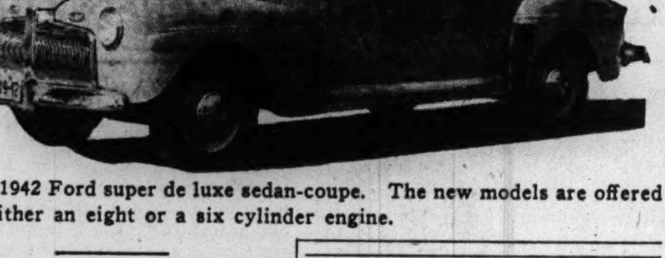
Corn and other grains declined in sympathy with wheat. Closing trades on corn were ½ to ⅝ cent lower and oats lost ⅛ to ⅝ cent. Rye was down ⅛ to ⅜ cent. Soy beans fell 1⅜ to 3⅜ cents.

A corn crop of 2,532,000,000 bushels, or 8 million more than was forecast by the department of agriculture a month ago, was indicated by the average of estimates by four statisticians. The crop compares with 2,449,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Their average soy bean crop estimate was 111 million bushels.

Upholstery Fabric Prices Stabilized by Agreement

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Leon Henderson, price administrator, said tonight that prices of furniture upholstery fabric had been stabilized by voluntary agreement of a majority of producers, under which prices until Nov. 10 will not exceed those prevailing Sept. 10. Manufacturers may request price increases up to 5 per cent, however, and such requests will be acted on individually.

Ford Shows Its 1942 Models



A 1942 Ford super de luxe sedan-coupe. The new models are offered with either an eight or a six cylinder engine.

On Display Today

The 1942 Ford automobiles will be introduced to the public today by dealers thruout the Chicago area. Presenting entirely new styling, the cars are offering the long heralded new six cylinder engine as well as the V-8 which Ford has featured for many years. Both the six and the eight produce 90 horse power.

The 1942 models present a new frontal design dominated by a low wide grille of bright metal. Headlamps and auxiliary lamps are recessed into the front of wider fenders.

One of the main engineering advances is a softer and more stable ride. The tread—width between the wheels—has been widened 2¼ inches at the front and 1¾ inches at the rear. Steering, operation of the gearshift, and the hydraulic braking have been made easier. And numerous engine refinements have been made to improve acceleration and fuel economy. The exhaust system has been streamlined to enable faster disposal of exhaust gases, thereby reducing back pressure.

Three lines of cars are offered—the Super De Luxe, the De Luxe, and the Special. The latter is equipped only with the six cylinder engine.

Northwest Airlines Shows September Passenger Gain

AHRENS DETAILS CADILLAC SALES PLANS FOR 1942

Details of sales plans for the 1942 Cadillacs were outlined to several hundred Chicago area dealers and salesmen at a meeting in the Drake hotel yesterday by D. E. Ahrens, general sales manager of the General Motors corporation, Cadillac division. He told the group that the public is in for two surprises from the automobile industry this fall. The first is the speed with which the industry is meeting the armament emergency. The second is the quality of its new models.

D. E. Ahrens.

Commenting on the sales outlook, he said:

"Frankly, we admit many customers bought 1941 models who under more stable conditions would have awaited the new models. The future effect of this borrowed buying power is not clear. Altho we can't honestly expect it, in view of government restrictions, there is a possibility of too many automobiles."

COURT DECLINES TO KILL CHARGES ON SLUSH FUNDS

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 2 (AP).—Federal District Judge Charles G. Briggle today denied a motion to quash an indictment charging the Illinois-Iowa Power company, the Missouri Power and Light company and three executives with contributing at least $77,000 to Illinois political campaigns from secret slush funds.

Judge Briggle made no comment in overruling demurrers and ordering that the indictment be brought to trial. He directed Court Clerk G. W. Schwaner to set an early date for arraignment of defendants in the case.

The three executives, charged with violating the 1935 public utility holding company act and the federal conspiracy statute, are James D. Mortimer of Portland, Me., former president of the North American company, giant holding system which controled both of the indicted firms; Henry L. Hanley of Chicago, chairman of the board of Illinois-Iowa and a vice president of the Missouri Power and Light company; and Aura C. Hall of Decatur, Ill., Illinois-Iowa vice president.

STRIKES HAMPER ARMY, SHIP AND AIRPLANE PLANTS

Ordnance Clerks, Welders and Others Quit Jobs.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Work on airplane armor, ships, and a new army ordnance plant was delayed yesterday by strikes.

Protesting that negotiations on a new contract had been unduly prolonged, members of the CIO United Automobile Workers walked out at the Waverly Terminal plant of Breeze Corporations, Inc., Elizabeth, N. J. The company has contracts for 18 million dollars in airplane armor.

After 600 men of the night shift quit, a union spokesman said they were asking a minimum of 75 cents an hour with increases of 10 to 15 cents in higher classifications.

Three Yards Affected.

Three Gulf coast shipyards were affected by labor disputes. Members of the CIO industrial union of marine and shipbuilding workers walked out at two yards of the Alabama Drydock and Shipbuilding company, Mobile, contending the management had violated its contract with the union. Altho union spokesmen said 2,500 of 4,500 employés had walked out, a management representative said the number was far less.

At Pascagoula, Miss., several hundred AFL welders, for the second day, remained away from their jobs at the Ingalls Shipbuilding plant in a dispute over wage scales.

Construction work on the government's 32 million dollar Plum Brook ordnance plant was slowed when welders, steamfitters and iron workers declined to pass a picket line of striking AFL clerks.

Protest Overtime Decision.

The clerks—time checkers and tool checkers—struck Wednesday protesting a ruling by the quartermaster general's office that they were not entitled to overtime for work in excess of 40 hours a week.

Settlement of the dispute was reached late in the day when union members voted to return to work today after an Office of Production Management representative said their demands would be mediated.

In Cleveland members of an unaffiliated union walked out of four plants of the Cleveland Graphite Bronze company, contending the company was "stalling" on wage increase negotiations.

In Pittsburgh, Pa., operations of eight principal hotels came almost to a standstill because of a walkout by 2,400 service employés.

The defense mediation board set a hearing for next Tuesday in Washington on the strike of the packing house workers organizing committee [CIO] at three Chicago packing houses, the P. Brennan company, Illinois Meat Packing company, and Agar Packing and Provision company.

New Company Takes Over Chicago Venetian Blind

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

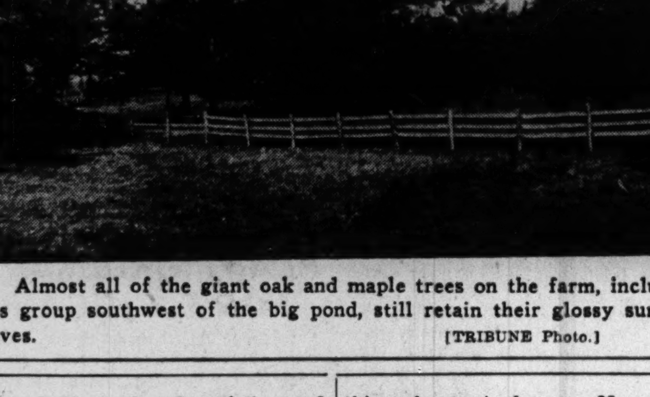
By GAIL COMPTON

Hogs Lose Bathtub.

October 2, 1941.

THE hogs at the Du Page county farm are to be deprived of one of their greatest sources of comfort—their bathtub. When the men were examining the big grain crib to see if everything was in order for storing the corn, they discovered that the hogs had built a tremendous wallow near the entrance to the crib. It was almost impossible to drive a wagon or truck up to the door.

As a result, the pigs' bathtub has been drained and will be refilled with dirt or gravel. The hole measured 40 feet long, 12 feet wide, and 1½ feet deep. All summer the hogs have rooted in this spot to get a cool place to lie. Rains have washed into the pit, and the hogs worked up a mud bath that would be the envy of any beauty parlor.



Almost all of the giant oak and maple trees on the farm, including this group southwest of the big pond, still retain their glossy summer leaves. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

New Drainage System.

The wallow is near the concrete feeding platform in the cattle lot. Water from the cattle tank has run down the sloping platform into the ground, making it soft and easy to root up. In addition, the porkers' wooden feeding box is nearby, forming another incentive to dig.

To make sure there would be no repetition of this excavating, a large tile was sunk at the edge of the concrete platform to catch the runoff water. The tile, 20 inches across the top and 27 inches long, was sunk in an upright position and an iron grating was placed over its mouth. This tile is large enough to handle a considerable flow of water.

From the upright tile a series of smaller tiles were laid underground thru the wallow and out into a nearby road. Along the edge of the road, about 2½ feet below the surface, is an old line of tile that serves to take care of rains washing down the road. The new tiling was joined with this one to form a continuous drainage system more than 100 yards long.

Hogs Are Still Happy.

Altho their wallow has been taken away from them, the pigs do not seem to miss their daily bath. One reason is that chilly weather keeps them comfortable and they do not feel the need of a cool mud pack.

Most important, however, is the fact that the sows are busy taking care of their fall batch of offspring and have not had any time for wallowing. Several days after three litters arrived things began to happen. Now there are only 16 new pigs where once there were 26.

One of the young sows died of an abscessed liver in spite of veterinary treatment and all 10 of her pigs were lost thru starvation. Eight pigs from another litter failed to get an adequate food supply from their mother and now are being hand-fed. At first they were fed from a bottle. After having their heads dunked once in a pan containing a quart and a half of milk mixed with 6 ounces of sugar they learned to drink the milk and now are quite at home in a trough. At meal times they ambush the man who brings their food and all but upset him trying to be the first to get the milk.

READJUSTMENT.

What are the general provisions of the Colorado and Southern railway's plan for debt readjustment?—B. E.

Answer: Under the railway's plan for voluntary readjustment of debt, dated Sept. 10, 1941, fixed charges would be reduced, nearby debt maturities extended and any increased earnings applied to debt reduction. Reconstruction Finance corporation, principal creditor of the road, has agreed to take part in the cut of fixed charges, provided approval of the plan can be obtained from 85 per cent of general mortgage bondholders.

In its offer, the railway announced it would not have funds to meet the Nov. 1 interest on the general mortgage issue. Under the plan, owners of $20,000,000 general mortgage 4½s, series A, would be asked to reduce interest rate to 4 per cent and accept fixed interest of 1½ per cent and contingent interest of 2½ per cent. The RFC, which holds $27,443,200 of 4½ per cent refunding bonds, has agreed to accept fixed interest of 2½ per cent and contingent interest of 1½ per cent.

SULLIVAN MACHINERY.

Is the Sullivan Machinery company making money? What about dividends? Where is the stock traded?—O. S. M.

Answer: Profit for the first six months this year was $282,508, or $1.51 a share on 186,774 shares of no par capital stock outstanding. In the same 1940 period, profit was $112,720, or 60 cents a share. In August, the company reported the heaviest backlog of unfilled orders in its history. Profit last year was $564,487, or $3.02 a share, compared with $69,807, or 37 cents, in 1939 and a loss of $659,047 in 1938.

The company paid a dividend of 50 cents on Aug. 25, the first payment since October, 1930. Sullivan manufactures air compressors, rock drills, and other mining machinery. The stock is listed on the Boston Stock exchange and is also traded on the New York Curb exchange.

BONDS CALLED.

When and where are New York Shipbuilding corporation's first 5s of 1946 due for payment? What will be paid for them?—G. D. S.

Answer: This entire issue has been called for payment Nov. 1 at 102½ and interest at the Union Trust company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

RULES MONOPOLY OVER ALUMINUM WAS NOT PROVED

Judge Absolves Alcoa of Sherman Act Liability.

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey ruled today that the Aluminum Company of America had not monopolized virgin aluminum production nor castings as he continued reading his voluminous decision in the government's anti-trust action to dissolve the company. It was his third day of reading the opinion from the bench in the case against Alcoa and 48 co-defendants. He was not expected to conclude his opinion for at least another day.

Finds No Law Violation.

The court previously ruled that there had been no monopoly by Alcoa as to bauxite [aluminum ore], water power, or alumina.

Judge Caffey found that altho Alcoa produced and sold all the virgin aluminum made in the United States until the close of the taking of testimony [August, 1940], the company was innocent of monopolization as defined in section 2 of the Sherman act; and that Alcoa never excluded others from the manufacture of virgin aluminum.

Competitors 'Prosper.'

Discussing the government's charge that Alcoa had monopolized the manufacture of aluminum utensils, Judge Caffey cited figures indicating that from 1934 to 1937 Alcoa manufactured and sold $13,360,000 worth of utensils, against $13,386,380 worth manufactured and sold by others.

He said that seven "comparatively small" competitors, all engaged more or less in the manufacture of cooking utensils, had multiplied their original small investments during periods mentioned in the complaint, had divided millions of dollars in dividends and were prospering.

Hens to Work Harder Next Year, Poultrymen Are Told

More than 250 poultrymen attending the annual convention of the Illinois Poultry Improvement association yesterday in the Morrison hotel heard officials predict that Illinois farms and hatcheries would produce 176 million dozen eggs next year in answer to government officials' calls for increased production. Frank Welch of Lincoln, president of the association, told members that the state's 1942 production would rise 7 per cent.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Sounds Ominous
WHEN I ASKED YOU IF THE WAR DEPARTMENT'S SEARCH FOR BILL RESULTED IN ANY NEWS OF HIM, YOU ANSWERED "YES AND NO!" WHAT DOES THAT MEAN?
IT MEANS THAT THE SEARCHING PARTY LOCATED THE CHARRED REMAINS OF THE PLANE, BUT FOUND NO TRACE OF BILL!
THE NEAREST LANDING THAT COULD BE MADE TO THE WRECKED PLANE IS 150 MILES AWAY!
COULDN'T THEY LAND AND WORK THEIR WAY TO THE WRECKED PLANE?
TAXI

NO! THE COUNTRY'S GOVERNMENT WHERE THIS HAPPENED REFUSES TO PERMIT ANYTHING THAT MIGHT AROUSE THE FIERCE TRIBES WHO LIVE IN THOSE DENSE JUNGLES!
DENSE JUNGLES?
FIERCE TRIBES?
